Birds Getting Individual Care

By JEFF GREER

"If the birds all die, it won't be for lack of tender, loving care," said a woman volunteer worker at the Marin Humane Society Center in Novato.

"Here, meet Charlie. He's my bird." She extended her arms, which held a red-eyed, jittery Western Grebe, swaddled in a towel. His crest flared up like Woody Woodpecker's top-knot in a cartoon film crisis.

"I won't tell you my name," the woman said modestly as she and Charlie moved off to where other volunteers were feeding and caring for the birds.

Hours after the oil spill disaster trapped thousands of waterfowl last Monday, the Marin Humane Center became one of the focal points of the long battle to keep the birds alive until they can be returned to their natural habitat. By Saturday, more than 700 birds had been brought in, according to Mel L. Morse, humane society executive director.

The center's animal control officers, volunteers and men from Hamilton Air Force Base have prepared heated, covered outdoor pens for communal care of the birds. The pens contain shallow feeding pans, small wading pools, and perching logs, set in the sawdust-covered floors.

For nearly every bird placed in the pens, there was a young watcher, anxious over the welfare of his chosen fowl.

Inside the building, large rooms normally used as observation wards for dogs and cats were piled from floor to ceiling with small cages. Each held one or two birds, recuperating from their oily grief.

The cages, Morse pointed out, had been loaned by the Marin County Cat Fanciers Association, which normally used them for its annual shows. The rows of cages were swathed with sheets, blankets and tarpaulins donated by volunteers.

Youngsters shuttled among the cages, caring for birds. "One of mine died; how are yours?" was a message heard several times an hour.

Morse said the mortality rate was only 25 per cent by Saturday noon, but had soared over 80 per cent yesterday morning. However, "only three birds were dead this morning," he said today.

The humane society turned over 125 of its birds to the state Department of Fish and Game before the weekend.

As of this morning, volunteers were caring for approximately 90 birds "and they all seem to be healthy," Morse said.

Officials who participated in bird rescue efforts after the 1969 oil spill off Santa Barbara recalled that the mortality rate there ran three times as high during the first week. The eventual loss ran as high as 95 per cent.

"The trouble is, no one really has any experience in this sort of thing," Morse

Coast Guard: Less Oil Offshore

The Coast Guard reported today that relatively little oil remained offshore of Marin, one week after two Standard Oil Co. tankers collided and one of them spilled approximately 800,000 gallons of heavy oil into the Golden Gate.

Aided by continuing good weather, hundreds of volunteers and hundreds of Standard Oil employees hurried today to finish cleaning up beaches and harbors in Marin County, San Francisco and south along the coast.

Thousands of volunteers toiled through the weekend; their numbers diminished today as they returned to offices or schools. The remaining volunteers and 700 paid workers, assisted by 22 offshore vessels skimming oil, hundreds of pieces of heavy equipment and helicopters, stayed on the job night and day.

College of Marin students, led by biologist Gordon Chan, fanned out over Duxbury Reef yesterday, beginning a painstaking census of marine life left after the oil spill. This, they said they would compare with censuses taken earlier. Chan and the students said first results were encouraging because most of the sea animals seen seemed to be healthy, and nearly as plentiful as usual.

Standard Oil said that as of Sunday, some 399,000 gallons of the oil had been recovered. Early morning fog today made it difficult for Standard's helicopters to pinpoint slicks for the skimmers.

Volunteers were being warned today by health authorities to make sure they have current tetanus shots. Some workers have been pecked by rescued birds; others have been injured on rocks and debris along the beaches.

In the less accessible areas of West Marin, Standard Oil sent workers scrambling down the cliffs to clean up beaches, then used helicopters to airlift small emergency vehicles called "coots." The small rough-terrain vehicles help the crewmen gather containers of oil sand. The recovered oil was being taken out by helicopter for eventual return to the refinery in Richmond, Standard Oil public relations men said today.

Tate-LeBianca Murder Verdicts

BULLETIN

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Charles Manson and three female codefendants were found guilty today of first degree murder of all seven victims in the Tate-LaBianca slayings.

The four defendants took the verdict quietly in a courtroom packed with 20 deputy sheriffs.

Just before he was led out, Manson called to the judge, "We weren't allowed to put on a defense, old man."

Mills: No Funds To Share

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon asked congressional leaders today to give his legislative program "a hearing and vote." But a powerful Democrat, Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, expressed fresh opposition to one of Nixon's priority proposals, federal-state revenue sharing.

Following a two hour meeting with the President at the White House, Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott told reporters that Nixon planned to carry to the people his appeal for revenue sharing and federal reorganization.

"There is a ground swell in the country on revenue sharing," House GOP Leader Gerald R. Ford chimed in.

But Mills, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, which would hold original hearings on revenue sharing, told a UPI reporter on Capitol Hill that he planned to deliver a major speech this week in opposition to the proposal.

"There's no revenue to share," Mills said.

After meeting with the Republican leaders, Nixon sat down before a glowing log fire in his Oval Office with Mills and another key congressman opposed to revenue sharing, Rep. John W. Brynes, R-Wis., ranking minority member of the Ways and Means Committee.

Mills said in the interview that he has not decided whether to hold hearings on revenue sharing. Other observers said hearings, if held, most likely would not take place until late in the year —which would mean putting off until the 1972 election year any possibility of passage.

The joint House-Senate Economic Committee heard more testimony today from state and city officials pleading for help from the federal government to ease their financial woes. Gov. John J. Gilligan of Ohio and Mayor Roman S. Gibbs both said their governments are virtually broke.

They supported the general idea of diverting to state governments large chunks of tax money now going into the federal treasury but said even Nixon's revenue sharing scheme would not be sufficient if it meant simply a rejuggling of some funds already intended for local uses.

Scott said Nixon expressed "the hope and desire this Congress would give a hearing and vote on all his legislative proposals." He said Nixon "considers the total package all equally important."

Sunshine Chases Ice

Many areas of Marin and Southern Sonoma counties reported frost this morning as the temperature fell one or two degrees lower than yesterday's predawn chill. Sunshine soon chased away the ice.

Weather observers said today the low was 29 in Bolinas, 30 in Novato, 31 in Woodacre, 32 in Petaluma, 34 in Mill Valley, 37 in San Rafael and 38 in Sausalito. Highs yesterday reached the mid-60s in most areas.

Federal weather forecasters said tomorrow's temperatures would range from lows in the 30s to highs in the 60s.

FORMAL OIL SPILL HEARING STARTS

Arizona Standard Captain First Witness In Formation Investigation By Coast Guard

By MARY LEYDECKER

SAN FRANCISCO — "I saw a red light off the starboard bow — I immediately knew what it was," the captain of the Arizona Standard said today in describing last Monday's collision of two oil tankers under the Golden Gate Bridge.

In a formal marine board of investigation being conducted by the Coast Guard to determine the cause of the collision which caused a huge oil spill in the bay, Capt. Harry H. Parnell was the first witness. The 46-year-old captain, a hollow-eyed and thin-faced man who has been a ship captain for 12 years, said he had trouble steering the vessel in the gate currents.

The Arizona Standard rammed its sister ship the Oregon Standard, rupturing tanks on the Oregon and spilling some 840,000 gallons. Captain Parnell said that he was cleared by radar as he entered the channel leading into San Francisco Bay at about 1 a.m. He described the visibility, however, as very poor and said he was readily able to see the buoy lights on the port side of the channel but had difficulty seeing the ones to starboard.

There was a tule fog, which the captain said originated on land from cold valley air hitting the waters.

He was having difficulty steering the ship in a flooding current as he came into the channel, he said.

The hearing was to continue with more testimony by Captain Parnell today in a federal courtroom.

The captain of the other ship, Morris E. English, and other ship crew members are also scheduled to

$229.2 Billion Budget Expected

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The budget President Nixon will send to Congress Friday will total a record $229.2 billion — including a deficit of more than $10 billion, White House sources said today.

The $229.2 billion figure compares with a $200.8 billion budget the President proposed one year ago for the current fiscal year. That budget was to have produced a $1.3 billion surplus, but economic conditions worsened and anticipated revenue failed to materialize, forcing Nixon to change his figures in May to about $215 billion, with an expected deficit of $15 billion.

Nixon already has said his budget for the business year beginning July 1 would be an expansionary one — "one that will help stimulate the economy and thereby open up new job opportunities for millions of Americans."

In his state of the union address Friday, Nixon said the new budget would call for the government to spend as though the nation had full employment, in a move designed to attack the highest unemployment in nine years.

The White House also said Sunday the President would hit the road, possibly within the next few weeks, to try to "sell" to the public on two of the major goals unveiled in the Friday address —revenue sharing and reorganization of the federal bureaucracy.

No specific plans were announced but it was understood Nixon is planning to attend four regional Republican meetings, the first one of them in February. It was also

Ugandan Chief Out In Violent Take-Over

KAMPALA, Uganda (UPI)— Heavy fighting involving tanks and armored cars broke out in Kampala before dawn today, and Gen. Idi Amin, the British trained army commander, said he and E. W. Oryema, chief of the country's police force, had seized power "in the interest of the people."

President Milton Obote was out of the country at the time and was due in Nairobi, Kenya, today on his way home from the British Commonwealth Prime Ministers' Conference in Singapore. Members of his government urged him to remain there until the situation is "clarified."

Thousands of jubilant Africans paraded through the streets of Kampala, celebrating Obote's downfall. A radio broadcast said the new government would "cement" friendly ties with all foreign governments.

News of the coup was broadcast by the official Kampala Radio.

Seven persons were reported killed in the predawn fighting in the capital, and a report from Entebbe airport said a shell exploded at the airport termin-

DISTURBANCE AT TUCSON

Police officers used plastic wire as handcuffs when they subdued one of 40 persons arrested Saturday in the third night of disturbances at the University of Arizona in Tucson. Charges against the suspects were written in ink on their foreheads so they could be booked after being taken to jail.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Israeli Plans

Israel plans to accuse Egypt and Jordan of dodging the fundamental issues at the Middle East peace talks but will hold the door open to further negotiations, Israeli political sources said today.

The sources in Jerusalem said this will be the guiding theme of the message the Israeli cabinet authorized Sunday for transmission to U.N. negotiator Gunnar V. Jarring in New York. The message will be drafted by Prime Minister Golda Meir and Foreign Minister Abba Eban.

A communique on the cabinet meeting said Eban, in reporting on the latest developments in the talks, "dwelt on the fact that the Arab notes to Ambassador Jarring refrain from replying to the principal clauses in the (Israeli) proposals which were submitted to Ambassador Jarring during his visit to Jerusalem Jan. 9."

Derail Injuries

BRENTWOOD, N.Y. (UPI) — Authorities said today "criminal tampering" with a switch-box was responsible for a train derailment that injured scores of persons.

At least 43 persons were hurt Sunday when the East bound Long Island Railroad train derailed near this Long Island community.

At least five passengers were trapped under twisted steel while rescuers waited for spilled oil from the diesel locomotive to be cleared away before using their acetylene torches. The last person rescued, Brian Unger, 15, was freed nearly six hours after the derailment.

Warning Asked

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) today proposed that advertisements and packages of phosphate detergents carry a mandatory water pollution warning.

Consumer Advocate Ralph Nader praised the proposal, likening it to the health warning required on cigarette packages.

But the Soap and Detergent Association, representing manufacturers, said it took "strong exception" to the proposal. "The proposed FTC rule ... would raise unnecessary doubts on the part of housewives, and in fact would be misleading," the association said in a statement.

Truman Resting

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Former President Harry S. Truman has been placed on "special liquid diet." But doctors at Research Hospital said this was only to prepare him for some tests early today.

The liquid diet was substituted for Truman's Sunday night meal, according to a hospital spokesman.

Death Sentences

ABIDJAN, Ivory Coast (UPI) —A cheering crowd in a Conakry stadium shouted "Kill them! Kill them!" Sunday when death sentences were announced for 92 persons accused of plotting the abortive Nov. 22 invasion of Guinea.

Sixty of those given death sentences by the Guinean National Assembly sitting as a "revolutionary court" were in custody. The other 32 were sentenced in absentia.

The court, urged on during the trial by President Ahmed Sekou Toure who composed a poem titled "Goodbye to the Traitors," sentenced 72 other persons, including a Roman Catholic archbishop and two West Germans, to life in prison. Conakry's "Revolution Radio" reported the trial results in a broadcast monitored in Abidian.

Manila Plan

MANILA (UPI)— President Ferdinand E. Marcos said today the Philippines will establish its diplomatic and trade relations with the Soviet Union and other Communist countries in the near future.

In his annual state of the nation address to Congress, Marcos said 1971 was the year for the reorientation of the Philippine's foreign policy.

"In foreign affairs, the opening of trade and diplomatic relations with the USSR and with over Soviet bloc countries is only a matter of time," he said.

Grandmother Soon

LONDON (UPI)—Elizabeth Taylor, 39, will become a grandmother soon, British newspapers said today.

They said the wife of her son, Michael Wilding, is expecting a child in August. Michael, 18, and his wife Beth, 19, were married in hippie costume here in October.

Michael, son and namesake of Miss Taylor's second husband, is employed as a photgrapher on the set of his mother's latest movie, Zee and Co.

Countdown Starts

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)— The countdown began today for Sunday's launch of the three Apollo 14 astronauts on the most difficult and costly lunar landing mission yet.

The long countdown started promptly at 9 a.m. EST while Alan B. Shepard, Stuart A. Roosa and Edgar D. Mitchell were in the doctors' office seeking medical clearance in their final major preflight physical examinations.

"We're in good shape," reported a Space Agency official as engineers began work at the oceanside launch pad. Much of today's activity was devoted to electrical checks of the lunar landing craft and installation of starters for the booster rocket's engines.

Paris Meeting

PARIS (UPI)—West German Chancellor Willy Brandt discussed Western European problems today with French President Georges Pompidou at the opening of a two-day summit meeting aimed at eliminating misunderstanding on major foreign policy issues.

Brandt and Pompidou met for an hour at the Elysee Palace and the West German chancellor said afterward he was "very satisfied" with the way things went.

Four Die In Avalanche; Six Escape

SKYKOMISH, Wash. (UPI)— A rumbling avalanche cut a path as wide as a football field down a Cascade mountainside in the pre-dawn darkness Sunday, killing four members of families who had driven up for a weekend of fun in the snow.

Three bodies and six survivors were pulled from a totally demolished two-story cabin in the path of the slide. A 12-year-old girl died in another cabin partially smashed by the snow.

It took a rescue crew more than half a day to dig out two teen-age girls whose parents had been killed by the avalanche. Several others had been pulled out of the snow and debris earlier in the day.

The avalanche smashed into the cabins at the Yodelin ski area east of 4,061-foot Stevens Pass in the darkness shortly after midnight.

Warming temperatures had loosened tons of snow clinging to the mountainsides and numerous slides closed several passes Sunday.

Killed by the avalanche were Mr. and Mrs. Bart Edgars of Seattle, Kenneth Lewis, 10, of Lynnwood, Wash., and Peggy Dean, 12, of Seattle.

The first three were in the larger cabin which was completely destroyed. Trapped for 13 hours in that wreckage were the Edgars' daughters, Debbie, 19, and Cindy, 14.

Also in the cabin were Mr. and Mrs. Billy Lewis, the parents of Kenneth, and their other sons, Mark, 8, and Richard, 5. Mrs. Lewis and Mark were treated and released from the hospital.

Nixon Bumps Spiro From High Fashion

NEW YORK (UPI)—President Nixon has replaced Vice President Spiro T. Agnew as the best dressed statesman on the annual list prepared by the Fashion Foundation of America.

The foundation cited Nixon in announcing the 32nd annual list of best dressed men Sunday.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, considered a Democratic frontrunner for Nixon's job in 1972, was named the best dressed man in government for the list, which was drawn up from recommendations by custom tailors and designers according to the candidates' fashion taste, budget and occupation.

Muskie won the best-dressed spot formerly held by Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz. In noting Muskie edged Sen. John Tunney, D-Calif., for the honor, the Foundation said the Maine senator has "a warm sincerity to his wardrobe which now is in keeping with fashion trends."

Cooking Class Is Announced

Friday morning classes in vegetarian cookery have begun at the Mill Valley Community Recreation Center, 180 Camino Alto, and will continue for 10 more weeks.

The course includes recipes and methods of vegetarian cooking; medicinal values of fruits, herbs and vegetables; how to combine foods for health; important elements missing in the average vegetarian diet and the best sources of protein.

Oleta Burger is teaching the course. Information may be obtained from the Mill Valley Parks and Recreation office.

Viet Forces Leave Highway 4 Area

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—South Vietnamese forces abruptly terminated their operation along Cambodia's Highway 4 today, declared the road open and withdrew their forces, military spokesmen said. The United States, which provided air support for the operation, withdrew its two helicopter carriers.

Phnom Penh, a city unnerved by three nights of terrorist attacks, remained in a state of full alert with fighting reported as close as 12 miles away. Two 122mm Soviet-built rockets were fired at Pochenton airport during the night but fell short and wounded two villagers.

The Vietnamese consulate was evacuated late today when military police captured a youth just as he placed a plastic bomb in a green bag at the front door of the building. The bomb was disarmed. It was the fourth bomb incident in the capital in as many days; Vietnamese ambassador tran van phuoc was slightly injured last Friday when a bomb exploded at his home.

Military spokesman said withdrawng South Vietnamese rangers and armor ran into a brief skirmish late Sunday afternoon at the town of Kampong Trach, 75 miles southwest of Phnom Penh. They reported killing 30 guerrillas and seizing four weapons while losing one dead and three wounded.

Highway 4 leads from Phnom Penh to the port of Kompong Som, site of Cambodia's only oil refinery. The Communists cut it in mid-November, shutting of Phnom Penh's supply of fuel. South Vietnamese were flown in to aid the Cambodians and the United States supported the operation with helicopter gunships and F4 Phantoms.

U.S. involvement in the Cambodian fighting brought loud protests today from Hanoi Radio. It accused the United States of intensifying the "feverish aggressive war" against Cambodia and demanded it stop its "criminal action immediately and unconditionally."

In South Vietnam, the Communists' four-day lunar New Year truce begins at 1 a.m. Tuesday (noon EST) but does not apply to Cambodia and Laos. A U.S. and South Vietnamese one-day cease-fire for Tet begins at 6 p.m. (5 a.m. EST) Tuesday. Tet, ushering in the year of the pig, begins at the stroke of midnight Tuesday.

The South Vietnamese said they killed a total of 179 guerrillas and took 27 prisoners during the 19-day operation that began Jan. 6. Spokesmen refused to discuss the estimate size of Communist forces in the area but Cambodians put the figure at around two regiments

Urine Holds Blood Clot Dissolver

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A substance found in human urine may prove to be the first really effective agent for dissolving blood clots, according to the National Heart and Lung Institute.

Extracted from the urine of prisoners, nuns and military servicemen in clinical tests, the substance, urokinase, was tried on 82 patients suffering pulmonary embolism —blood clots in the lungs.

The patients also received standard anticoagulants, which prevent blood clots from forming and stop their growth but don't dissolve them. Another 78 patients with blood clots in the lungs were treated only with anticoagulants.

"There was a high rate of clinical improvement in both groups," the institute said in a statement. "But objective evidence of improvement ... was more pronounced in the urokinase-treated group."

Urokinase is a protein circulated in the blood and eliminated through the urine. It is believed to activate the body's clot dissolving mechanisms.

Blood clots usually form in the deep veins of the legs or pelvis or in diseased arteries. They may work their way to the heart, brain and lungs where they can cause heart attack, stroke or pulmonary emoblism deaths.

Cleaver Boast On U.S. Entry

LONDON (UPI) —The wife of fugitive Black Panther leader Eldridge Cleaver says her husband could easily sneak back into the United States.

"The United States is a very large country bounded on three sides by water," Kathleen Cleaver said in a brief interview published by the Sunday Times of London.

"It has many mountain ranges and the Bay (sic) of Mexico," she said. "Anyone who wants to enter the United States can do so."

Cleaver said in a CBS Television interview taped in Algiers last year that he would sneak back into the United States to help blacks "take our freedom."

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Israeli Plans

Israel plans to accuse Egypt and Jordan of dodging the fundamental issues at the Middle East peace talks but will hold the door open to further negotiations, Israeli political sources said today.

The sources in Jerusalem said this will be the guiding theme of the message the Israeli cabinet authorized Sunday for transmission to U.N. negotiator Gunnar V. Jarring in New York. The message will be drafted by Prime Minister Golda Meir and Foreign Minister Abba Eban.

A communique on the cabinet meeting said Eban, in reporting on the latest developments in the talks, "dwelt on the fact that the Arab notes to Ambassador Jarring refrain from replying to the principal clauses in the (Israeli) proposals which were submitted to Ambassador Jarring during his visit to Jerusalem Jan. 9."

Derail Injuries

BRENTWOOD, N.Y. (UPI) — Authorities said today "criminal tampering" with a switchbox was responsible for a train derailment that injured scores of persons.

At least 43 persons were hurt Sunday when the East bound Long Island Railroad train derailed near this Long Island community.

At least five passengers were trapped under twisted steel while rescuers waited for spilled oil from the diesel locomotive to be cleared away before using their acetylene torches. The last person rescued, Brian Unger, 15, was freed nearly six hours after the derailment.

Death Sentences

ABIDJAN, Ivory Coast (UPI) —A cheering crowd in a Conakry stadium shouted "Kill them! Kill them!" Sunday when death sentences were announced for 92 persons accused of plotting the abortive Nov. 22 invasion of Guinea.

Sixty of those given death sentences by the Guinean National Assembly sitting as a "revolutionary court" were in custody. The other 32 were sentenced in absentia.

The court, urged on during the trial by President Ahmed Sekou Toure who composed a poem titled "Goodbye to the Traitors," sentenced 72 other persons, including a Roman Catholic archbishop and two West Germans, to life in prison. Conakry's "Revolution Radio" reported the trial results in a broadcast monitored in Abidian.

Manila Plan

MANILA (UPI)— President Ferdinand E. Marcos said today the Philippines will establish its diplomatic and trade relations with the Soviet Union and other Communist countries in the near future.

In his annual state of the nation address to Congress, Marcos said 1971 was the year for the reorientation of the Philippine's foreign policy.

"In foreign affairs, the opening of trade and diplomatic relations with the USSR and with over Soviet bloc countries is only a matter of time," he said.

Warning Asked

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) today proposed that advertisements and packages of phosphate detergents carry a mandatory water pollution warning.

Consumer Advocate Ralph Nader praised the proposal, likening it to the health warning required on cigarette packages.

But the Soap and Detergent Association, representing manufacturers, said it took "strong exception" to the proposal. "The proposed FTC rule ... would raise unnecessary doubts on the part of housewives, and in fact would be misleading," the association said in a statement.

Truman Resting

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Former President Harry S. Truman has been placed on "special liquid diet." But doctors at Research Hospital said this was only to prepare him for some tests early today.

The liquid diet was substituted for Truman's Sunday night meal, according to a hospital spokesman.

Marin Invention Gobbles Up Goo

The prototype of a Marinwood man's invention joined last week's fight against the massive oil slick.

An oil skimmer owned by William R. Bishop was taken through its paces off the Sausalito shore on Monday and, according to Bishop, gobbled up 1,200 gallons of the black goo in short order.

Bishop's device — which received wide attention last spring when first launched — has a capacity of 400 gallons and the inventor said he thrice had to empty the vessel's load into big tank trucks parked along Bridgeway Monday.

Bishop said his odd-looking craft had to retire from the fray when it began to encounter floating wads of straw that shoreline crews threw out to blot up the floating oil.

The two-inch hoses and three-horsepower pumps of the 18-foot-long prototype were too small to swallow the straw. A full-sized oil skimmer such as Bishop wants to see constructed for permanent use in San Francisco Bay would have been able to clean up 40 acres of oil slick an hour, straw and all, Bishop said.

The inventor, who now lives at 86 Grand Paseo, first tested his craft in the Petaluma River last spring. He then was an electrical contractor in Santa Rosa.

Since his invention first was described in the Independent-Journal last April 9, Bishop's idea has come much nearer reality.

He has just completed a $65,000 contract for the Coast Guard, making scientific tests on a scale model of the oil skimmer in the University of California's wave tanks in Richmond.

His design was one of six selected from among 126 proposals made to the Coast Guard last year. Because of the success of his model, Bishop was invited to submit a design for a 40-foot-long oil skimmer that could be packed into a Coast Guard cargo aircraft and flown anywhere there might be a disaster similar to Monday's oil spill in the Golden Gate.

Bishop and his associates sent their airlift-model skimmer design to Coast Guard officials in Washington on Wednesday. The inventor's proposal calls for a $210,000 contract for further testing and production of a working machine. Final decision on the contract is to be made March 22 in Washington, D.C.

Bishop said if the Coast Guard agrees, he plans to build a large testing tank in the Novato area. With it, he will be able to test skimming oils of all viscosities, and chill the water as low as 28 degrees.

The colder the water, the gummier the floating oil, he explained, and the harder it is to pump from the water without jamming machinery.

Bishop has closed his contracting business and formed W. R. Bishop and Associates in San Francisco to develop his invention. He has obtained first registrations for awide range of patents on his invention.

Associated with him are naval architect David J. Seymour of San Francisco, Dr. William C. Webster, wave expert at the University of California, officials of the Tacoma Boat works in Washington, and a large staff of specialists.

Bishop said he was pleased at the Coast Guard attention to his invention, but what he really wanted was to build a permanent vessel for Bay Area use. It would cost $1.5 million, he estimated.

It would feature a flexible combination of pontoons, a rotating paddle wheel, a weir that would remain at oil flotation level regardless of wave crests or troughs, pumps capable of sucking 5,000 gallons a minute from the ocean, and special tanks to separate the oil from the water and store the goo.

Tests have shown the design capable of operating in waves up to 10 feet high, he said.

Demos Elect Pragmatic Chief To Mobilize 1972 Campaign

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The California Democratic Party has taken a turn away from ideology and toward pragmatism to concentrate on the election of its candidates and the defeat of President Nixon in 1972.

Democratic leaders got a good look at three leading presidential contenders at the party's state convention during the weekend. The concensus afterward was that any one of the three would be acceptable philosophically —the main thing was to settle on a winner.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, most leaders agreed, cemented his position as the frontrunner for the party's nomination. Senators George McGovern of South Dakota and Birch Bayh of Indiana also campaigned for potential support in next year's California primary.

Manatt, 34, a close political ally of Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, narrowly upset former Rep. George E. Brown Jr., a longtime Vietnam dove and favorite of the party's liberal wing. The vote after two ballots was 428-418.

"It's a new day in California," declared Manatt, who was Sen. John V. Tunney's Southern California campaign chairman last year and a former executive director of the National Federation of Young Democrats.

"I guess if I make a mark in history it's going to have to be as the greatest loser," Brown told delegates while flashing the "V" peace sign. He lost to Tunney last year in a bid for the Democratic Senate nomination.

Mrs. Medgar Evers of Claremont, widow of the slain civil rights leader and unsuccessful congressional candidate last year, was elected Southern California women's chairman. Cleanor Fowle of Los Altos Hills, sister of Sen. Alan Cranston, was chosen state women's chairman.

Manatt announced the "major priority" of his administration will be "to mobilize the largest force of campaign workers available to insure that the 1972 Democratic presidential nominee carries California and retires Richard Nixon."

In recent years —partly because of the Vietnam War — California Democrats have tended to divide sharply along ideological lines, resulting in bitter intraparty fights. Meanwhile, Republicans unified.

In the future, Manatt told a newsman, "We're going to take a practical approach. We're going to work on how to elect people." This same attitude was voiced by other party leaders who talked privately with Muskie, McGovern and Bayh and listened to their speeches to the 881 delegates.

"All three are qualified to be president. I'm looking for a good candidate," said state Senate President Pro Tem James R. Mills of San Diego. He added that Muskie "has a great personal presence."

Assembly Speaker Moretti said most legislators are "a long way" from commiting their support to any one candidate.

Each of the three presidential aspirants said he will enter the California primary if he becomes formal candidate. So far only McGovern has.

All three criticized increased U.S. air support for Cambodian military activity.

But Bayh received probably the loudest applause Sunday when he declared that, "We can make our streets safe and our homes secure without depriving citizens of a trial by jury and without tapping telephones or photographing peaceful demonstrators or spying on public officials."

The convention adopted a packet of resolutions calling for reduced marijuana penalties, a halt to military spying on civilians, laws to prevent the Defense Department from buying nonunion lettuce and continuation of the California Rural Legal Assistance Program.

The delegates approved proposals to restructure the presidential election process, but delayed to a later date — possibly this spring — action on other party reforms."

Joe Brooks, San Leandro land developer, was elected Northern California chairman, defeating former national committeewoman Ann Alanson of San Francisco, 247-153.

Teacher Raises Due Hearing

The Lagunitas School District board is to consider granting raises to teachers retroactive to July at 7:30 p.m. today at San Geronimo Valley Elementary School.

Supt. Joseph Amato, who negotiated with the teachers, declined to release the compromise solution until the meeting.

Also to be discussed is a request by nonteaching employees for a 6 per cent cost-of-living increase.

Bill To Ban Freeways From Napa Introduced

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation to prevent any freeway through the Napa Valley was introduced today by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael.

Behr's bill would remove from the state freeway and expressway system Highway 29 between the City of Napa and the Lake County line. The state Division of Highways had proposed a new freeway in the valley.

Citing the valley as "one of this nation's great natural resources," Behr said his measure was designed to insure that its "unique vineyards will never be decimated by an oversized ribbon of concrete nor ever be exposed to the increasing danger from auto emissions that a freeway would bring."

Behr said his legislation had the support of the county's supervisors and citizen groups.

Rings Reported Stolen At Home

Two rings valued at about $800 were stolen sometime between Jan. 10 and yesterday from the home of Marvin K. Kleinendorst, 20 Raymond Avenue, San Anselmo, police said today.

Total Rainfall

Weather records in Saturday's Independent-Journal contained a mistake in transcribing data. The total rainfall to date for last year was listed as 39.82 inches; it should have read 38.32.

Marin Invention Gobbles Up Goo

The prototype of a Marinwood man's invention joined last week's fight against the massive oil slick.

An oil skimmer owned by William R. Bishop was taken through its paces off the Sausalito shore on Monday and, according to Bishop, gobbled up 1,200 gallons of the black goo in short order.

Bishop's device — which received wide attention last spring when first launched — has a capacity of 400 gallons and the inventor said he thrice had to empty the vessel's load into big tank trucks parked along Bridgeway Monday.

Bishop said his odd-looking craft had to retire from the fray when it began to encounter floating wads of straw that shoreline crews threw out to blot up the floating oil.

The two-inch hoses and three-horsepower pumps of the 18-foot-long prototype were too small to swallow the straw. A full-sized oil skimmer such as Bishop wants to see constructed for permanent use in San Francisco Bay would have been able to clean up 40 acres of oil slick an hour, straw and all, Bishop said.

The inventor, who now lives at 86 Grand Paseo, first tested his craft in the Petaluma River last spring. He then was an electrical contractor in Santa Rosa.

Since his invention first was described in the Independent-Journal last April 9, Bishop's idea has come much nearer reality.

He has just completed a $65,000 contract for the Coast Guard, making scientific tests on a scale model of the oil skimmer in the University of California's wave tanks in Richmond.

His design was one of six selected from among 126 proposals made to the Coast Guard last year. Because of the success of his model, Bishop was invited to submit a design for a 40-foot-long oil skimmer that could be packed into a Coast Guard cargo aircraft and flown anywhere there might be a disaster similar to Monday's oil spill in the Golden Gate.

Bishop and his associates sent their airlift-model skimmer design to Coast Guard officials in Washington on Wednesday. The inventor's proposal calls for a $210,000 contract for further testing and production of a working machine. Final decision on the contract is to be made March 22 in Washington, D.C.

Bishop said if the Coast Guard agrees, he plans to build a large testing tank in the Novato area. With it, he will be able to test skimming oils of all viscosities, and chill the water as low as 28 degrees.

The colder the water, the gummier the floating oil, he explained, and the harder it is to pump from the water without jamming machinery.

Bishop has closed his contracting business and formed W. R. Bishop and Associates in San Francisco to develop his invention. He has obtained first registrations for awide range of patents on his invention.

Associated with him are naval architect David J. Seymour of San Francisco, Dr. William C. Webster, wave expert at the University of California, officials of the Tacoma Boat works in Washington, and a large staff of specialists.

Bishop said he was pleased at the Coast Guard attention to his invention, but what he really wanted was to build a permanent vessel for Bay Area use. It would cost $1.5 million, he estimated.

It would feature a flexible combination of pontoons, a rotating paddle wheel, a weir that would remain at oil flotation level regardless of wave crests or troughs, pumps capable of sucking 5,000 gallons a minute from the ocean, and special tanks to separate the oil from the water and store the goo.

Tests have shown the design capable of operating in waves up to 10 feet high, he said.

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The California Democratic Party has taken a turn away from ideology and toward pragmatism to concentrate on the election of its candidates and the defeat of President Nixon in 1972.

Democratic leaders got a good look at three leading presidential contenders at the party's state convention during the weekend. The concensus afterward was that any one of the three would be acceptable philosophically —the main thing was to settle on a winner.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, most leaders agreed, cemented his position as the frontrunner for the party's nomination. Senators George McGovern of South Dakota and Birch Bayh of Indiana also campaigned for potential support in next year's California primary.

Manatt, 34, a close political ally of Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, narrowly upset former Rep. George E. Brown Jr., a longtime Vietnam dove and favorite of the party's liberal wing. The vote after two ballots was 428-418.

"It's a new day in California," declared Manatt, who was Sen. John V. Tunney's Southern California campaign chairman last year and a former executive director of the National Federation of Young Democrats.

"I guess if I make a mark in history it's going to have to be as the greatest loser," Brown told delegates while flashing the "V" peace sign. He lost to Tunney last year in a bid for the Democratic Senate nomination.

Sex Bias Suit Wins Rehearing Order

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Supreme Court instructed a lower federal court today to take a closer look at a key test case involving allegations of job-hiring discrimination against women with small children.

In an unsigned opinion, the Court returned to the district level the claim of an Orlando, Fla., woman who contended that her civil rights were violated when a factory refused to hire her because she was the mother of pre-school children.

At issue is a provision of the 1964 Civil Rights Act banning sex discrimination in private employment practices. In returning the case for further consideration, the Court said the record at this point was insufficient to decide the important issues involved.

The test case was initiated by Mrs. Ida Phillips, who was refused employment as an assembly-trainee in the Orlando plant of the Martin Marietta Corp.

In other actions, the Court:

—Rejected a challenge to a California law making it an offense to willfully obstruct a policeman in discharge of his duties.

The case was brought to the high court by Willie James McGee, who was sentenced to 90 days in jail in Santa Cruz County Superior Court for his part in an incident at Santa Cruz beach on Aug. 8, 1969.

McGee was also placed under arrest when, in an attempt to learn what was going on, he placed both hands on the chest of an officer.

The appeal contended that the law used against McGee is unconstitutionally vague.

—Struck down a Wisconsin law which blocks changes of location of jury trials in misdemeanor cases. By an 8-1 vote, the justices said the Rev. James E. Groppi, militant Milwaukee priest, was entitled to further consideration at the state level of his conviction of charges of violating a curfew ordinance during 1968 civil rights demonstrations in Milwaukee.

—Agreed to rule this term whether a 50-year-old court order prevents Greyhound Corp. from continuing its control over Armour & Co., the nation's second largest meatpacker.

—Let stand a lower court ruling that E. I. duPont deNemours & Co., has the legal right to sue two aerial photographers on claims they were stealing trade secrets by taking pictures of a plant being constructed in Beaumont, Tex.

In the case of Mrs. Phillips, the Justice Department supported her legal claims.

Her attorneys argued that Martin Marietta discriminated against her because the firm hired men with pre-school children.

During arguments, an attorney for the company denied such a policy existed. The record in the case was skimpy because U.S. District Judge George C. Young of Orlando rejected Mrs. Phillips' complaint on legal grounds without full presentation of the facts. He was upheld by the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Today's opinion said the appeals court was wrong in reading the law as permitting one hiring policy for women and another for men with preschool children.

But it said such conflicting family obligations could be the basis for an "occupational qualification" necessary to the operation of the business. An exemption to this effect is contained in the law.

Justice Thurgood Marshall in a separate opinion disagreed that a showing that some women have greater family responsibilities in such circumstances could be the basis for the exemption.

"I fear ... the Court has fallen into the trap of assuming that the act permits ancient canards about the proper role of women to be a basis for discrimination," Marshall said. "Congress ... sought just the opposite result."

"When performance characteristics of an individual are involved, even when parental roles are concerned, employkment opportunity may be limited only by employment criteria that are neutral as to the sex of the applicant."

expected Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and other top White House officials would take the trail to promote Nixon's plans.

Sen. Robert J. Dole of Kansas, Republican national chairman, said Sunday the President intends to make his legislative proposals a major issue in the 1972 election campaign.

"If the Democratic Congress turns it down, the people will have to judge," Dole said after Sunday's White House worship service.

But Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and House Speaker Carl Albert both predicted stiff congressional opposition to Nixon's state of the union proposals.

Nixon proposed the federal government hand out to state and local governments $16 billion, including $6 billion in new funds, on a generally no-strings-attached basis. He also proposed that seven cabinet-level government departments be combined, on the basis of function and purpose, into four new super agencies.

Mansfield said Sunday the President's legislative package is "so far -sweeping, so far-reaching that it's going to take more than one session of Congress." Albert added "it will be difficult to pass. I'm sure the President is under no illusions about that."

OIL

Some 90 surviving birds still are being cared for at the Marin Humane Society headquarters in Novato; some 700 birds are at the San Francisco Zoo under the auspices of the state Department of Fish and Game and Standard Oil.

Public concern over the oil problem and the plight of birds and wildlife still was at a high pitch today. The Save The Birds switchboard in San Rafael, a volunteer service of the Intercity Telephone Answering Service, said it was "so busy we don't know whether we're coming or going." Volunteers still were being asked to call the switchboard, the Marin Ecology Center in Mill Valley or the National Audubon Society headquarters on Richardson Bay, before going to the beaches. The information centers were maintaining up-to-date data on which areas need volunteers.

Many volunteers who found they weren't needed for physical assistance over the weekend, turned to fund raising to help the cause. Clerin W. Zumwalt, naturalist for the Audubon Canyon Ranch in West Marin, said today that 60 youngsters from a San Francisco school showed up at the ranch, found they could not be given tasks, and passed the hat among themselves, leaving what money they had.

Students of Henry C. Hall School, Larkspur, and most of the high schools in Central and Southern Marin have done likewise.

The concern over the oil spill problem was echoed in Washington. Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, reported that the Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee would hold hearings on the oil spill impact and needed legislation, as soon as organization of the new Congress is completed this week.

Mailliard also said a subcommittee of the House group would visit the Bay Area to investigate the circumstances of the collision between the two tankers.

Citizens Report Before Board

The San Rafael Board of Education is to hear a progress report from the citizens advisory committee at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at the district office.

The board will also receive the auditor's report for 1969-70 and consider approving it.

Cash Registers Reported Stolen

Two cash registers valued at $700 each and $100 change were stolen Saturday night before 11 p.m. from Hamby's Restaurant, 600 Miller Avenue, Mill Valley, police reported today.

The burglar apparently gained entrance through an unlocked door, police said.

PAUL R. CIAMPI
New chamber president

Chamber Offered Advice

The Chamber of Commerce should become an organization for service to the community by insisting on esthetic development.

The occasion was the San Rafael Chamber's 51st Annual dinner and installation Saturday night at Holiday Inn.

Hay also showed a film on The Weathermen, loaned by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, reported Robert Nelson, chamber manager.

Hay said he expected the underground organization to seek to disrupt the Angela Davis trial, Nelson reported.

Paul R. Ciampi was installed as the new president; Jack E. Bucknum, vice president; Alton E. Cox, vice president; Larry P. Biancalana, past president and Ronald P. Studen, treasurer.

Certificates of appreciation were given to retiring board members. Chairmen and vice chairmen of the standing committees were named.

HEARING

A battery of almost two dozen lawyers was present in the courtroom today representing various officers as well as Standard Oil Co., but Captain Joseph E. Gould, presiding officer at the hearing, ruled again that an attorney for two conservation groups could not participate in the hearing.

He told James Penrod, who said he represented the Sierra Club and the Save San Francisco Bay Association, that he could, however, submit written questions to the three-man investigating board.

The Sierra Club said it planned on submitting a list of 28 questions, including queries about Standard Oil's ship operations in foul weather, their equipment and whether it was true "that a master (of a ship) is under pressure to sail if it is at all possible and keep port time to a minimum?"

The club also asked if the oil company has done anything to prevent a recurrence of the disaster.

Captain Gould said that the hearing was being held to determine if there was any willful violation of law or incompetence which contributed to the disaster.

Three Arrested In Possession Of Stolen Property

Three Michigan youths were held in lieu of $625 bail today in Marin County Jail on suspicion of possessing stolen property. They were arrested in a Mill Valley motel Saturday.

To appear in Marin Municipal Court today were Barbara Jean Bozanich, 18, of Allen Park, Mich., and James Lee Kellams, 20, and Delilah Alice Ridley, 19, both of Brighton, Mich.

Mill Valley police said they searched the trio's room at the Hi Ho Motel, 707 Redwood Highway, and found 19 blank payroll checks and a radio stolen Dec. 19 from the United Supply Co. of Ann Arbor, Mich. Also found was a personal checkbook belonging to a Salinas woman.

UGANDA

al, killing several Africans. Fighting also was reported on the 21-mile stretch of road from Kampala to Entebbe and witnesses said they saw bodies there.

Obote was the second African leader to be overthrown while out of his country. The Ghana army overthrew President Kwame N. Nkrumah on Feb. 24, 1966, while he was paying an official visit to Moscow.

Troops with armored cars surrounded parliament and Obote's residence and fired shots into the air to warn people away. Motorists who were turned back from the areas said the soldiers expressed "anti-Obote sentiments."

Shops and businesses in the capital were shut. The American embassy and British High Commission warned American and British residents to stay home.

Obote ruled the country since independence in 1962. As prime minister in 1966 he deposed Sir Edward Mutesa, a Banti, as president, arrested five ministers and took over the presidency himself. Mutesa went into exile in Britain where he died.

Last year Obote said his government would take 60 per cent control of the shares of key industries in a step which he said represented a "move to the left."

Amin pledged to return the government to civilian rule "as soon as the situation returns to normal." He said he was a "great believer" in civilian rule.

The broadcast said the army acted because Obote packed his government with fellow tribesmen, creating a wealthy elite while the broad mass of the people struggled under huge taxes and rising food prices.

"The rich got richer and the poor got poorer," the broadcast said.

Amin said all political prisoners would be released, including six former cabinet ministers arrested in a 1966 plot to overthrow Obote.

The radio announcer, who identified himself only as "a Ugandan soldier," said the army "has taken over the government because it is totally dissatisfied with Obote's economic policies and corruption and tribalism in the government."

The troops who blanketed the area around parliament and Obote's home fired over the heads of all who approached.

Diplomats said the airport at Entebbe, 21 miles south on Lake Victoria, was closed.

The radio announcement declared a curfew from 6:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The radio bulletin said the new government would seek friendly ties with all foreign governments, but warned other governments to stay out of the Uganda fracas. "Any such attempts will be crushed," the broadcast said.

A British newsman leaving the British High Commission was ordered at gunpoint by a trooper to sit down in the street, then questioned. "Don't think I shall worry about killing you," the soldier said. "Seven people have died at parliament already."

There was no immediate confirmation of the deaths.

Obote, ruler of the former British protectorate since 1962, survived an assassination attempt last October when he was shot in the head.

Another Arrest In Drugs Case

A 25-year-old Kentfield man, arrested in March for alleged marijuana violations, was arrested today on suspicion of possessing dangerous drugs and passing counterfeit notes.

Richard Darryl Smith of 314 Kent Avenue, Kentfield, was booked into Marin County Jail at 1:10 a.m and held for federal Secret Service agents.

Details of the arrest were not available.

Smith is awaiting trial in Marin Superior Court on charges of possessing and selling marijuana. He was arrested last March during a large-scale marijuana roundup in Marin. Seven others were arrested and six seabags full of the weed were confiscated.

Smith is scheduled for trial in March.

BIRDS

stressed.

"We've been warned that cleaning off the oil with detergents will just give you the cleanest dead birds in town. So, we're using mineral oil to clean them, and pouring butter down them to help purge the oil out of their digestive tracts. We're giving them thiamine B vitamins and antibiotics to build up their resistance to disease," Morse said.

The duckbilled species received pans filled with crushed bran and bait fish. Morse said tame mallard ducks were put into the pens to lead the wildfowl to the food.

Several of the bird species cannot eat or drink from deep containers. A Black Point kennel owner donated 200 shallow, papermache feeding dishes he otherwise would have used to feed dogs on trips to shows.

The Air Force loaned two portable forced-air heaters, and a Novato hamburger stand furnished 200 to 300 hamburgers nightly last week for volunteer workers.

Morse said the bird care operation at the Humane Center is largely based on advice from Dr. James L. Naviaux, a veterinarian in Pleasant Hill, Contra Costa County.

Naviaux founded and is director of the National Wildlife Health Foundation. He was active in the Santa Barbara effort, and saved 65 of the 80 birds he brought back to his clinic, he said.

Naviaux said Saturday that the mortality rate from the Bay Area spill was running about 25 per cent to date, based on a check of several bird care centers.

However, the San Francisco Zoological Society claimed that only about 400 of its 1,100 birds had died. The society opened the basement of the zoo's lion house Wednesday.

Standard Oil Co. brought biologist Philip Stanton from Massachusetts to advise on bird care. His ideas differed widely from those of Naviaux and Morse.

Stanton and the California Fish and Game Department recommended cleaning the birds with a biodegradeable detergent, Basic H, segregating them in pens by species, and handling them as little as possible. They were avoiding forced feeding, but called for donation of live brine shrimp and live fish to start the birds' appetites working.

Standard Oil will meet expenses of the San Francisco zoo bird center, the zoological society said. No more volunteers are needed there, society spokesmen reported Saturday.

In Novato, Morse said volunteers first should call to learn when they would be most needed.

Sex Bias Suit Wins Rehearing Order

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Supreme Court instructed a lower federal court today to take a closer look at a key test case involving allegations of job-hiring discrimination against women with small children.

In an unsigned opinion, the Court returned to the district level the claim of an Orlando, Fla., woman who contended that her civil rights were violated when a factory refused to hire her because she was the mother of pre-school children.

At issue is a provision of the 1964 Civil Rights Act banning sex discrimination in private employment practices. In returning the case for further consideration, the Court said the record at this point was insufficient to decide the important issues involved.

The test case was initiated by Mrs. Ida Phillips, who was refused employment as an assembly-trainee in the Orlando plant of the Martin Marietta Corp.

In other actions, the Court:

—Rejected a challenge to a California law making it an offense to willfully obstruct a policeman in discharge of his duties.

The case was brought to the high court by Willie James McGee, who was sentenced to 90 days in jail in Santa Cruz County Superior Court for his part in an incident at Santa Cruz beach on Aug. 8, 1969.

McGee was also placed under arrest when, in an attempt to learn what was going on, he placed both hands on the chest of an officer.

The appeal contended that the law used against McGee is unconstitutionally vague.

—Struck down a Wisconsin law which blocks changes of location of jury trials in misdemeanor cases. By an 8-1 vote, the justices said the Rev. James E. Groppi, militant Milwaukee priest, was entitled to further consideration at the state level of his conviction of charges of violating a curfew ordinance during 1968 civil rights demonstrations in Milwaukee.

—Agreed to rule this term whether a 50-year-old court order prevents Greyhound Corp. from continuing its control over Armour & Co., the nation's second largest meatpacker.

—Let stand a lower court ruling that E. I. duPont deNemours & Co., has the legal right to sue two aerial photographers on claims they were stealing trade secrets by taking pictures of a plant being constructed in Beaumont, Tex.

In the case of Mrs. Phillips, the Justice Department supported her legal claims.

Her attorneys argued that Martin Marietta discriminated against her because the firm hired men with pre-school children.

During arguments, an attorney for the company denied such a policy existed. The record in the case was skimpy because U.S. District Judge George C. Young of Orlando rejected Mrs. Phillips' complaint on legal grounds without full presentation of the facts. He was upheld by the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Today's opinion said the appeals court was wrong in reading the law as permitting one hiring policy for women and another for men with preschool children.

But it said such conflicting family obligations could be the basis for an "occupational qualification" necessary to the operation of the business. An exemption to this effect is contained in the law.

Justice Thurgood Marshall in a separate opinion disagreed that a showing that some women have greater family responsibilities in such circumstances could be the basis for the exemption.

"I fear ... the Court has fallen into the trap of assuming that the act permits ancient canards about the proper role of women to be a basis for discrimination," Marshall said. "Congress ... sought just the opposite result."

"When performance characteristics of an individual are involved, even when parental roles are concerned, employkment opportunity may be limited only by employment criteria that are neutral as to the sex of the applicant."

BUDGET

expected Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and other top White House officials would take the trail to promote Nixon's plans.

Sen. Robert J. Dole of Kansas, Republican national chairman, said Sunday the President intends to make his legislative proposals a major issue in the 1972 election campaign.

"If the Democratic Congress turns it down, the people will have to judge," Dole said after Sunday's White House worship service.

But Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and House Speaker Carl Albert both predicted stiff congressional opposition to Nixon's state of the union proposals.

Nixon proposed the federal government hand out to state and local governments $16 billion, including $6 billion in new funds, on a generally no-strings-attached basis. He also proposed that seven cabinet-level government departments be combined, on the basis of function and purpose, into four new super agencies.

Mansfield said Sunday the President's legislative package is "so far -sweeping, so far-reaching that it's going to take more than one session of Congress." Albert added "it will be difficult to pass. I'm sure the President is under no illusions about that."

OIL

Some 90 surviving birds still are being cared for at the Marin Humane Society headquarters in Novato; some 700 birds are at the San Francisco Zoo under the auspices of the state Department of Fish and Game and Standard Oil.

Public concern over the oil problem and the plight of birds and wildlife still was at a high pitch today. The Save The Birds switchboard in San Rafael, a volunteer service of the Intercity Telephone Answering Service, said it was "so busy we don't know whether we're coming or going." Volunteers still were being asked to call the switchboard, the Marin Ecology Center in Mill Valley or the National Audubon Society headquarters on Richardson Bay, before going to the beaches. The information centers were maintaining up-to-date data on which areas need volunteers.

Many volunteers who found they weren't needed for physical assistance over the weekend, turned to fund raising to help the cause. Clerin W. Zumwalt, naturalist for the Audubon Canyon Ranch in West Marin, said today that 60 youngsters from a San Francisco school showed up at the ranch, found they could not be given tasks, and passed the hat among themselves, leaving what money they had.

Students of Henry C. Hall School, Larkspur, and most of the high schools in Central and Southern Marin have done likewise.

The concern over the oil spill problem was echoed in Washington. Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, reported that the Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee would hold hearings on the oil spill impact and needed legislation, as soon as organization of the new Congress is completed this week.

Mailliard also said a subcommittee of the House group would visit the Bay Area to investigate the circumstances of the collision between the two tankers.

Chamber Offered Advice

The Chamber of Commerce should become an organization for service to the community by insisting on esthetic development.

John T. Hay, executive vice president of the California Chamber of Commerce, offered that advice Saturday to the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce.

The occasion was the San Rafael Chamber's 51st Annual dinner and installation Saturday night at Holiday Inn.

Hay also showed a film on The Weathermen, loaned by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, reported Robert Nelson, chamber manager.

Hay said he expected the underground organization to seek to disrupt the Angela Davis trial, Nelson reported.

Paul R. Ciampi was installed as the new president; Jack E. Bucknum, vice president; Alton E. Cox, vice president; Larry P. Biancalana, past president and Ronald P. Studen, treasurer.

Certificates of appreciation were given to retiring board members. Chairmen and vice chairmen of the standing committees were named.

A battery of almost two dozen lawyers was present in the courtroom today representing various officers as well as Standard Oil Co., but Captain Joseph E. Gould, presiding officer at the hearing, ruled again that an attorney for two conservation groups could not participate in the hearing.

He told James Penrod, who said he represented the Sierra Club and the Save San Francisco Bay Association, that he could, however, submit written questions to the three-man investigating board.

The Sierra Club said it planned on submitting a list of 28 questions, including queries about Standard Oil's ship operations in foul weather, their equipment and whether it was true "that a master (of a ship) is under pressure to sail if it is at all possible and keep port time to a minimum?"

The club also asked if the oil company has done anything to prevent a recurrence of the disaster.

Captain Gould said that the hearing was being held to determine if there was any willful violation of law or incompetence which contributed to the disaster.

Citizens Report Before Board

The San Rafael Board of Education is to hear a progress report from the citizens advisory committee at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at the district office.

The board will also receive the auditor's report for 1969-70 and consider approving it.

Cash Registers Reported Stolen

Two cash registers valued at $700 each and $100 change were stolen Saturday night before 11 p.m. from Hamby's Restaurant, 600 Miller Avenue, Mill Valley, police reported today.

The burglar apparently gained entrance through an unlocked door, police said.

Three Arrested In Possession Of Stolen Property

Three Michigan youths were held in lieu of $625 bail today in Marin County Jail on suspicion of possessing stolen property. They were arrested in a Mill Valley motel Saturday.

To appear in Marin Municipal Court today were Barbara Jean Bozanich, 18, of Allen Park, Mich., and James Lee Kellams, 20, and Delilah Alice Ridley, 19, both of Brighton, Mich.

Mill Valley police said they searched the trio's room at the Hi Ho Motel, 707 Redwood Highway, and found 19 blank payroll checks and a radio stolen Dec. 19 from the United Supply Co. of Ann Arbor, Mich. Also found was a personal checkbook belonging to a Salinas woman.

al, killing several Africans. Fighting also was reported on the 21-mile stretch of road from Kampala to Entebbe and witnesses said they saw bodies there.

Obote was the second African leader to be overthrown while out of his country. The Ghana army overthrew President Kwame N. Nkrumah on Feb. 24, 1966, while he was paying an official visit to Moscow.

Troops with armored cars surrounded parliament and Obote's residence and fired shots into the air to warn people away. Motorists who were turned back from the areas said the soldiers expressed "anti-Obote sentiments."

Shops and businesses in the capital were shut. The American embassy and British High Commission warned American and British residents to stay home.

Obote ruled the country since independence in 1962. As prime minister in 1966 he deposed Sir Edward Mutesa, a Banti, as president, arrested five ministers and took over the presidency himself. Mutesa went into exile in Britain where he died.

Last year Obote said his government would take 60 per cent control of the shares of key industries in a step which he said represented a "move to the left."

Amin pledged to return the government to civilian rule "as soon as the situation returns to normal." He said he was a "great believer" in civilian rule.

The broadcast said the army acted because Obote packed his government with fellow tribesmen, creating a wealthy elite while the broad mass of the people struggled under huge taxes and rising food prices.

"The rich got richer and the poor got poorer," the broadcast said.

Amin said all political prisoners would be released, including six former cabinet ministers arrested in a 1966 plot to overthrow Obote.

The radio announcer, who identified himself only as "a Ugandan soldier," said the army "has taken over the government because it is totally dissatisfied with Obote's economic policies and corruption and tribalism in the government."

The troops who blanketed the area around parliament and Obote's home fired over the heads of all who approached.

Diplomats said the airport at Entebbe, 21 miles south on Lake Victoria, was closed.

The radio announcement declared a curfew from 6:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The radio bulletin said the new government would seek friendly ties with all foreign governments, but warned other governments to stay out of the Uganda fracas. "Any such attempts will be crushed," the broadcast said.

A British newsman leaving the British High Commission was ordered at gunpoint by a trooper to sit down in the street, then questioned. "Don't think I shall worry about killing you," the soldier said. "Seven people have died at parliament already."

There was no immediate confirmation of the deaths.

Obote, ruler of the former British protectorate since 1962, survived an assassination attempt last October when he was shot in the head.

Another Arrest In Drugs Case

A 25-year-old Kentfield man, arrested in March for alleged marijuana violations, was arrested today on suspicion of possessing dangerous drugs and passing counterfeit notes.

Richard Darryl Smith of 314 Kent Avenue, Kentfield, was booked into Marin County Jail at 1:10 a.m and held for federal Secret Service agents.

Details of the arrest were not available.

Smith is awaiting trial in Marin Superior Court on charges of possessing and selling marijuana. He was arrested last March during a large-scale marijuana roundup in Marin. Seven others were arrested and six seabags full of the weed were confiscated.

Smith is scheduled for trial in March.

BIRDS

stressed.

"We've been warned that cleaning off the oil with detergents will just give you the cleanest dead birds in town. So, we're using mineral oil to clean them, and pouring butter down them to help purge the oil out of their digestive tracts. We're giving them thiamine B vitamins and antibiotics to build up their resistance to disease," Morse said.

The duckbilled species received pans filled with crushed bran and bait fish. Morse said tame mallard ducks were put into the pens to lead the wildfowl to the food.

Several of the bird species cannot eat or drink from deep containers. A Black Point kennel owner donated 200 shallow, papermache feeding dishes he otherwise would have used to feed dogs on trips to shows.

The Air Force loaned two portable forced-air heaters, and a Novato hamburger stand furnished 200 to 300 hamburgers nightly last week for volunteer workers.

Morse said the bird care operation at the Humane Center is largely based on advice from Dr. James L. Naviaux, a veterinarian in Pleasant Hill, Contra Costa County.

Naviaux founded and is director of the National Wildlife Health Foundation. He was active in the Santa Barbara effort, and saved 65 of the 80 birds he brought back to his clinic, he said.

Naviaux said Saturday that the mortality rate from the Bay Area spill was running about 25 per cent to date, based on a check of several bird care centers.

However, the San Francisco Zoological Society claimed that only about 400 of its 1,100 birds had died. The society opened the basement of the zoo's lion house Wednesday.

Standard Oil Co. brought biologist Philip Stanton from Massachusetts to advise on bird care. His ideas differed widely from those of Naviaux and Morse.

Stanton and the California Fish and Game Department recommended cleaning the birds with a biodegradeable detergent, Basic H, segregating them in pens by species, and handling them as little as possible. They were avoiding forced feeding, but called for donation of live brine shrimp and live fish to start the birds' appetites working.

Standard Oil will meet expenses of the San Francisco zoo bird center, the zoological society said. No more volunteers are needed there, society spokesmen reported Saturday.

In Novato, Morse said volunteers first should call to learn when they would be most needed.

Pepperland Due Permit Hearing

The San Rafael Planning Commission is to consider use permit and variance applications for Pepperland at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at city hall.

Irving B. Litchfield, owner of the building at 721 Francisco Boulevard, and Ben Blatt, proprietor of the rock music hall, are seeking to renew a use permit.

They are also asking exemption from an odinance which would require them to provide 88 parking spaces. The site has only 20.

Plates Broken In Lunchroom

Someone attempting to enter San Jose Junior High School during the past weekend broke five venetian-styled glass plates at the teachers' lunchroom, valued at $100, Novato police reported today.

The burglary attempt occurred between 5 p.m. Friday and 12:30 p.m. yesterday.

Youth Orchestra Will Match Any

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

The best concert heard in more than 10 years of covering the Marin Youth Orchestra directed by Hugo Rinaldi was presented yesterday afternoon in San Rafael High School Auditorium.

Now in its 17th season, the orchestra currently composed of some 80 young people from 16 public and private schools in Marin, as heard yesterday, had to be in my opinion the match of any youth group in the state.

This year it has so many talented young musicians that several can be featured, in addition to the major soloists of the day, in smaller solo parts, and they add to the total strength of the group. But major credit must go to Rinaldi's extraordinary ability to train youngsters and to his conducting finesse and inupiration that could be used to advantage by many an adult orchestra.

The two major soloists, San Rafael High School sophomore Jed Barahal, cellist, and Terra Linda High School sophomore Carol Tomlinson, violinist, were among the best I have heard perform with the orchestra.

Evident right from the opening "La Grande Paque Russe" by Rimsky-Korsakoff was the rich, mature sound of the orchestra with its excellent balance among the choirs of instruments. No mere warmup number, this colorfully orchestrated piece could have been the climax of the program, but for that purpose the young musicians went on to climb the heights of the entire Beethoven Seventh Symphony.

Beautifully performing smaller solo parts in the Rimsky-Korsakoff work were Mary Ellen Weinstein, violin; Jed Barahal, cello; Steve Gordon, clarinet; Nina Walderstein, flute; and Julie Barnes, Harp.

In the first movement of Mendelssohns' Violin Concerto, Carol Tomlinson displayed an amazing poise for one so young. She played with assurance and ease, producing a lovely tonal quality and a smooth flowing legato with perfect control of her bow. She had the technical facility to handle this piece which, though played to death, is still used by world renowned violinists as a show piece.

Jed Barahal was equally impressive in the Variations on a Roccoco Theme by Tschaikowsky. He played with a mature, compelling authority, achieving a warm singing cello tone like that of a contralto. The variations gave him plenty of opportunity to show his technical skill.

In the Beethoven symphony, that Wagner called "the Apotheosis of the Dance," Rinaldi brought out all the ebullience, sparkle and subtlety required to make his strongly rhythmic work exciting. The cello section in the opening of the second allegretto was a marvel of precision and unison.

The auditorium was so packed that the audience might have been more comfortable if two concerts could have been given. Those who were unable to attend this fine concert may hear it in a taped recording by radio station KKHI that will be broadcast on Feb. 6 at 9 a.m.

Plea Slated For Woman In Forgery

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Janice Long of Sausalito is scheduled to plead Feb. 8 to charges that she passed more than $50,000 worth of forged checks in a four-month period.

Miss Long, who gave her address as 25 Crescent Avenue, was arraigned in municipal court here last Tuesday on charges of forging and passing bad checks and forging the seal of a corporation, the Bank of America.

The 21-year-old woman was arrested Jan. 15 after trying to cash a Bank of America check in the name of a 70-year-old woman.

Miss Long said she had an accomplice at the Bank of America who supplied her with checks punched with a victim's name and information from confidential bank files, including a copy of the signature.

She also admitted having a male accomplice who cut the phone lines to each victim's house.

While waiting to plead to the forgery charges, Miss Long is serving a 60-day sentence for prostitution. Wallace P. Douglass, assistant district attorney, said she was sentenced for the morals charge in June 1970, but the jail term was suspended and she was placed on one year of probation.

Her probation was revoked because of the arrest, Douglass said.

Youth Found In Library Booked

A 16-year-old Sacramento youth was booked into Marin County Juvenile Hall on suspicion of burglary after he and a companion were discovered at 7:53 p.m. yesterday in the library at San Rafael High School, police reported.

Police reported that they caught Dana Reed Temme, but that his companion outran them across the football field.

All that was reported missing was some clothing, pens, pencils, and scissors, according to police reports.

Hikers Discover Body Of Missing Ross Woman

The body of Evelyn H. Jones, 72, missing from her Ross home since Jan. 14, was found Saturday in a creek bed near Phoenix Lake by two hikers.

Police said that Peter and Ann Jones of 12 Brookdale, San Rafael, discovered the body at 1:30 p.m. Saturday about 150 feet off the Bill Williams Trail near Phoenix Lake.

Mrs. Jones, who was last seen walking her dog down Lagunitas Road near Phoenix Lake, apparently stumbled and fell down the hill off the trail, according to Bill J. Thomas, deputy Marin County coroner. Her shawl and umbrella were found at the top of the hill.

She was found about three miles from her residence at 22 Bridge Road in Ross. Her dog returned home Jan. 17, three days after she was last seen.

Throughout the week, volunteers from the Sheriff's Marine Patrol the Marin Municipal Water District, the Kentfield Fire Department, local hiking clubs and Hamilton Air Force Base had searched the area between Ross and Phoenix Lake.

A native of Santa Monica, Mrs. Jones spent her childhood in Berkeley but lived in Ross for the last 32 years. She was the widow of Lewis E. Jones of Ross.

Mrs. Jones is survived by her son Thomas W. Jones and her daughter Margaret L. Jones, both of Ross.

Funeral service will be held Tuesday at 10 a.m., Chapel of the Golden Gate National Cemetery, San Bruno.

White Men Seen Deep In Amazon

BRASILIA, Brazil (UPI)— The National Indian Foundaton said Sunday a white-skinned, red-bearded tribe of Indians has been found in the middle of the Amazon jungle.

The foundation said about 500 men of the tribe have been seen so far by Indian agents clearing the way for the new trans-Amazon highway being cut through the jungle. So far, the agents have not seen any of the tribe's women.

They said the tribe, called the Assurini, were light skinned with long earlobes. They have red beards with the tribe's elders cutting their beards in a pear shape.

Borrower Swaps Cars, And Goes

When it comes to swapping cars, there's nothing like using someone else's car. So a San Rafael car dealer discovered yesterday.

A man drove into De Long Chevrolet Co. at 550 Francisco Boulevard about noon driving a 1971 Plymouth. He was wearing a brown jacket, fur cap and gloves. He had long brown hair and sideburns.

The man looked over the stock of cars and picked out a 1968 Mustang which he asked to drive around the block. Then he asked if he could show the car to his wife and would be gone about 20 minutes.

When he did not return, the salesmen became suspicious and called police. Police found that the new Plymouth the man had driven into the lot and left, had been stolen Jan. 20 from Avis Rent A Car in San Francisco.

According to the Department of Labor, 98 per cent of all drycleaning establishments in 1967 had sales of less than $375,000.

Injuries In Accident Fatal To Woman, 78

Maude M. Cochran of Tamalpais Valley died yesterday in a local hospital from injuries received Friday when she was struck by a car as she walked along Shoreline Highway near her home. She was 78.

A native of Missouri, Mrs. Cochran had lived in California and Marin County 23 years, residing at 332 Shoreline Highway. Her husband, James M. Cochran, is a former railroad boilermaker and mechanic and also worked as a truck driver prior to his retirement. The couple celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary in 1963.

Mrs. Cochran was a member of the Mill Valley Rebekah Lodge No. 305 and twice served as noble grand for the lodge. She was also a member of the Tamalpais Valley Methodist Church.

In addition to to her husband, she is survived by a daughter, Mildred Boulware of Tamalpais Valley; a brother, Edgar Holmes of San Rafael and a sister, Elizabeth Dawson of Santa Rosa.

Funeral arrangements were pending today at Russell and Gooch Mortuary, Mill Valley.

Mrs. Cochran was Marin's first traffic fatality in 1971.

Novato Fisherman's Body Found In Thermalito Bay

The body of Ben C. Andrews, 36, of 703 Lamont Avenue, Novato, was found yesterday on the west side of the Thermalito Afterbay in Butte County, where he drowned on a duck hunting trip Nov. 28.

Andrews, an estimator for the federal government, disappeared after he set out in an eight-foot aluminum boat and a storm swept the afterbay.

Butte County undersheriff Richard Stenberg said his body was discovered by a fisherman. It was along the shore about three-quarters of a mile from where search operations had centered.

Hope for Andrews faded several days after his disappearance when his hat, life jacket, duck decoy and paddles were found in the bay.

Vote By One Retail Union Negates Approval Of Six

I-J SPECIAL REPORT

WALNUT CREEK — Local 1119 of San Rafael and five other Bay Area locals of the Retail Clerks Union yesterday approved a contract offered by supermarket owners, but a seventh local hamstrung their votes.

Contra Costa Local 1179 voted down the offer by a narrow margin, according to John Bacon of the Food Employers Council here.

Since negotiators agreed that unless all locals approve the pact, it would not be binding. Local 1179 negated the votes of the six other locals, Bacon said.

The Food Employers Council was to meet at 2 p.m. today with union negotiators to try to work out the snarl, Bacon said. one alternative is to resubmit the offered contract to the balking local in hopes it will reverse its vote.

Bacon said supermarket owners had proposed a salary increase from $4.01 an hour to $5.26 over a three-year period plus increased pension and health benefits worth more than 25 cents an hour.

City Treasurer Angelina J. Soldavini returned her papers for reelection to that office, the first to file.

Novato Fisherman's Body Found In Thermalito Bay

The body of Ben C. Andrews, 36, of 703 Lamont Avenue, Novato, was found yesterday on the west side of the Thermalito Afterbay in Butte County, where he drowned on a duck hunting trip Nov. 28.

Andrews, an estimator for the federal government, disappeared after he set out in an eight-foot aluminum boat and a storm swept the afterbay.

Butte County undersheriff Richard Stenberg said his body was discovered by a fisherman. It was along the shore about three-quarters of a mile from where search operations had centered.

Hope for Andrews faded several days after his disappearance when his hat, life jacket, duck decoy and paddles were found in the bay.

Youth Found In Library Booked

A 16-year-old Sacramento youth was booked into Marin County Juvenile Hall on suspicion of burglary after he and a companion were discovered at 7:53 p.m. yesterday in the library at San Rafael High School, police reported.

Police reported that they caught Dana Reed Temme, but that his companion outran them across the football field.

All that was reported missing was some clothing, pens, pencils, and scissors, according to police reports.

Vote By One Retail Union Negates Approval Of Six

I-J SPECIAL REPORT

WALNUT CREEK — Local 1119 of San Rafael and five other Bay Area locals of the Retail Clerks Union yesterday approved a contract offered by supermarket owners, but a seventh local hamstrung their votes.

Contra Costa Local 1179 voted down the offer by a narrow margin, according to John Bacon of the Food Employers Council here.

Since negotiators agreed that unless all locals approve the pact, it would not be binding. Local 1179 negated the votes of the six other locals, Bacon said.

The Food Employers Council was to meet at 2 p.m. today with union negotiators to try to work out the snarl, Bacon said. one alternative is to resubmit the offered contract to the balking local in hopes it will reverse its vote.

Bacon said supermarket owners had proposed a salary increase from $4.01 an hour to $5.26 over a three-year period plus increased pension and health benefits worth more than 25 cents an hour.

Within the textile industry steps have been taken to make sure the consumer gets quality and performance for her money, the Apparel Research Foundation reports.

Two File For School Board

Two candidates have filed papers for the San Rafael Board of Education and one city official returned papers, City Clerk Marion A. Grady reported today.

Thomas W. Schalich of 135 Los Ranchitos Road and Donald R. Wellington of 335 Fairhills Drive have filed for two of the three positions open on the April 20 election.

City Treasurer Angelina J. Soldavini returned her papers for reelection to that office, the first to file.

Conversation Over Coffee: The 50-Cent Tax Dollar

"I see by the paper," said the man who was having his morning coffee and doughnuts, "that a dollar today is worth just about three-fourths of what it was 10 years ago."

"That's not right in one area." said his neighbor. "It's worth less than half as much when it comes to paying for government services and schools."

"How do you figure that out?" asked the first man.

"Easy," said the second. "I pay more than twice as much taxes on the same property as I paid 10 years ago, and I don't get any more services for them."

The first man thought that over for a few seconds. "I expect you're right," he said.

"I KNOW I'M RIGHT," said the second man. And then the conversation became different from the tax gripes you usually hear at a coffee house, because the man reached into his pocket and pulled out a piece of paper with a lot of figures written on it. Referring to the paper, he said:

"Ten years ago, Marin County had 140,000 people, San Rafael had 20,000. Now, the county has about 205,000 and San Rafael has more than 38,000. Right?"

"Sounds right," said the first man.

"So the county, to provide services 10 years ago to 140,000 people, had a tax rate of $2.12. This year its rate is $2.575. The city, to serve 20,000 people in 1961, had a rate of 96 cents. This year, with twice as many, the rate is 90.3 cents."

"Whoa!" cried the first man. "That doesn't sound like doubling taxes."

WAIT A MINUTE!" said the second man. "Those are just the rates. During the 10 years, my property has been reappraised three times, and each time the value has been raised. The appraisal now is nearly double what it was 10 years ago.

"Besides that, the county and city together levy less than half the property tax I pay. There are a batch of special districts — mosquito abatement, smog control, sanitation — you name it. And about 60 per cent of the taxes are for schools.

"Ten years ago the San Rafael Elementary School District had a rate of $2.06; now it's $3.345. The high school district rate has gone up from $1.32 to $2.22."

"YEAH, IT'S A SHAME about the schools," said the first man. "The state keeps cutting down its share and loading it onto us property taxpayers."

"I don't know about that," said the second man. "According to the budgets, 10 years ago the elementary district had to raise 51.8 per cent of its money from the property tax, and this year only 41.3 per cent. The high school district has caught it, though — it only had to get 50 per cent from the property tax then and now it has to raise 62.3 per cent."

"Son-of-a-gun!" exclaimed the first man. "That sure isn't the way I've heard it told."

"That's what the school budgets show," said the second man. "Anyhow, my point is that while I'm paying more than twice as much taxes, I'm not getting any more service.

"Maybe the kids are getting better schools, but I'm not too sure of that.

"WHEN IT COMES to paying taxes, the dollar now is worth less than half what it was 10 years ago."

"Do you suppose," mused the first man, "that could be a reason why it's worth only 75 cents for other things? I mean, because government and public services cost so much more?"

"Could be," said the second man.

THE DRUMMONDS

Cranston Resorts To Political Blackmail On CRLA Issue

By ROSCOE AND GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — Democratic leaders in the Senate, aided by some Republican doves, are trying to seize powers which the Constitution assigns to the President.

For a year they have been seeking to restrict the President's constitutional role in foreign policy and undercut his authority as commander-in-chief.

It is evident that Sen. William Fulbright and those Democrats who agree with him are out to reverse the "advise and consent" clause of the Constitution.

Instead of the President having primacy in foreign affairs with the "advice and consent" of the Senate, they are out to transfer this primacy to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee — with or without the advice and consent of the President.

This is bad business. It is bad government, and we believe it will prove to be bad politics.

This is bad enough — but it's getting worse.

WITH THE VISIBLE support of Senators Mike Mansfield, Edward Kennedy and Walter Mondale, Senate Democrats are trying to impose their will upon the domestic side of the executive branch by threatening to block a high appointee unless he will agree in advance to make the decisions the Democrats want him to make.

It is hard to believe, but it's true. Here is the way they have been going about it.

A few weeks ago Gov. Ronald Reagan vetoed a $1.8 million grant of the Rural Legal Assistance Program in California, funded by the Office of Economic Opportunity.

The OEO has the authority to override this veto and its acting director, Frank Carlucci, is up for confirmation before the Senate Labor Committee to succeed presidential counselor Donald Rumsfeld.

AT THIS POINT Democratic Sen. Alan Cranston, who expects he will be opposed for re-election in 1974 by Ronald Reagan, saw a chance to make points against Reagan — and he leapt at it.

Cranston, a member of the committee, instantly took the position that Carlucci should not be confirmed until he revealed how he would deal with the Reagan veto.

Carlucci's answer was:

"It appears that the confirmation of a new director of the OEO is being made to depend upon my making judgments on a governor's veto of one program in his state before having an opportunity to review the evidence.

"I would not be the kind of director the poor deserve to act as their spokesman if I were to start yielding to this kind of pressure to facilitate my confirmation."

CRANSTON'S MANEUVER is political blackmail. It is unethical and probably illegal. If Carlucci overrode Reagan's veto under the circumstances created by Cranston, it would almost certainly prove to be a violation of federal law against making any promise as a condition of getting a job in the executive branch.

If Carlucci yields to Cranston's blackmail, it would play right into the hands of Reagan by enabling him to move to the courts to block the program.

This is obviously not what Cranston wants, but this is what happens when a politician puts partisan, election-politics ahead of everything else.

It seems fantastic that Democratic leaders would let Cranston stamp such a stain on the party and on the Senate. But Kennedy and Mondale spoke up for his ploy as though it were downright smart. And Majority Leader Mansfield seems so preoccupied with foreign affairs that he is letting his troops run loose.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Services District Action Questioned

The public hearing on formation of a community service district of Sleepy Hollow last Tuesday at the board of supervisors reminded me of a hearing at Sleepy Hollow Clubhouse in 1966 on Highway 17. The people asked to be allowed the democratic process of planning on Highway 17, just as they did Tuesday on the community service district. The supervisors' vote Tuesday is evidence of the fact we are locked into voting on a district the general community of Sleepy Hollow has not been allowed due process in planning.

The vote on the board of supervisors seemed to be determined before hearing started, with one supervisor controlling all five votes! Are we supposed to accept this as a proper form of republic government?

Recall Petition Termed Absurd

Gordon Wright's presence on the Reed school board is essential in order to continue the fine start towards a quality education for all pupils in the Reed district.

Mr. Wright's leadership on the board has been exemplified by his distinguished rhetoric, integrity, and intelligence.

'Tax Sharing' False, Unprincipled

Trial balloons are drifting daily out of Washington on the subject of tax or revenue sharing — the re-distribution to the states and their subordinate entities of a portion of the funds collected under federal tax laws.

Who is for this proposal? Nelson Rockefeller, whose "management" has put New York State in such a said financial shape that he needs California dollars to keep afloat. Joe Alioto, who sees this as a way to spend money in San Francisco without taking it from the local citizens, at least not directly where he would get the blame. Many county boards of supervisors, for the same reason. . .

In any case, the premise is false. It is inefficient. It is unprincipled.

Any time a group of bureaucrats is allowed to intervene unnecessarily in the handling of funds, inefficiency results. Why should we pay money into the federal government when they propose to return it to us? Is there any efficiency in sending $100 to Washington and receiving $75 after they deduct administrative costs?

So-called "tax-sharing" is unprincipled, and some time, some how, some where our political leaders should base their actions on principle. Failure to follow principle will bring disaster. Failure to follow principle of living within our means has already brought us to the brink of disaster in the form of domestic inflation.

Under what principle can a budget deficit be "shared" with the states? The U.S. has been running budget deficits for years. Sharing of revenues with the states can only create bigger deficits and feed the fires of inflation. Two years ago the administration was predicting budget surpluses, but now they are thinking that even a big deficit isn't so bad. But, assuming that a surplus can exist, sound principle dictates one or both of two actions: (1) apply it to the reduction of federal debt, and thus liquidate part of the inflationary base; or (2) reduce taxes, resulting in a stimulant to the economy, or the creation of tax resources for the states, or a portion of both. The collection of taxes in excess of its legitimate requirements by any governmental agency is entirely unprincipled.

"Sharing" of federal taxpayers' contributions is the antithesis of returning the control of government to the people. Shall we say: "Power to the People?"

It appears that the Standard Oil tankers, oblivious to all the other needless disasters at sea, remain ignorant of the invention of radar more than 28 years ago. I am glad that I destroyed my Standard credit card. Maybe that will help.

Sheep Turns To Fight Against Corporate Giant

By ERNEST B. FURGURSON

WASHINGTON — How many times have you stood at a street corner or sat in your car waiting for a light to change and been forced to swallow lungfuls of bus exhaust that stings the eyes and sears the windpipe.

And what have you done about it?

Held your breath until the monster passed, or until you crossed the street. Rolled up the car window and turned on the air conditioner, if there was one. Cursed, if you are a sinner. Vowed to get even some way, some day.

You and I and the rest of us are what Murdaugh S. Madden calls sheep. He knows the breed because he used to be one himself.

THE SHEEP syndrome, Madden says, is "getting in the habit of putting up with anything. . . the feeling of walking around as if you can't do a damned thing about what's happening to you."

After suffering from it for 48 years, he was standing on a curb in the federal city one gray December day when two of the evil machines attacked him in succession. He finally had enough.

He took them to court.

His suit in U.S. District Court against the transit company alleges that the drivers and buses did "offensively, rudely and with callous and insolent disregard for defendant's rights commit an assault and battery upon the person of the plaintiff."

He maintained that the buses' "offensive and oily substances and fumes" injured his face, eyes, nose, mouth and clothes, causing "smarting and injury to plaintiff's eyes" and "permanent damage by the intake of said noxious fumes and substances into plaintiff's lungs and respiratory system."

Not only that, he went on. Over a period of time such offenses have caused "inducement and/or aggravation of the sheep syndrome, which has arisen from plaintiff being subjected constantly to such repeated offensive assaults and batteries, past and present, with the accompanying symptoms, inter alia, of frustration and helplessness."

IN OTHER WORDS, Murdaugh S. Madden is a sheep no more.

As a matter of fact, he is much like the incarnation of one of Walter Mitty's finer figments. Workaday, he is a lawyer for the Humane Society of the United States, taking up for helpless animals. Now, of a sudden, he is his own counsel, taking on single-handed a corporate Goliath which all these years not only has been raising fares at will and flatulently polluting the city, but doing it arrogantly.

AND WHY is he asserting himself alone this way, against the legal battalions the transit company is sure to muster against him?

He is aware that there are nationwide organizations at last involved in the antipollution crusade, but their very bigness results in an administrative approach that drags on and on. He wants action now.

Proof that his impatience is firmly based came parallel to his legal action. Here in the capital, buses are a grosser plague than nearly anywhere. There is no rail rapid transit system, and there are droves of tourists who come on school or charter buses or take the local sight-seeing buses. So it has been a sore subject for a long time.

THUS, 16 MONTHS ago a group of George Washington University law students formed the Greater Washington Alliance to Stop Pollution, which comes out (by acronymic license) to be GASP. They filed a formal complaint against bus exhaust with the Metropolitan Transit Authority. Another group, the Metropolitan Washington Coalition for Clean Air, joined their action.

Conservationists Note: Land You 'Save' Is Not Your Own

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

It's easy, especially in Marin, to confuse "saving" a piece of ground from a developer with the first beatitude.

The Save Strawberry Cove Committee shares this confusion.

No matter that the development would be on old fill, that it would not impinge on the cove, and that there are far more valuable properties elsewhere worth preserving. The "let's save it" banner has been unfurled, and any who fail to follow it are suspect of failing to be "real conservationists."

EVERY CRUSADE has its victims, however, and in this case it may be the very cause of the crusaders.

As put by the developer, Paul J. Broman, the committee's court claim that the public has a right to access across the entire parcel will force owners of other undeveloped holdings to fence their property to prevent similar claims from being filed against them.

Vast private holdings in California are open to the public, but such generosity will cease if the public can claim that its free use of these holdings wiped out private property rights. Because of this threat, according to Broman, many large holdings already are being fenced and posted against tresspassers.

This would not appear to be a gain for the public.

STATE WATER officials almost fell off their chairs when Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, casually mentioned he had introduced a bill affecting their beloved water plan. The bill would preserve the Eel, Klamath and Trinity rivers.

"You're not going to take on the whole water project, are you?" asked the anxious officials.

Behr's response could hardly have reassured them. Said Behr: "I always believe that you begin to kill a snake by chopping off its tail."

MARIN'S FORMER state senator, John F. McCarthy of Belvedere, went out of office in style last month by throwing his own testimonial dinner — at $75 a person.

A former member of his staff said that about 125 persons attended, and insisted that its cost barely covered the stiff tab. Must have been delicious.

GOV. RONALD REAGAN'S economy push is readily apparent outside the formerly gleaming white capitol. It used to be washed at least twice a year, but no cleaning has been possible for some 18 months because of maintenance cuts. It looks decidedly crummy.

The first man thought that over for a few seconds. "I expect you're right," he said.

"I KNOW I'M RIGHT," said the second man. And then the conversation became different from the tax gripes you usually hear at a coffee house, because the man reached into his pocket and pulled out a piece of paper with a lot of figures written on it. Referring to the paper, he said:

"Ten years ago, Marin County had 140,000 people, San Rafael had 20,000. Now, the county has about 205,000 and San Rafael has more than 38,000. Right?"

"Sounds right," said the first man.

"So the county, to provide services 10 years ago to 140,000 people, had a tax rate of $2.12. This year its rate is $2.575. The city, to serve 20,000 people in 1961, had a rate of 96 cents. This year, with twice as many, the rate is 90.3 cents."

WAIT A MINUTE!" said the second man. "Those are just the rates. During the 10 years, my property has been reappraised three times, and each time the value has been raised. The appraisal now is nearly double what it was 10 years ago.

"Besides that, the county and city together levy less than half the property tax I pay. There are a batch of special districts — mosquito abatement, smog control, sanitation — you name it. And about 60 per cent of the taxes are for schools.

"Ten years ago the San Rafael Elementary School District had a rate of $2.06; now it's $3.345. The high school district rate has gone up from $1.32 to $2.22."

"YEAH, IT'S A SHAME about the schools," said the first man. "The state keeps cutting down its share and loading it onto us property taxpayers."

"I don't know about that," said the second man. "According to the budgets, 10 years ago the elementary district had to raise 51.8 per cent of its money from the property tax, and this year only 41.3 per cent. The high school district has caught it, though — it only had to get 50 per cent from the property tax then and now it has to raise 62.3 per cent."

"Son-of-a-gun!" exclaimed the first man. "That sure isn't the way I've heard it told."

"That's what the school budgets show," said the second man. "Anyhow, my point is that while I'm paying more than twice as much taxes, I'm not getting any more service.

"Maybe the kids are getting better schools, but I'm not too sure of that.

"WHEN IT COMES to paying taxes, the dollar now is worth less than half what it was 10 years ago."

"Do you suppose," mused the first man, "that could be a reason why it's worth only 75 cents for other things? I mean, because government and public services cost so much more?"

"Could be," said the second man.

Cranston Resorts To Political Blackmail On CRLA Issue

By ROSCOE AND GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — Democratic leaders in the Senate, aided by some Republican doves, are trying to seize powers which the Constitution assigns to the President.

For a year they have been seeking to restrict the President's constitutional role in foreign policy and undercut his authority as commander-in-chief.

It is evident that Sen. William Fulbright and those Democrats who agree with him are out to reverse the "advise and consent" clause of the Constitution.

Instead of the President having primacy in foreign affairs with the "advice and consent" of the Senate, they are out to transfer this primacy to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee — with or without the advice and consent of the President.

This is bad business. It is bad government, and we believe it will prove to be bad politics.

This is bad enough — but it's getting worse.

WITH THE VISIBLE support of Senators Mike Mansfield, Edward Kennedy and Walter Mondale, Senate Democrats are trying to impose their will upon the domestic side of the executive branch by threatening to block a high appointee unless he will agree in advance to make the decisions the Democrats want him to make.

It is hard to believe, but it's true. Here is the way they have been going about it.

A few weeks ago Gov. Ronald Reagan vetoed a $1.8 million grant of the Rural Legal Assistance Program in California, funded by the Office of Economic Opportunity.

The OEO has the authority to override this veto and its acting director, Frank Carlucci, is up for confirmation before the Senate Labor Committee to succeed presidential counselor Donald Rumsfeld.

AT THIS POINT Democratic Sen. Alan Cranston, who expects he will be opposed for re-election in 1974 by Ronald Reagan, saw a chance to make points against Reagan — and he leapt at it.

Cranston, a member of the committee, instantly took the position that Carlucci should not be confirmed until he revealed how he would deal with the Reagan veto.

Carlucci's answer was:

"It appears that the confirmation of a new director of the OEO is being made to depend upon my making judgments on a governor's veto of one program in his state before having an opportunity to review the evidence.

"I would not be the kind of director the poor deserve to act as their spokesman if I were to start yielding to this kind of pressure to facilitate my confirmation."

CRANSTON'S MANEUVER is political blackmail. It is unethical and probably illegal. If Carlucci overrode Reagan's veto under the circumstances created by Cranston, it would almost certainly prove to be a violation of federal law against making any promise as a condition of getting a job in the executive branch.

If Carlucci yields to Cranston's blackmail, it would play right into the hands of Reagan by enabling him to move to the courts to block the program.

This is obviously not what Cranston wants, but this is what happens when a politician puts partisan, election-politics ahead of everything else.

It seems fantastic that Democratic leaders would let Cranston stamp such a stain on the party and on the Senate. But Kennedy and Mondale spoke up for his ploy as though it were downright smart. And Majority Leader Mansfield seems so preoccupied with foreign affairs that he is letting his troops run loose.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Services District Action Questioned

The public hearing on formation of a community service district of Sleepy Hollow last Tuesday at the board of supervisors reminded me of a hearing at Sleepy Hollow Clubhouse in 1966 on Highway 17. The people asked to be allowed the democratic process of planning on Highway 17, just as they did Tuesday on the community service district. The supervisors' vote Tuesday is evidence of the fact we are locked into voting on a district the general community of Sleepy Hollow has not been allowed due process in planning.

The vote on the board of supervisors seemed to be determined before hearing started, with one supervisor controlling all five votes! Are we supposed to accept this as a proper form of republic government?

Recall Petition Termed Absurd

Gordon Wright's presence on the Reed school board is essential in order to continue the fine start towards a quality education for all pupils in the Reed district.

Mr. Wright's leadership on the board has been exemplified by his distinguished rhetoric, integrity, and intelligence.

'Tax Sharing' False, Unprincipled

Trial balloons are drifting daily out of Washington on the subject of tax or revenue sharing — the re-distribution to the states and their subordinate entities of a portion of the funds collected under federal tax laws.

Who is for this proposal? Nelson Rockefeller, whose "management" has put New York State in such a said financial shape that he needs California dollars to keep afloat. Joe Alioto, who sees this as a way to spend money in San Francisco without taking it from the local citizens, at least not directly where he would get the blame. Many county boards of supervisors, for the same reason. . .

In any case, the premise is false. It is inefficient. It is unprincipled.

Any time a group of bureaucrats is allowed to intervene unnecessarily in the handling of funds, inefficiency results. Why should we pay money into the federal government when they propose to return it to us? Is there any efficiency in sending $100 to Washington and receiving $75 after they deduct administrative costs?

So-called "tax-sharing" is unprincipled, and some time, some how, some where our political leaders should base their actions on principle. Failure to follow principle will bring disaster. Failure to follow principle of living within our means has already brought us to the brink of disaster in the form of domestic inflation.

Under what principle can a budget deficit be "shared" with the states? The U.S. has been running budget deficits for years. Sharing of revenues with the states can only create bigger deficits and feed the fires of inflation. Two years ago the administration was predicting budget surpluses, but now they are thinking that even a big deficit isn't so bad. But, assuming that a surplus can exist, sound principle dictates one or both of two actions: (1) apply it to the reduction of federal debt, and thus liquidate part of the inflationary base; or (2) reduce taxes, resulting in a stimulant to the economy, or the creation of tax resources for the states, or a portion of both. The collection of taxes in excess of its legitimate requirements by any governmental agency is entirely unprincipled.

"Sharing" of federal taxpayers' contributions is the antithesis of returning the control of government to the people. Shall we say: "Power to the People?"

Tankers Ignorant Of Radar Invention?

It appears that the Standard Oil tankers, oblivious to all the other needless disasters at sea, remain ignorant of the invention of radar more than 28 years ago. I am glad that I destroyed my Standard credit card. Maybe that will help.

Sheep Turns To Fight Against Corporate Giant

By ERNEST B. FURGURSON

WASHINGTON — How many times have you stood at a street corner or sat in your car waiting for a light to change and been forced to swallow lungfuls of bus exhaust that stings the eyes and sears the windpipe.

And what have you done about it?

Held your breath until the monster passed, or until you crossed the street. Rolled up the car window and turned on the air conditioner, if there was one. Cursed, if you are a sinner. Vowed to get even some way, some day.

You and I and the rest of us are what Murdaugh S. Madden calls sheep. He knows the breed because he used to be one himself.

THE SHEEP syndrome, Madden says, is "getting in the habit of putting up with anything. . . the feeling of walking around as if you can't do a damned thing about what's happening to you."

After suffering from it for 48 years, he was standing on a curb in the federal city one gray December day when two of the evil machines attacked him in succession. He finally had enough.

He took them to court.

His suit in U.S. District Court against the transit company alleges that the drivers and buses did "offensively, rudely and with callous and insolent disregard for defendant's rights commit an assault and battery upon the person of the plaintiff."

He maintained that the buses' "offensive and oily substances and fumes" injured his face, eyes, nose, mouth and clothes, causing "smarting and injury to plaintiff's eyes" and "permanent damage by the intake of said noxious fumes and substances into plaintiff's lungs and respiratory system."

Not only that, he went on. Over a period of time such offenses have caused "inducement and/or aggravation of the sheep syndrome, which has arisen from plaintiff being subjected constantly to such repeated offensive assaults and batteries, past and present, with the accompanying symptoms, inter alia, of frustration and helplessness."

IN OTHER WORDS, Murdaugh S. Madden is a sheep no more.

As a matter of fact, he is much like the incarnation of one of Walter Mitty's finer figments. Workaday, he is a lawyer for the Humane Society of the United States, taking up for helpless animals. Now, of a sudden, he is his own counsel, taking on single-handed a corporate Goliath which all these years not only has been raising fares at will and flatulently polluting the city, but doing it arrogantly.

AND WHY is he asserting himself alone this way, against the legal battalions the transit company is sure to muster against him?

He is aware that there are nationwide organizations at last involved in the antipollution crusade, but their very bigness results in an administrative approach that drags on and on. He wants action now.

Proof that his impatience is firmly based came parallel to his legal action. Here in the capital, buses are a grosser plague than nearly anywhere. There is no rail rapid transit system, and there are droves of tourists who come on school or charter buses or take the local sight-seeing buses. So it has been a sore subject for a long time.

THUS, 16 MONTHS ago a group of George Washington University law students formed the Greater Washington Alliance to Stop Pollution, which comes out (by acronymic license) to be GASP. They filed a formal complaint against bus exhaust with the Metropolitan Transit Authority. Another group, the Metropolitan Washington Coalition for Clean Air, joined their action.

Conservationists Note: Land You 'Save' Is Not Your Own

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

The Save Strawberry Cove Committee shares this confusion.

No matter that the development would be on old fill, that it would not impinge on the cove, and that there are far more valuable properties elsewhere worth preserving. The "let's save it" banner has been unfurled, and any who fail to follow it are suspect of failing to be "real conservationists."

EVERY CRUSADE has its victims, however, and in this case it may be the very cause of the crusaders.

As put by the developer, Paul J. Broman, the committee's court claim that the public has a right to access across the entire parcel will force owners of other undeveloped holdings to fence their property to prevent similar claims from being filed against them.

Vast private holdings in California are open to the public, but such generosity will cease if the public can claim that its free use of these holdings wiped out private property rights. Because of this threat, according to Broman, many large holdings already are being fenced and posted against tresspassers.

This would not appear to be a gain for the public.

STATE WATER officials almost fell off their chairs when Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, casually mentioned he had introduced a bill affecting their beloved water plan. The bill would preserve the Eel, Klamath and Trinity rivers.

"You're not going to take on the whole water project, are you?" asked the anxious officials.

Behr's response could hardly have reassured them. Said Behr: "I always believe that you begin to kill a snake by chopping off its tail."

MARIN'S FORMER state senator, John F. McCarthy of Belvedere, went out of office in style last month by throwing his own testimonial dinner — at $75 a person.

A former member of his staff said that about 125 persons attended, and insisted that its cost barely covered the stiff tab. Must have been delicious.

GOV. RONALD REAGAN'S economy push is readily apparent outside the formerly gleaming white capitol. It used to be washed at least twice a year, but no cleaning has been possible for some 18 months because of maintenance cuts. It looks decidedly crummy.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By MARY LEYDECKER

Ptomaine Palace At Civic Center Turns Into Gourmet's Delight

Known last year as the "ptomaine palace" on the top of the Hall of Justice, the Civic Center cafeteria this year may become one of the most popular lunching spots in the county.

Two chefs, formerly with West End Villa in San Rafael, a moderately expensive Italian restaurant, last week took over operation of the cafeteria.

Long accustomed to the food provided by state Department of Rehabilitation employees who were trained never to use butter when oil could be substituted, Civic Center employees this week cheerfully cleaned their plates and drank endless cups of good coffee.

Early arrivals could order two eggs (any style) and toast for 45 cents.

Not only was the quality up remarkably and the prices down, but little attractive touches were everywhere. Wedges of fresh pineapple nestled in ice. Saucers were available with the cups. And even the employees had been garnished with new red scarves and aprons.

"I only hope it lasts," was the oft-heard comment of the civil servant — made cyncial by years of disillusionment.

ANYONE HAVE a need for two cartons of condensed versions of best sellers?

A member of the family gave them to me to take to Marin County Jail, which has always happily accepted reading contributions in the past.

I was especially pleased to be able to offer them hard-cover books this time — but discovered this is exactly what are not wanted.

It seems the clever inmates hollow out the books and fill them with contraband such as drugs if they get the chance.

"One of them even cut the insides out of a Bible," a jailer said.

The books are still in the trunk of my car awaiting a worthy cause while the jail inmates, presumably including our most famous one, have to content themselves with paperbacks.

A BLACK BAIL bondsman from San Francisco, who incidentally used to be a chauffeur for Melvin Belli, told of how people of his own race try to solicit special favors.

"I had one little lady who got into trouble and her bail was $625," he related. "I told her the premium would be $62.50 and I needed collateral for $600."

She answered, "Why man, I'm the same color as you."

The bondsman responded by saying, "Madam, I may be the same color but I'm not the same kind."

Unemployment In California Up 6 Per Cent

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The average rate of unemployment last year in California was 6 per cent, an increase over the 4.4 per cent rate in 1969.

The Department of Human Resources Development also reported Friday that an average 520,000 workers were unemployed during 1970, an increase of 148,000 from the previous year.

The department, who has the task of helping find work for the jobless, said that employment last year averaged 8,091,000, up 75,000 over the 1969 record average.

The civilian labor force in 1970 averaged 8.6 million, an increase of 2.7 per cent or 223,000 workers. In the previous year the labor force rose by 3.7 per cent.

WASHINGTON WINDOW

How Much Did He Spend? Bill Would Let Us Know

By ROY McGHEE

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "Don't buy a single vote more than is necessary. I'll be damned if I'm going to pay for a landslide.

John F. Kennedy got a big laugh when he facetiously attributed this admonition to his father during his presidential campaign.

But the truth is no one knows how much the family spent in quest of the nation's highest office for John Kennedy. Nor does the public know how much Nelson Rockefeller spent in his four campaigns for governor of New York and his three tries for the Republican presidential nomination; nor how much his brother Winthrop spent in four races for governor of Arkansas.

Likewise, there has been no public accounting of how deep the wealthy Buckley family dipped into its private oil-based fortune to finance the successful election of Sen. James L. Buckley, New York conservative. Or, for that matter, how much former Rep. Richard L. Ottinger, D-N.Y. heir to vast plywood wealth, personally spent in losing to Buckley.

But it is no laughing matter to two reform-minded senators, James B. Pearson, R-Kan., and Mike Gravel, D-Alaska. They have teamed to write a tough election campaign reform bill that aims, for one thing, to reduce the edge huge private fortunes give candidates.

It would stipulate that a candidate for federal office—president, senator or congressman — could not spend more than $25,000 of his own or his family's money in an election campaign.

The Pearson-Gravel legislation would limit the amount a candidate for national office could spend on all types of political advertising to 10 cents for each voter registered for the last previous election. That ceiling would apply both in primaries and general elections.

Congress enacted a similar bill last year, but restricted the expenditure limitaton to radio and television advertising. President Nixon vetoed that bill, calling it unfair to broadcasters.

It was widely believed, however, that another reason for the veto was that Republicans have richer financial resources than Democrats, and that suggesting they give up this advantage was expecting too much morality from a political party.

Other reforms proposed by Pearson and Gravel: Strict public reporting of all campaign contributions and expenditures; an independent, nonpolitical government agency to police campaign spending; free network prime time for presidential candidates, and possible government subsidies for campaign expenditures for federal office seekers.

With campaign expenses spiraling with each election (they were estimated to have exceeded $40 million in 1968), there is no question about the need for reforms.

Says Pearson:

"The continuing spectacle of millions upon millions of dollars being spent on political advertising has aroused both the citizenry and public officials alike as never before in my memory. Thus, I am more optimistic about the chances for success in this session of the Congress than in any previous session in which I have participated."

Moon Watchers

Bond Issue For Sewers On Agenda

A bond issue to pay for needed improvements to Mill Valley's sewer system will be discussed when the city council holds an adjourned meeting today at 7:30 p.m. in the board room of the city library.

Also on tap is a discussion of double taxation in an area recently annexed to the city. Residents of the so-called high school tidelands annexation are served by and pay taxes to the Richardson Bay Sanitary District, but they also pay the full Mill Valley tax rate of $2.92 per $100 assessed valuation, including 35 cents for sewage service which they don't receive.

Also to be discussed at the meeting is whether the city will close Camino Alto Bridge over Arroyo Corte Madera Del Presidio while the bridge is being rebuilt. Keeping the bridge open to traffic could cost the city an additional $25,000.

Dixie Results Due

Results of standardized tests given to sixth and eighth graders in the Dixie School District last fall will be discussed by district trustees when they meet Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the district office in Terra Linda.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By MARY LEYDECKER

Ptomaine Palace At Civic Center Turns Into Gourmet's Delight

Known last year as the "ptomaine palace" on the top of the Hall of Justice, the Civic Center cafeteria this year may become one of the most popular lunching spots in the county.

Two chefs, formerly with West End Villa in San Rafael, a moderately expensive Italian restaurant, last week took over operation of the cafeteria.

Long accustomed to the food provided by state Department of Rehabilitation employees who were trained never to use butter when oil could be substituted, Civic Center employees this week cheerfully cleaned their plates and drank endless cups of good coffee.

Early arrivals could order two eggs (any style) and toast for 45 cents.

Not only was the quality up remarkably and the prices down, but little attractive touches were everywhere. Wedges of fresh pineapple nestled in ice. Saucers were available with the cups. And even the employees had been garnished with new red scarves and aprons.

"I only hope it lasts," was the oft-heard comment of the civil servant — made cyncial by years of disillusionment.

ANYONE HAVE a need for two cartons of condensed versions of best sellers?

A member of the family gave them to me to take to Marin County Jail, which has always happily accepted reading contributions in the past.

I was especially pleased to be able to offer them hard-cover books this time — but discovered this is exactly what are not wanted.

It seems the clever inmates hollow out the books and fill them with contraband such as drugs if they get the chance.

"One of them even cut the insides out of a Bible," a jailer said.

The books are still in the trunk of my car awaiting a worthy cause while the jail inmates, presumably including our most famous one, have to content themselves with paperbacks.

A BLACK BAIL bondsman from San Francisco, who incidentally used to be a chauffeur for Melvin Belli, told of how people of his own race try to solicit special favors.

"I had one little lady who got into trouble and her bail was $625," he related. "I told her the premium would be $62.50 and I needed collateral for $600."

She answered, "Why man, I'm the same color as you."

The bondsman responded by saying, "Madam, I may be the same color but I'm not the same kind."

Unemployment In California Up 6 Per Cent

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The average rate of unemployment last year in California was 6 per cent, an increase over the 4.4 per cent rate in 1969.

The Department of Human Resources Development also reported Friday that an average 520,000 workers were unemployed during 1970, an increase of 148,000 from the previous year.

The department, who has the task of helping find work for the jobless, said that employment last year averaged 8,091,000, up 75,000 over the 1969 record average.

The civilian labor force in 1970 averaged 8.6 million, an increase of 2.7 per cent or 223,000 workers. In the previous year the labor force rose by 3.7 per cent.

WASHINGTON WINDOW

How Much Did He Spend? Bill Would Let Us Know

By ROY McGHEE

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "Don't buy a single vote more than is necessary. I'll be damned if I'm going to pay for a landslide.

But the truth is no one knows how much the family spent in quest of the nation's highest office for John Kennedy. Nor does the public know how much Nelson Rockefeller spent in his four campaigns for governor of New York and his three tries for the Republican presidential nomination; nor how much his brother Winthrop spent in four races for governor of Arkansas.

Likewise, there has been no public accounting of how deep the wealthy Buckley family dipped into its private oil-based fortune to finance the successful election of Sen. James L. Buckley, New York conservative. Or, for that matter, how much former Rep. Richard L. Ottinger, D-N.Y. heir to vast plywood wealth, personally spent in losing to Buckley.

But it is no laughing matter to two reform-minded senators, James B. Pearson, R-Kan., and Mike Gravel, D-Alaska. They have teamed to write a tough election campaign reform bill that aims, for one thing, to reduce the edge huge private fortunes give candidates.

It would stipulate that a candidate for federal office—president, senator or congressman — could not spend more than $25,000 of his own or his family's money in an election campaign.

The Pearson-Gravel legislation would limit the amount a candidate for national office could spend on all types of political advertising to 10 cents for each voter registered for the last previous election. That ceiling would apply both in primaries and general elections.

Congress enacted a similar bill last year, but restricted the expenditure limitaton to radio and television advertising. President Nixon vetoed that bill, calling it unfair to broadcasters.

It was widely believed, however, that another reason for the veto was that Republicans have richer financial resources than Democrats, and that suggesting they give up this advantage was expecting too much morality from a political party.

Other reforms proposed by Pearson and Gravel: Strict public reporting of all campaign contributions and expenditures; an independent, nonpolitical government agency to police campaign spending; free network prime time for presidential candidates, and possible government subsidies for campaign expenditures for federal office seekers.

With campaign expenses spiraling with each election (they were estimated to have exceeded $40 million in 1968), there is no question about the need for reforms.

Says Pearson:

"The continuing spectacle of millions upon millions of dollars being spent on political advertising has aroused both the citizenry and public officials alike as never before in my memory. Thus, I am more optimistic about the chances for success in this session of the Congress than in any previous session in which I have participated."

Moon Watchers

Bond Issue For Sewers On Agenda

A bond issue to pay for needed improvements to Mill Valley's sewer system will be discussed when the city council holds an adjourned meeting today at 7:30 p.m. in the board room of the city library.

Also on tap is a discussion of double taxation in an area recently annexed to the city. Residents of the so-called high school tidelands annexation are served by and pay taxes to the Richardson Bay Sanitary District, but they also pay the full Mill Valley tax rate of $2.92 per $100 assessed valuation, including 35 cents for sewage service which they don't receive.

Also to be discussed at the meeting is whether the city will close Camino Alto Bridge over Arroyo Corte Madera Del Presidio while the bridge is being rebuilt. Keeping the bridge open to traffic could cost the city an additional $25,000.

Dixie Results Due

Results of standardized tests given to sixth and eighth graders in the Dixie School District last fall will be discussed by district trustees when they meet Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the district office in Terra Linda.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL

No Payments Necessary On Social Security Checks

Social Security payments received by you are not taxable income and you do not have to pay income tax on them.

Social Security payments that are used for a dependent's support must be taken into consideration in determining whether you have furnished more than half of the support.

Social Security, including basic medicare payments, received by a child or an aged parent and used for their support is considered furnished by them for their own support. If this amounts to more than one-half the cost of support, you will not be able to claim them as your dependents. Supplementary medicare benefits are not included in the support computation.

They do not have to file tax returns or pay income tax on the Social Security payments. The payments only affect you in determining whether or not you could claim them as your dependents.

Where both parents are living and both are receiving Social Security in one check, one-half of the amount received is considered as being spent by each parent for his own support.

HALF OF COST

If you furnished over half the cost of supporting your parents, then your parents' medical expenses you paid for the parent may be claimed as medical expenses on your tax returns if you actually paid them to the doctor, hospital, etc., as well as being included in determining whether or not you furnished over half the cost of your parents' support.

You can do this even though you may not be able to claim your parents as your dependents because they have earnings of more than $600.

While Social Security payments are not taxed to you, they can be a factor in determining the amount of retirement income credit you can claim on your tax return and, in effect, in some cases seem to be taxed to you through this medium.

BASIC MEDICARE

Basic medicare and supplemental medicare payments are not taken into account in computing the amount of your retirement income credit.

Amounts deducted from your Social Security checks for medicare are deductible under the rules for medical expense insurance even though the receipt of this by you is not taxable income.

Interest Rate Cuts Kindle Buyer Hopes

NEW YORK (UPI) — Recent dips in interest rates appear to have kindled some consumer optimism about the future course of the economy, but consumers remain pessimistic about current business conditions.

The board's comments were made on the basis of a November-December survey conducted for it by National Family Opinion, Inc., which periodically surveys 10,000 families across the country.

Some 34 per cent of families polled said current business conditions were bad, compared with 24 per cent in the September-October survey, with the 10-week General Motors strike probably accounting for some of the difference.

Some 25 per cent said they expected business conditions to improve in the next six months, a slight improvement over the 22 per cent registering similar sentiment in the previous survey.

Prices Climb In Fast Day On Exchange

The Dow Jones industrial average was up about 4 1-2 points at 865.62 near the final bell. Standard & Poor's 500 stock index was up 0.36 at 95.24. Of the 1,634 issues on the tape, 867 advanced, while 534 retreated.

Closing prices included: Am T&T 52-5-8 up 3-8; Beth Steel 24 up 1-2; Chrysler 25-7-8 up 1-4; DuPont 132-3-4 off 1-4; Ford 55-1-8 up 1-2; Gen El 105-1-2 up 1-3-4; Gen Motors 81 up 1.

Among the day's most active issues were Texaco, which traded an early block of 105,000 shares at 34 up 1-8 in a cross-transaction, Sperry Rand, Kinney National Service, and Continental Oil.

Electronics showed scattered strength, while steels, motors, and chemicals generally traded in fractions. Rails, airlines and aircrafts also moved narrowly. Oils were mixed.

Stock Dividend

A 5-per cent stock dividend has been declared by directors of Redwood Bank, San Rafael, payable Feb. 26 to stockholders of record Feb. 5.

INVESTING

Lear Is Worth Keeping

Q. I recently purchased Lear Siegler at 13-1/2. Would you comment on this? I am retired on limited funds. R.F.

A. Your shares, purchased at about 10x fiscal 1970 fully diluted earnings, appear well worth holding. For the year ended June 30, 1970, Lear reported primary earnings of $1.53 a share or $1.31 after adjusting for preferred conversions and stock options. First quarter fiscal 1971 sales and earnings were off 4.5 and 10.4 per cent respectively. The General Motors' strike and reduced Government spending were factors in the declines. Recovery is expected to accelerate in the latter part of fiscal 1971, and for the full year earnings will probably be level with fiscal 1970. Government business, now less than 30 per cent of sales, is concentrated in the company's electronic and communication division. Of the company's five major divisions, the real estate and construction group, accounting for 28 per cent of sales, appears to hold the greatest growth potential. Electrical systems being developed for the F-15 could also generate sizeable volume. In addition Lear accounts for 25 per cent of the car seats manufactured in North America. In a joint venture with Alcan, Lear has a modular home plant in Hawaii nearing completion.

Q. Please comment on the outlook for Bergen Brunswig. I bought at $35 and now find myself in a financial hole. Is there any good reason to retain these shares? H.W.

A. The acquisition of Brunswig by Bergen in March of 1969 increased the latter's sales base five-fold. Although acquisitions since have been on a much smaller scale, the pace has been hectic, with six firms added and agreements reached with two others. In spite of higher sales, earnings in recent quarters have been irregular. For the year ended Aug. 31, earnings dropped 20 per cent and in the first quarter of the current fiscal year were off 28 per cent. Although shares have moved up 58 per cent from the 1970 low, further recovery is possible if the market continues strong. I would delay sale of the shares temporarily.

ALL IN ALL, Marin County real estate sales for last year were just about on a par with 1968 and 1969.

Reported multiple listing sales for the year were $87,349,880, against $83,678,505 in 1968 and $84,813,895 in 1969. Actual completed sales for 1970 were $73,484,433, slightly below 1968's $73,721,579 and 1969's $75,342,978.

There is a time lag between the reporting of a sale and the closing of the transaction. This means a backlog of almost $14 million in transactions carried forward into 1971 and which should soon be completed.

Business Trend Seen Upward

HOUSTON (UPI) — A trend toward improvement in general business activity this year is indicated by three economic indexes linked to credit use, according to Associated Credit Bureaus, Inc.

Associated Credit, a trade association for the credit bureau and collection service industries, said the index of credit reporting moved slightly upward during December after sharp declines for most of the year. In December eight million credit reports were made, the association said.

The other two indexes — collections and new business placed for collection — reflect a decline in the rate of new consumer debt being placed for collection, indicating a halt to the deterioration in some areas of personal finance which was noted through most of 1970, ACB said.

Exclusive Rights

NEW YORK (UPI) — Norlin Corp. has reached an agreement with Tolchin Instruments Co., Inc., giving Norlin exclusive marketing rights in the United States and Canada for the Buffeta-crampon and Schreiber lines of woodwind musical instruments.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL

No Payments Necessary On Social Security Checks

Social Security payments received by you are not taxable income and you do not have to pay income tax on them.

Social Security payments that are used for a dependent's support must be taken into consideration in determining whether you have furnished more than half of the support.

Social Security, including basic medicare payments, received by a child or an aged parent and used for their support is considered furnished by them for their own support. If this amounts to more than one-half the cost of support, you will not be able to claim them as your dependents. Supplementary medicare benefits are not included in the support computation.

They do not have to file tax returns or pay income tax on the Social Security payments. The payments only affect you in determining whether or not you could claim them as your dependents.

Where both parents are living and both are receiving Social Security in one check, one-half of the amount received is considered as being spent by each parent for his own support.

HALF OF COST

If you furnished over half the cost of supporting your parents, then your parents' medical expenses you paid for the parent may be claimed as medical expenses on your tax returns if you actually paid them to the doctor, hospital, etc., as well as being included in determining whether or not you furnished over half the cost of your parents' support.

You can do this even though you may not be able to claim your parents as your dependents because they have earnings of more than $600.

While Social Security payments are not taxed to you, they can be a factor in determining the amount of retirement income credit you can claim on your tax return and, in effect, in some cases seem to be taxed to you through this medium.

BASIC MEDICARE

Basic medicare and supplemental medicare payments are not taken into account in computing the amount of your retirement income credit.

Amounts deducted from your Social Security checks for medicare are deductible under the rules for medical expense insurance even though the receipt of this by you is not taxable income.

Interest Rate Cuts Kindle Buyer Hopes

NEW YORK (UPI) — Recent dips in interest rates appear to have kindled some consumer optimism about the future course of the economy, but consumers remain pessimistic about current business conditions.

The board's comments were made on the basis of a November-December survey conducted for it by National Family Opinion, Inc., which periodically surveys 10,000 families across the country.

Some 34 per cent of families polled said current business conditions were bad, compared with 24 per cent in the September-October survey, with the 10-week General Motors strike probably accounting for some of the difference.

Some 25 per cent said they expected business conditions to improve in the next six months, a slight improvement over the 22 per cent registering similar sentiment in the previous survey.

Prices Climb In Fast Day On Exchange

INVESTING

Lear Is Worth Keeping

Q. I recently purchased Lear Siegler at 13-1/2. Would you comment on this? I am retired on limited funds. R.F.

A. Your shares, purchased at about 10x fiscal 1970 fully diluted earnings, appear well worth holding. For the year ended June 30, 1970, Lear reported primary earnings of $1.53 a share or $1.31 after adjusting for preferred conversions and stock options. First quarter fiscal 1971 sales and earnings were off 4.5 and 10.4 per cent respectively. The General Motors' strike and reduced Government spending were factors in the declines. Recovery is expected to accelerate in the latter part of fiscal 1971, and for the full year earnings will probably be level with fiscal 1970. Government business, now less than 30 per cent of sales, is concentrated in the company's electronic and communication division. Of the company's five major divisions, the real estate and construction group, accounting for 28 per cent of sales, appears to hold the greatest growth potential. Electrical systems being developed for the F-15 could also generate sizeable volume. In addition Lear accounts for 25 per cent of the car seats manufactured in North America. In a joint venture with Alcan, Lear has a modular home plant in Hawaii nearing completion.

Q. Please comment on the outlook for Bergen Brunswig. I bought at $35 and now find myself in a financial hole. Is there any good reason to retain these shares? H.W.

A. The acquisition of Brunswig by Bergen in March of 1969 increased the latter's sales base five-fold. Although acquisitions since have been on a much smaller scale, the pace has been hectic, with six firms added and agreements reached with two others. In spite of higher sales, earnings in recent quarters have been irregular. For the year ended Aug. 31, earnings dropped 20 per cent and in the first quarter of the current fiscal year were off 28 per cent. Although shares have moved up 58 per cent from the 1970 low, further recovery is possible if the market continues strong. I would delay sale of the shares temporarily.

Business Trend Seen Upward

HOUSTON (UPI) — A trend toward improvement in general business activity this year is indicated by three economic indexes linked to credit use, according to Associated Credit Bureaus, Inc.

Associated Credit, a trade association for the credit bureau and collection service industries, said the index of credit reporting moved slightly upward during December after sharp declines for most of the year. In December eight million credit reports were made, the association said.

The other two indexes — collections and new business placed for collection — reflect a decline in the rate of new consumer debt being placed for collection, indicating a halt to the deterioration in some areas of personal finance which was noted through most of 1970, ACB said.

Miller Barber Best Of the Par-Busters

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — Put perfect golfing weather together with a flat and fairly short course and a bunch of hungry pros and you're going to have a lot of low scores.

That's what happened during the weekend at the Arizona Country Club where par was shattered repeatedly and most often by Miller Barber, an unusual Texan in that he is a taciturn chap who does not flap his mouth but concentrates on his game.

Barber, 39, wh0 was only a few dollars short of $100,000 in earnings last year, ran away with the $25,000 first prize in the Phoenix Open with his 72-hole total of 261, 23 under par. His rounds were 65-64-67-65. Par is 35-36-71.

Two strokes back at the hectic finish were Masters champion Billy Casper and the Florida barrister Dan Sikes. Casper shot a final 62, nine under, tieing the course record held by Gene Littler. Sikes shot 64.

Their total, 263, was 21 under par, equalling the tournament record also set by Littler when he won here in 1969.

Casper, who is the come-close kid this year, lost a playoff to Bob Lunn in the Los Angeles Open, first PGA event of 1971.

The tie for second Sunday was good for $11,575.

Three pros tied for fourth at 264, good for $5,158. They were Rod Curl, a 28-year-old Indian from Redding, Calif., who got his biggest check by far; Dave Hill, who had the first hole-in-one of the PGA year, and Homero Blancas who shot a 63 Saturday but tailed off to 67 Sunday.

Curl had a final 65 while Hill took 67. Hill aced the 153-yard, par-three seventh hole when his tee shot landed on the fly in the cup. Paul Harney, who led after three rounds by one stroke over Littler, did an El Foldo, you might say. He took a par-71 when he four-putted on the last green. His tie for seventh was good for $3,280. Also in this bracket were Howie Johnson 65, George Archer 67, Don Massengale, 66, Hale Irwin 66 and Kermit Zarley 66.

Littler, the 40-year-old La Jolla, Calif., smooth-swinger, slumped to a one-over 72 in the last round. He ended at 267, not bad but good only for a tie for 16th place. Also in that tie were Arnold Palmer 66, Frank Beard 68, and Bob Lunn 69. Lunn shared the first round lead with a 64.

Fred Marti, who also had a first day 64 with Lunn, and Massengale took a lukewarm par the last round and landed in the 272 bracket, good for only $400.

Weather was in the 70s for most of the time. There was little wind. The sun shone. The fairways were hard enough to give a good roll to the ball. And the greens were slow enough for good control.

"I didn't realize I was shooting that good," said Barber when he was told he was a record breaker.

"It's just unbelievable. The weather, of course, was magnificent and all the par fives you could reach in two and that's why the scores were so low."

Barber had eight birdies and two bogeys on his 32-33-65 card.

Casper had a bogey and 10 birdies on his card of 32-30-61. He three putted the seventh for his bogey, a four. He sank a 25-foot putt for a birdie on No. 11 but his others were much shorter-10 feet and under. He was up close with his irons on most holes.

"It was really fascinating," he said. "I sure felt good."

Hull Boys Throttle The Seals

CHICAGO (UPI) — The California Golden Seals ran into the Hull boys — Bobby and Dennis — Sunday night and it was no contest.

The Hull-led Chicago Black Hawks came out on top, 5-3, which enabled them to stretch their lead in the National Hockey League's Western Division to 13 points over second place St. Louis.

Both Hulls each scored two goals in pacing the Hawks to their fourth victory in five outings over the last place Seals this season.

Dennis Hull got the first two goals of the game, poking in a rebound on a power play and then connecting on a short try after taking a pass from Stan Mikita.

For California, now 14-30-3 and 36 points behind Chicago, Ernie Hicke, Gary Croteau and Dennis Hextall knocked in goals.

Swim Star Wins AAU Top Award

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) – Swimming sensation John Kinsella, 18, an Indiana University freshman from Oak Brook, Ill., today was named 1970 winner of the James E. Sullivan Memorial Trophy as the nation's outstanding athlete by the Amateur Athletic Union.

AAU President John B. Kelly Jr., a veteran Olympian and himself the winner of the coveted award in 1947, made the announcement.

He said Kinsella, holder and co-holder of three world records, won over nine other nominees in the annual balloting.

Kinsella, expected to be a powerful asset to Indiana's NCAA and Big Ten champions, received 1,097 points. Runnerup was walker Ron Laird, Pomona, Calif., with 746.

About 1,000 ballots were cast for the annual trophy winner, mostly by AAU officials throughout the country, and by sportswriters and broadcasters.

Kinsella, who competed in the 1968 Olympics at Mexico City as a high schooler, holds the world freestyle records in the 400 meters at 4:02.8 and 1,500 meters at 15:57.1. He is also a member of the U.S. 800-meter freestyle team that holds the world record.

"He represents the finest of our nation's youth," Kelly said.

Kelly, a bronze medalist in rowing, competed in four consecutive Olympic Games, starting in 1948. He won a third

ROYAL ESCORT — A convoy of National Conference players escorted Mel Renfro (20) of the Dallas Cowboys to the end zone yesterday as he returned a punt 82 yards for a touchdown in the Pro Bowl. Jerrel Wilson of Kansas City was the last American Conference player with a chance to get Renfro, but Chicago's Dick Butkis (51) took care of him.

Renfro's Returns Clinch It

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The National Football Conference drew a measure of revenge Sunday for the loss its champion suffered in the Super Bowl by defeating the American Conference all-stars 27-6 in the 21st annual Pro Bowl.

And it was Mel Renfro, a member of the Dallas team that went down to defeat in the Super Bowl, who crushed the AFC with punt returns of 82 and 56 yards for touchdowns in the final quarter.

Until the ex-University of Oregon track star made his punt returns that brought him the back of the game honors, the American Conference team still felt it was in the contest although trailing 13-6.

The excellent passing of San Francisco's John Brodie climaxed by a 23-yard touchdown pass in the third period to Minnesota's Dave Osborn had been the margin for the NFC until Renfro electrified the crown of 48,222 in the Coliseum with his punt returns for touchdowns.

As had been expected, the game was a defensive struggle most of the way.

"There's no conclusions about the conferences to be drawn from the game," said losing coach John Madden of Oakland. "Neither team controlled the ball and both defenses were hitting and tackling well."

Madden thought his team was the victim of an adverse ruling when Oakland end Fred Biletnikoff caught what appeared to be a touchdown pass from Daryle Lamonica in the end zone in the third period. But Biletnikoff was ruled to have stepped out before he had possession.

And winning coach Dick Nolan of San Francisco said, "Actually, it was a pretty even game. Renfro's great punt returns were obviously the key things, but I thought Brodie and Fran Tarkenton both called a good game." Renfro credited Nolan with positioning for the touchdown punt returns in the fourth period.

"After Cecil Turner of Chicago fumbled a punt return in the third period," Renfro said, "Nolan told me to get back there deep. That's why I was in position to receive those punts."

"I'm an ex-runner from Oregon," the seven-year pro said. "When I see a little daylight, I can go."

Turner's fumble set up the Biletnikoff out-of-bounds catch on a pass from Lamonica that could have turned the game around had it been ruled a touchdown.

The AFC got on the scoreboard first in the second period on a 37-yard field goal by Jan Stenerud of Kansas City. But Fred Cox made it a 3-3 halftime tie when the Minnesota kicker booted a 13-yard field goal.

Brodie then took over in the third period and guided the NFC on the only sus-

TRACK-FIELD ROUNDUP

Jim Ryun Seems To Be Enjoying The Sport Now

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Jim Ryun is leaving the records to other trackmen these days but he seems to be enjoying the sport more now.

Ryun was over shadowed on a busy indoor track weekend by a pair of world record marks but the former Kansas star was pleased by a relaxed 4:04.4 mile Fridy night in his first appearance in 19 months at the All-American Games in San Francisco.

The star of that meet was Al Feuerbach, who stunned Randy Matson and set a world indoor mark in the shot put with a heave of 68 feet, 11 inches.

In the NAIA meet in wkansas City, Jean-Louis Ravelomanatsoa won the 60-yard dash Saturday night with a 6.0 clocking after matching the world mark of 5.9 in Friday night's semi-finals.

In the fourth annual Philadelphia Track Classic, Mel Pender won the 50-yard dash with a 5.3 clocking as Dr. Delano Meriwether slumped to fifth. Dr. Meriwether, who ignored track during his pre-med days at Michigan State and only started working out on his own last summer, stunned the track world two weeks ago with a dash victory at Maryland.

But despite all the other action, the weekend clearly belonged to Ryun, who made his long awaited return to competitive track. Bothered by the constant pressure of always being expected to win—and often in record time —Ryun quit abruptly 19 months ago and "retired" to become a photographer in Topeka, Kan.

The long payoff has given him a chance to relax and build up his competitve urge again and now he's aiming at the 1972 Olympics. But he's doing it slowly and, as a husband and father, he seems to be much more mature and self-confident now.

"I was very pleased with my performance," Ryan said after his mile even though his own world record is almost 13 seconds faster.

Wells Arrested In Dressing Room

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Warren Wells, star wide receiver for the Oakland Raiders who played in the Pro Bowl game here Sunday, was arrested in the dressing room following the game and charged with violation of probation.

Wells, arrested on a warrant from Alameda County, was led handcuffed from Memorial Coliseum and taken to central police station for booking.

Police said the probation was for a criminal conviction in Oakland but said the warrant did not indicate what the conviction was for.

In the fourth annual Philadelphia Track Classic, Mel Pender won the 50-yard dash with a 5.3 clocking as Dr. Delano Meriwether slumped to fifth. Dr. Meriwether, who ignored track during his pre-med days at Michigan State and only started working out on his own last summer, stunned the track world two weeks ago with a dash victory at Maryland.

But despite all the other action, the weekend clearly belonged to Ryun, who made his long awaited return to competitive track. Bothered by the constant pressure of always being expected to win—and often in record time —Ryun quit abruptly 19 months ago and "retired" to become a photographer in Topeka, Kan.

The long payoff has given him a chance to relax and build up his competitve urge again and now he's aiming at the 1972 Olympics. But he's doing it slowly and, as a husband and father, he seems to be much more mature and self-confident now.

"I was very pleased with my performance," Ryan said after his mile even though his own world record is almost 13 seconds faster.

Wells Arrested In Dressing Room

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Warren Wells, star wide receiver for the Oakland Raiders who played in the Pro Bowl game here Sunday, was arrested in the dressing room following the game and charged with violation of probation.

Wells, arrested on a warrant from Alameda County, was led handcuffed from Memorial Coliseum and taken to central police station for booking.

Police said the probation was for a criminal conviction in Oakland but said the warrant did not indicate what the conviction was for.

Notre Dame Too Much For Bruins

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

For the first time in four seasons, UCLA will probably relinquish its usual No. 1 spot in the national collegiate basketball ratings this week, possibly to its chief challenger in the Pacific-8 Conference, the University of Southern California Trojans.

Even though they were idle over the weekend, Bob Boyd's No. 2 ranked Trojans, along with third-rated Marquette, are being touted for the top slot following UCLA's dramatic 89-82 upset loss to Austin Carr-paced Notre Dame Saturday.

Boyd, whose Trojans are 4-0 in Pac-8 play and 14-0 overall, admitted this his team would "quite likely be given consideration as No. 1."

"If we are No. 1, I don't want to minimize it," Boyd said while on a scouting mission in the Pacific Northwest. "Every college and university team in the country is trying to do the same."

Before 11,343 hysterical fans in South Bend, Ind., UCLA simply wasn't able to stop the unstoppable Carr. The game pitted two All-Americans, Carr and Sidney Wicks of the Buins, but it wasn't much of a contest.

The smooth shooting Carr poured in 46 points to outshine Wicks, who tallied 23 before fouling out.

The point total run up by the Fighting Irish, incidentally, was the highest against the Bruins this season and the fifth highest in the last five season.

However, in defense of the four-time NCAA champions, it should be noted that the Bruins, now 14-1, played a night game in Chicago Friday and did not reach South Bend until the wee hours of the morning Saturday for the nationally televised afternoon contest.

"They played better than any team we've played this season," said John Wooden in refusing to alibi for the loss. "People tell me this was the best game they played, but all I can judge is how they were against us and they've got to rate as the best we've played."

And despite the loss, most observers still think UCLA will finish the campaign as the top team in the nation — again.

Out on the coast, conference play was slim. In a pair of Pac-8 games, lethargic Washington came to life in the second half and went on to trip Oregon State, 93-85, in overtime, and Oregon, behind a 34-point performance by Stan Love, dazzled Washington State with a 66 per cent shooting exhibition and a 95-68 triumph.

Non-conference play saw Jackie Ridgle and Ansley Truitt pace California to an 81-70 victory over San Francisco and Utah use free throw accuracy to outscore Stanford, 99-91.

In West Coast Athletic Conference play, pre-season favorite UOP got bumped for the second time in league competition. Mike Stewart dropped in a pair of free throws with 1:52 remaining in overtime and checked Tiger hot-shot John Gianelli to pace Santa Clara to an 80-78 victory.

Montreal goalie Rogatien Vachon made a save but lost his stick in the process during last night's National Hockey League game in Boston. The stick flew behind the net, and the Maple Leaf defender was forced to play without it briefly, as Ken Hodge of the Bruins (8), headed toward him. Boston won, 4-2. (UPI Telephoto)

Russ Boxers Defeat Yanks; Valdez Wins

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — The Russians have done it again. But just barely.

The Soviet national boxing team built up an early 6-1 lead Saturday and went on to beat a U.S. amateur squad 6-5 in the third dual match between the countries.

The Russians won here 6-5 in 1969 and at Moscow by an 8-3 score last year.

By LARRY MOWELL

Like most sayings, it is also true as Jerry Sloan of the Chicago Bulls showed the San Francisco Warriors Saturday night.

Sloan, a precision shooting guard averaging almost 19 points a game this season, missed 19 of his first 20 shots and had only five points with six minutes left in the game.

Then the 6-foot 5-inch guard scored the Bulls' final eight points on two jump shots and four free throws to wrap up an 87-83 mauling of San Francisco.

The Warriors made only 34.9 per cent of their shots; the Bulls canned only 31.6 per cent.

Providing the muscle for the Warriors was Nate Thurmond with 25 points and 22 rebounds. Jerry Lucas added 17 points and 14 rebounds.

Lithe Bob Love led the scorers with 34 points, 22 in the first half as the Bulls gouged out a 46-43 lead.

The Bulls threatened to run away and hide early in the game as they built a 23-12 lead on defensive lapses by the home team.

The Warriors, now 27-25 and three games behind the Los Angeles Lakers in the Pacific Division of the National Basketball Association, visit Baltimore tomorrow and Detroit Wednesday, then return to Civic Auditorium Friday for a joust with the Buffalo Braves.

Bonus Month For Laver; $60,000 In Prize Money

DETROIT (UPI) —January of 1971, which has been one of the finer months Rod Laver has ever enjoyed, could get even better.

The Australian king of tennis has already won six straight $10,000 matches in the $210,000 Tennis Champions Classic this month and Thursday he has a chance to put another $10,000 in his checking account.

Laver polished off Holland's Tom Okker Saturday night, losing the first two sets 7-5 each then whipping up three 6-2 wins, and now takes on Arthur Ashe, of Gum Spring, Va., Thursday in New York's Madison Square Garden.

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI)— Billy Jean King, the leading money winner on the $100,000 Virginia Slims Tennis circuit, earned another $2,500 Sunday by defeating Rosemary Casals 6-3, 6-2, in the finals of the tournament at Milwaukee's Brook Club.

Cager Denies ABA Signing

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Howard Porter, Villanova University basketball star, denied reports during the weekend he had signed a professional contract after an alleged secret draft by the American Basketball Association.

A copyrighted article in the Charlotte (N.C.) Observer Sunday said Porter and Jim McDaniels of Western Kentucky signed contracts with the league for future assignment to the teams that jrafted them.

Porter, who reportedly was drafted by the Pittsburgh Condors, denied the contract signing.

"Why would I sign?" Porter said. "I'd lose bargaining power if I signed now."

Porter said he had not even had any telephone conversations with ABA personnel and "I didn't even know I'd be drafted."

Jack Kraft, Villanova coach, said Porter's word was good enough for him.

"They'll have to bring the contract in front of Howard and me for us to believe it," Kraft said.

Russ Boxers Defeat Yanks; Valdez Wins

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — The Russians have done it again. But just barely.

The Soviet national boxing team built up an early 6-1 lead Saturday and went on to beat a U.S. amateur squad 6-5 in the third dual match between the countries.

The Russians won here 6-5 in 1969 and at Moscow by an 8-3 score last year.

The Soviets showed superior boxing skill in most of the 11 Olympic weight bouts but three Americans scored knockouts.

By LARRY MOWELL

Like most sayings, it is also true as Jerry Sloan of the Chicago Bulls showed the San Francisco Warriors Saturday night.

Sloan, a precision shooting guard averaging almost 19 points a game this season, missed 19 of his first 20 shots and had only five points with six minutes left in the game.

Then the 6-foot 5-inch guard scored the Bulls' final eight points on two jump shots and four free throws to wrap up an 87-83 mauling of San Francisco.

The Warriors made only 34.9 per cent of their shots; the Bulls canned only 31.6 per cent.

Providing the muscle for the Warriors was Nate Thurmond with 25 points and 22 rebounds. Jerry Lucas added 17 points and 14 rebounds.

Lithe Bob Love led the scorers with 34 points, 22 in the first half as the Bulls gouged out a 46-43 lead.

The Bulls threatened to run away and hide early in the game as they built a 23-12 lead on defensive lapses by the home team.

The Warriors, now 27-25 and three games behind the Los Angeles Lakers in the Pacific Division of the National Basketball Association, visit Baltimore tomorrow and Detroit Wednesday, then return to Civic Auditorium Friday for a joust with the Buffalo Braves.

Bonus Month For Laver; $60,000 In Prize Money

DETROIT (UPI) —January of 1971, which has been one of the finer months Rod Laver has ever enjoyed, could get even better.

The Australian king of tennis has already won six straight $10,000 matches in the $210,000 Tennis Champions Classic this month and Thursday he has a chance to put another $10,000 in his checking account.

Laver polished off Holland's Tom Okker Saturday night, losing the first two sets 7-5 each then whipping up three 6-2 wins, and now takes on Arthur Ashe, of Gum Spring, Va., Thursday in New York's Madison Square Garden.

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI)— Billy Jean King, the leading money winner on the $100,000 Virginia Slims Tennis circuit, earned another $2,500 Sunday by defeating Rosemary Casals 6-3, 6-2, in the finals of the tournament at Milwaukee's Brook Club.

Mrs. King, who was the No. 1 seed, continued her mastery over the second seeded Miss Casals, who has now lost to the Long Beach superstar in three finals in as many weeks.

Cager Denies ABA Signing

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Howard Porter, Villanova University basketball star, denied reports during the weekend he had signed a professional contract after an alleged secret draft by the American Basketball Association.

A copyrighted article in the Charlotte (N.C.) Observer Sunday said Porter and Jim McDaniels of Western Kentucky signed contracts with the league for future assignment to the teams that jrafted them.

Porter, who reportedly was drafted by the Pittsburgh Condors, denied the contract signing.

"Why would I sign?" Porter said. "I'd lose bargaining power if I signed now."

Porter said he had not even had any telephone conversations with ABA personnel and "I didn't even know I'd be drafted."

Jack Kraft, Villanova coach, said Porter's word was good enough for him.

"They'll have to bring the contract in front of Howard and me for us to believe it," Kraft said.

Italians Capture Bobsled Crown

CERVINIA, Italy (UPI)—Although the home course gave them the first day advantage, it was a quirk of weather which secured Italy's two-man bobsled team a clean sweep of the world championships.

The Italy No. 1 team of Gianfranco Gaspari and Mario Armano captured the world title on the basis of their first two heat times Saturday when officials suspended the last two runs Sunday because a sudden snowstorm dumped knee-deep drifts on the killer Lago Blue course.

The Italy No. 2 duo of Enzo Vicarlo and Corrado Dal Fabbro were awarded second place and the Austria No. 1 team of Herber Gruber and Mario Armano took third on the basis of Saturday's times.

Wind-whipped snow flurries halted the third heat runs after two crackups and one further withdrawal on the second day of the two-man world championships. After an hour's deliberation, judges canceled the rest of the heats and posted the standings after Satuday's first two heats as the final results.

Italian organizers, anticipating certain controversy over the decision since it gave the world title and second place to Italian teams, issued a statement that they asked the judges to postpone the last two heats until Monday, but the judges refused.

In the official announcement, the judges said the decision was, "wise in respect to the regulations to permit the carrying out of training and heats of the four-man bobsled competition." The four-man bob sled training had been scheduled to begin today

The abrupt cancellation of the last two heats brought unofficial protests from the German, Austrian and Swiss teams, all of whom were within a second and a half of the Italinas going into the final day. The Germans had also voiced some complaints that the course had been used for the Italian national champsionships, giving the Italian teams the advantage of familiarity with it.

An Icy Monte Carlo

MONTE CARLO, France (UPI)—Jean Pierre Nicolas of France led the exhausted Monte Carlo Auto Rally drivers across the finish today at the end of the event's first 2,200 mile stage.

But it was Sweden's Ove Andersson and David Stone of Britain who were in the lead after half the competitors had completed the first speed trial.

Andersson and Stone, driving a French Works Alpine similar to Nicolas', swept along the 24 miles special stage—a narrow, twisty corridor of ice and snow in the French Alps-in exactly 37 minutes.

In second place was another Alpine of Frenchmen JeanClaude Therier and Marcel Callewaert in 37:17. Third was the Works Lancia of Italians Sandro Munari and Mario Manucci.

But several favored cars had yet to tackle the section and with Porsche, Datsun and the Lancias of Harry Kallstrom of Sweden and Simo Lampinen of Finland still to run, provisional standings were not expected to be complete until later.

Several Porsche drivers complained that the special section was so narrow there was no room to overtake and they predicted they would be held up by slower cars in front of them.

"The special stage was very difficult," said Andersson as he stepped out of the low slung blue French car on the wet side here. "The ice was almost 20 centimeters thick. But of course, I am very happy with the time," he said.

Co-Driver Stone had another tale about the hair-raising 37 minute drive.

"At one point we took off and flew about 30 yards in the air. When we landed all the lights fell off. But we seemed to make it all right," he said.

The Swede said the run from Marrakesh was "very easy. We came all the way up the coast of Spain and never had any trouble until we met the ice and snow in the (French) Alps."

Winning By Length Of A Worm

BRIGHTON, England (UPI) — An eight-inch worm wiggled to victory Sunday in what was billed as the world's first worm race a week after the unofficial favorite was accidentally squashed during training.

Toy Token Tom cheered on by a crowd of 30 spectators, inched along the two-foot plate glass course at the Brighton Toy Fair in one minute seven seconds — a speed of 4,593 hours per mile.

He beat runner-up Whippy Willy II, five inches long, by a worm's length. Three other contestants, Creepy Crawler, Iggles Squiggles and Yesman, were left far behind.

Whippy Willy II was a late substitute for the race. Its owner, Chris Hudson, 15, accidentally trod on Willy's predecessor a week ago while training him in the back garden.

"The first Willy was terrifyingly fast and could have easily won the race today," Chris said. "I fed Willy II on cabbage and chocolate but it didn't seem to do him any good. He just didn't want to finish."

Reed Becomes All-Time Top Scorer For Knicks

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

There wasn't anything wrong with the New York Knickerbockers that a healthy Willis Reed couldn't cure.

Reed, the league's most valuable player a year ago, returned to his old form over the weekend and helped the Knicks break a slump with a pair of important victories.On Saturday night the 6-foot-9 center poured in 30 points and grabbed 17 rebounds as the Knicks routed the Boston Celtics, 128-107, and Sunday he collected 24 points to spark New York to a 117-105 triumph over the Detroit Pistons.

In the process Reed became the highest scorer in Knicks' history.

Reed, who was sidelined for a few games a couple of weeks ago with the flu, was slow to recover and during his convalescing period the Knicks dropped six of eight games and had watched their lead in the National Basketball Association's East Divsion dwindle to three and one-half games.

"It sure feels good to get going again," said Reed after Sunday's effort pushed him past Carl Braun and into first place on the Knicks' all-time scoring list with 10,511 points. "A lot of people have been thinking that I'm washed up."

Reed got scoring support from Bill Bradley with 22 points and Mike Riordan with 19 as the Knicks snapped a five-game losing streak on the road with a victory at Detroit. Dave Bing paced the Pistons with 26 points.

In other Sunday action, Milwaukee routed Atlanta, 142-120; Los Angeles topped Cincinnati, 142-131; Philadelphia crushed Seattle 145-119; Boston beat Cleveland, 121-100; Phoenix defeated Chicago, 113-112; and Buffalo whipped Portland, 123-111.

Bob Dandridge connected on 15 of 20 shots from the floor and scored 33 points to spark the Bucks' to their 41st victory in 49 games. Oscar Robertson chipped in with 29 points and 15 assists while Pete Maravich led the Hawks with 30 points

Wilt Chamberlain scored 35 points and collected 29 rebounds to pace the Lakers' victory. Jerry West supported Chamberlain with 32 points and Happy Hairston and Keith Erickson chipped in with 28 and 25 points respectively. Tom Van Arsdale led Cincinnati with 25 points. Billy Cunningham scored 33 points and Archie Clark added 32 as Philadelphia kept pace with the Knicks by trimming Seattle. The 76ers remain four games behind the Knicks in the East Division. Spencer Haywood led the Supersonics with 30 points.

John Havlicek collected 36 points and Jo Jo White added 28 as the Celtics handed the Cavaliers their 47th loss in 54 games. Johnny Johnson topped Cleveland with 29 points.

The Suns rallied from 11 points down in the last nine and one-half minutes to nip Chicago. Phoenix moved ahead to stay with 1:31 left as they overcame a 34-point effort by Chicago's Bob Love. Mel Counts and Paul Silas paced the Suns with 18 points each.

Bob Kauffman's 30 points paced Buffalo to its third straight victory. Geoff Petrie topped Portland with 28 points.

Allen Joins Dodgers

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Richie Allen will work out with the Los Angeles Dodgers at Dodger Stadium Monday, the club said Friday.

Allen, 28, arrived here Thursday night. The controversial slugger was traded to the Dodgers by the St. Louis Cardinals this winter for Ted Sizemore and Bob Stinson.

The Dodgers conducted workouts Wednesday and Friday. The drills are not open to the public.

Statistically, the edge belonged to the NFC, which ran up 337 total yards to 146. Osborn was the leading rusher with 45 yards on 10 carries while Larry Csonka of Miami led the AFC with 44 yards on six carries.

Brodie completed 10 of 26 passes for 156 yards and Tarkenton made good on eight of 13 for 69 yards. Lamonica completed only four of 21 passes for 50 yards while Bob Griese of Miami hit 9 of 14 for 86 yards. Griese was sacked five times for 56 yards.

Italians Capture Bobsled Crown

CERVINIA, Italy (UPI)—Although the home course gave them the first day advantage, it was a quirk of weather which secured Italy's two-man bobsled team a clean sweep of the world championships.

The Italy No. 1 team of Gianfranco Gaspari and Mario Armano captured the world title on the basis of their first two heat times Saturday when officials suspended the last two runs Sunday because a sudden snowstorm dumped knee-deep drifts on the killer Lago Blue course.

The Italy No. 2 duo of Enzo Vicarlo and Corrado Dal Fabbro were awarded second place and the Austria No. 1 team of Herber Gruber and Mario Armano took third on the basis of Saturday's times.

Wind-whipped snow flurries halted the third heat runs after two crackups and one further withdrawal on the second day of the two-man world championships. After an hour's deliberation, judges canceled the rest of the heats and posted the standings after Saturday's first two heats as the final results.

Italian organizers, anticipating certain controversy over the decision since it gave the world title and second place to Italian teams, issued a statement that they asked the judges to postpone the last two heats until Monday, but the judges refused.

In the official announcement, the judges said the decision was, "wise in respect to the regulations to permit the carrying out of training and heats of the four-man bobsled competition." The four-man bobsled training had been scheduled to begin today

The abrupt cancellation of the last two heats brought unofficial protests from the German, Austrian and Swiss teams, all of whom were within a second and a half of the Italinas going into the final day. The Germans had also voiced some complaints that the course had been used for the Italian national champsionships, giving the Italian teams the advantage of familiarity with it.

An Icy Monte Carlo

MONTE CARLO, France (UPI)—Jean Pierre Nicolas of France led the exhausted Monte Carlo Auto Rally drivers across the finish today at the end of the event's first 2,200 mile stage.

But it was Sweden's Ove Andersson and David Stone of Britain who were in the lead after half the competitors had completed the first speed trial.

Andersson and Stone, driving a French Works Alpine similar to Nicolas', swept along the 24 miles special stage—a narrow, twisty corridor of ice and snow in the French Alps-in exactly 37 minutes.

In second place was another Alpine of Frenchmen JeanClaude Therier and Marcel Callewaert in 37:17. Third was the Works Lancia of Italians Sandro Munari and Mario Manucci.

But several favored cars had yet to tackle the section and with Porsche, Datsun and the Lancias of Harry Kallstrom of Sweden and Simo Lampinen of Finland still to run, provisional standings were not expected to be complete until later.

Several Porsche drivers complained that the special section was so narrow there was no room to overtake and they predicted they would be held up by slower cars in front of them.

"The special stage was very difficult," said Andersson as he stepped out of the low slung blue French car on the wet side here. "The ice was almost 20 centimeters thick. But of course, I am very happy with the time," he said.

Co-Driver Stone had another tale about the hair-raising 37 minute drive.

"At one point we took off and flew about 30 yards in the air. When we landed all the lights fell off. But we seemed to make it all right," he said.

The Swede said the run from Marrakesh was "very easy. We came all the way up the coast of Spain and never had any trouble until we met the ice and snow in the (French) Alps."

Winning By Length Of A Worm

BRIGHTON, England (UPI) — An eight-inch worm wiggled to victory Sunday in what was billed as the world's first worm race a week after the unofficial favorite was accidentally squashed during training.

Toy Token Tom cheered on by a crowd of 30 spectators, inched along the two-foot plate glass course at the Brighton Toy Fair in one minute seven seconds — a speed of 4,593 hours per mile.

He beat runner-up Whippy Willy II, five inches long, by a worm's length. Three other contestants, Creepy Crawler, Iggles Squiggles and Yesman, were left far behind.

Whippy Willy II was a late substitute for the race. Its owner, Chris Hudson, 15, accidentally trod on Willy's predecessor a week ago while training him in the back garden.

"The first Willy was terrifyingly fast and could have easily won the race today," Chris said. "I fed Willy II on cabbage and chocolate but it didn't seem to do him any good. He just didn't want to finish."

Reed Becomes All-Time Top Scorer For Knicks

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

There wasn't anything wrong with the New York Knickerbockers that a healthy Willis Reed couldn't cure.

Reed, the league's most valuable player a year ago, returned to his old form over the weekend and helped the Knicks break a slump with a pair of important victories.On Saturday night the 6-foot-9 center poured in 30 points and grabbed 17 rebounds as the Knicks routed the Boston Celtics, 128-107, and Sunday he collected 24 points to spark New York to a 117-105 triumph over the Detroit Pistons.

In the process Reed became the highest scorer in Knicks' history.

Reed, who was sidelined for a few games a couple of weeks ago with the flu, was slow to recover and during his convalescing period the Knicks dropped six of eight games and had watched their lead in the National Basketball Association's East Divsion dwindle to three and one-half games.

"It sure feels good to get going again," said Reed after Sunday's effort pushed him past Carl Braun and into first place on the Knicks' all-time scoring list with 10,511 points. "A lot of people have been thinking that I'm washed up."

Reed got scoring support from Bill Bradley with 22 points and Mike Riordan with 19 as the Knicks snapped a five-game losing streak on the road with a victory at Detroit. Dave Bing paced the Pistons with 26 points.

In other Sunday action, Milwaukee routed Atlanta, 142-120; Los Angeles topped Cincinnati, 142-131; Philadelphia crushed Seattle 145-119; Boston beat Cleveland, 121-100; Phoenix defeated Chicago, 113-112; and Buffalo whipped Portland, 123-111.

Bob Dandridge connected on 15 of 20 shots from the floor and scored 33 points to spark the Bucks' to their 41st victory in 49 games. Oscar Robertson chipped in with 29 points and 15 assists while Pete Maravich led the Hawks with 30 points

Wilt Chamberlain scored 35 points and collected 29 rebounds to pace the Lakers' victory. Jerry West supported Chamberlain with 32 points and Happy Hairston and Keith Erickson chipped in with 28 and 25 points respectively. Tom Van Arsdale led Cincinnati with 25 points. Billy Cunningham scored 33 points and Archie Clark added 32 as Philadelphia kept pace with the Knicks by trimming Seattle. The 76ers remain four games behind the Knicks in the East Division. Spencer Haywood led the Supersonics with 30 points.

John Havlicek collected 36 points and Jo Jo White added 28 as the Celtics handed the Cavaliers their 47th loss in 54 games. Johnny Johnson topped Cleveland with 29 points.

The Suns rallied from 11 points down in the last nine and one-half minutes to nip Chicago. Phoenix moved ahead to stay with 1:31 left as they overcame a 34-point effort by Chicago's Bob Love. Mel Counts and Paul Silas paced the Suns with 18 points each.

Bob Kauffman's 30 points paced Buffalo to its third straight victory. Geoff Petrie topped Portland with 28 points.

Allen Joins Dodgers

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Richie Allen will work out with the Los Angeles Dodgers at Dodger Stadium Monday, the club said Friday.

Allen, 28, arrived here Thursday night. The controversial slugger was traded to the Dodgers by the St. Louis Cardinals this winter for Ted Sizemore and Bob Stinson.

The Dodgers conducted workouts Wednesday and Friday. The drills are not open to the public.

Warning Signal Plan For Paloma Avenue

Coleman School children, crossing the Northwestern Pacific Railroad tracks on Paloma Avenue in San Rafael soon will be protected by a flashing red signal and a piercing alarm if trains approach.

The railroad has begun work on a $8,200 warning system, settling a long dispute, according to Norris Rawles, city director of public works.

Although the city, at parents' urgings, asked for the pedestrian signal in December 1969, the project was delayed because the railroad, which does not ordinarily provide warning signals for pedestrian crossings, did not think they were necessary.

Two trains normally use the tracks each day.

Agreement to proceed with the project was reached last month when both the city and railroad agreed to split the cost.

Rawles said he has applied to the State Public Utilities Commission to pay 50 per cent of the city's $4,100 share.

Noted Tenor To Appear For Recital

James Schwabacher of San Francisco, operatic tenor and concert artist, will make a rare Marin appearance in a lecture-recital at the College of Marin tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the Fine Arts Theater. The program is sponsored by the college's concert-lecture series.

Schwabacher, in recital with pianist Alden Gilchrist, will present "A Pageant of Song," featuring nine songs by Ives, Gabriel Faure and songs of Handel, Schubert, Berlioz, Hahn and Poulenc.

The tenor's operatic career has taken him into concert halls across the nation and in Europe. He has appeared as a guest soloist with symphony orchestras in San Francisco, Cincinnati, Vancouver, Buffalo and Portland and at leading university and college campuses throughout the country.

Schwabacher is president of the San Francisco Conservatory of Music and is founder of the San Francisco Spring Opera. He has served as president of the San Francisco Symphony Foundation and president of the Merola Memorial Fund which sponsors opera audition.

The box office opens at 7 p.m.

M. Elizabeth Smith Is Head Of Women's Rights Group

A life-long resident of Marin, M. Elizabeth Smith of Novato is serving as the first elected president of the Marin Chapter of the National Organization for Women.

The Marin Chapter of NOW follows the national goals of the National Organization for Women, to take action to bring women into the mainstream of American society, exercising the privileges and responsibilities thereof, in equal partnership with men.

"This purpose includes, but is not limited to, equal rights in all aspects of citizenship, public service, employment, education and family life, as well as freedom from discrimination because of marital status or parenthood," says the president.

Specific areas of concern in Marin for NOW, Mrs. Smith says, are job discrimination, the need for child care, and education toward ending discrimination against women.

Men as well as women may become members of NOW, which meets the first and third Thursday of the month at 8 p.m., currently at the College of Marin faculty lounge. Mrs. Smith said that NOW also plans monthly orientation meetings for men and women interested in its goals, to be held in various parts of Marin, and small discussion groups for women to share their experiences of being female in a male-dominated society.

The wife of L. Charles Smith of Novato and the mother of four children, Katherine, 15; Bradford, 13; Laura, 10; and David, 3, Elizabeth Smith is also a student at the College of Marin and hopes to enter Sonoma State College in the fall. She is a graduate of San Rafael High School.

M. ELIZABETH SMITH

Her interests range from human rights to reading, writing and music, and she is a founder of the Novatans for Racial Equality and is a member of the Novato Presbyterian Church.

Prior to her election as president of NOW, she served as acting secretary for the Marin chapter, formed last year.

Other officers for 1971 are Barbara Padilla (Mrs. Arthur) of Novato, vice president; Helen Finckbone of San Rafael, treasurer; Barbara Hosmer of Greenbrae, recording secretry; and Cavan Medrano (Mrs. Anthony) of San Rafael, corresponding secretary.

The chapter also has working committees on child care, job discrimination, education, speakers bureau, media image, abortion issues, orientation and small groups.

ON THE AGENDA

Capt. Harvey Teague Is Honored For Service To Youth

An honorary service award was presented to Capt. Harvey Teague of Novato for his outstanding service to youth in the community by the 14th District, California Congress of Parents and Teachers, at the founders day luncheon Thursday at the Edgewater Inn in Corte Madera.

Teague has been with the Marin County Sheriff's Department for 15 years, and was recently promoted to captain and assigned as captain-in-charge, patrol and security division.

Under his direction, the first juvenile bureau was formed in Marin in February, 1960. He has worked closely with teen-agers and parents during the past 11 years. He also assisted in the bicycle identification project initiated by the Peter Pan Chapter of the Children's Home Society in 1968 and served on the Allied Juvenile Agencies of Marin participating in the compilation and publishing of that organizations' booklet, "A Guide for Youth and Parents."

Teague has been active in the Boy Scout program and was an Eagle Scout. He has been scout master of several Marin troops and is presently serving as member-at-large on the executive board of the Marin Boy Scout Council. In 1969 he was one of five persons from the United States selected to attend the 50th anniversary of the wood badge training team in London.

A resident of Novato, he and his wife have four children. He received a bachelor's degree in police and criminology from John F. Kennedy University in Martinez and was graduated from the Delinquency Control Institute at the University of Southern California. He will take office as president of the Northern California Juvenile Officers' Association in April.

Teague likes to cook and collects recipes from foreign countries. He also sings and participates in the Community Players.

The presentation was made by Dr. and Mrs. Dallas Wagner of San Rafael and Marin County Sheriff Louis Mountanos.

BRAILLE TRANSCRIBER

'Blind Child Should Share World'

By DYANNE FORTNER

"A blind child needs to share every possible aspect of the sighted world. He must not be isolated from it. Thus the child and his sighted parents can read together," explains Mrs. Jay Deaton of Petaluma, a dedicated volunteer braille transcriber.

Transcribing of printed material into braille for the blind so that the eyes of the sighted and the hand of the blind can "see" together was put together by Twin Vision, a division of the American Brotherhood for the Blind, Inc. It is a simple, but unique, technique of combining identical text in print and braille on pages facing each other to allow the books to be read by blind and sighted together.

The books are distributed free throughout the United States by this volunteer, non-profit organization whose headquarters are in Tarzana. All officers, directors and trustees are themselves blind persons.

Phyllis Deaton is one of 604 volunteer transcribers with membership in the California Transcribers and Educators of the Visually Handicapped, Inc. This organization is not primarily concerned with twin vision but with any printed material, whether it be literature, chemistry mathematics or music. Its membership is also known for efforts in various needs of the multiply handicapped, recorded materials and large print.

Anything that is fit to print can be put into the six dots that make up a braille cell, says Mrs. Deaton. A possible 258 combination forms can be derived from a cell, and meanings are determined by its relationship to an adjoining cell. Take for example the word "to." You would use the 2, 3 and 5 dot. Any misplacement of a dot can make a word take on an entirely different context, she said.

"AN AVERAGE blind child has a reading speed of 200 words per minute," said Mrs. Deaton. "He uses one index finger to keep the place of the line while the other index finger travels left to right."

She said that there are 1,000 blind and partially-seeing students enrolled in grades 9-12 in California's public schools.

Brailled pages are bulky so it is essential that short forms be used. Phyllis Deaton mentioned that the World Book encyclopedia, hard bound, both sides imprinted with braille cells, weighs 700 pounds and requires a 43 foot long bookshelf to stack its 145 volumes. Overshadowing the bulk is the expense. One brailled book, large print or recorded text for a visually handicapped high school student can cost between $50 and $100," said Mrs. Deaton. The young-appearing grandmother began her formal training in transcribing five years ago by enrolling at Santa Rosa Junior College. Listed under the department of English, braille transcribing is offered weekly. After completing the course, most students are not encouraged to become certified transcribers right away, but instead to work for one year.

"However," remembers Phyllis "I was eager to have my work evaluated so I submitted three manuscripts to the Library of Congress in Washington, D.C., for certification."

She explained that the library's standards are extremely rigid, and perfection is expected. If errors are discovered, the manuscript is returned to the transcriber with full explanations. If a student fails on his third manuscript attempt he is not allowed to submit others. "My second piece was accepted," grins Phyllis proudly.

"TRANSCRIBING IS the most tedious and time consuming work I've ever done," she said. "Speed is not stressed but rather accuracy. To keep current I set aside the first two hours of each day for my work," Phyllis explained. An early riser, she discovered she can accomplish much more, without mistakes, by isolating herself before the telephone begins to ring. "Most women just are not up at that hour!", Phyllis laughed.

"Proofreading is literally a pain in the neck to me", she said. "An old back injury limits my spending long periods of time sitting. Also, I've found if you let your work get cold between sittings you can do a much better job of proofreading."

Taking out aggressions on her transcriber is a pet of Mrs. Deaton's. "If my husband, a certified public accountant, is late for dinner, rather than fret and stew I bat out 10 pages.", she said smiling. Most transcribers are women, many of whom are young mothers with children at home. There is, however, a growing number of retired men taking an interest in transcribing. "Nothing one can choose to do could be more rewarding," exclaimed Phyllis.

The attitude of volunteers has been "only the best is good enough." Mrs. Deaton said that certification is desirable, but it is not necessary. It does not insure perfection. Most braillists, after becoming expert in the literary field prepare to learn a foreign language or the Nemeth code of braille mathematics. Mrs. Deaton plans to tackle mathematics next.

PROOF READING costs seven cents a page and must be done before a book is bound. Because there are no volunteer proof readers in Sonoma County and material must be sent away, it was again emphasized that accuracy is foremost.

When working on twin vision books Mrs. Deaton submits them to a volunteer reader in Oceanside. If there are errors, the entire book is returned with the page paper-clipped. Erasures are frowned upon and correction usually means that the entire page be redone before resubmitted for proof reading. "A post card from Oceanside is always a thrill," she said. "It indicates no erasures, no mistakes!"

Twin Vision is doing a lot of thermoform work," she remarked. Thermoform is a large machine which produces raised illustrations in durable plastic that can be bound into books along with sheets of print and braille.

"My favorite example of this is Charles Schultz's "Happiness Is", she said. Another favorite of blind children seems to be calendars.

In Marin County every Wednesday morning at the College of Marin warehouse volunteers of Twin Vision meet to bind books and thermoform.

Many times Phyllis Deaton has transcribed private projects for blind friends, and her husband binds her work. A youngster in Santa Rosa has been fortunate to enjoy his Sunday school papers, crossword puzzles and lessons because of her. Another boy of junior high school age made a special request of her:

Would it be possible to transcribe his school's handbook?

ANOTHER COMPASSIONATE project of Phyllis' was to transcribe each Sunday's hymns at her church for a blind man unable heretofore to read along.

Thus, the need for brailled materials go far beyond formal educational realms, she points out.

Sonoma County Branch of C.T.E.V.H. is illustrating children's books with materials to simulate plants, animal bones and wood. Their latest accomplishment was doing a story about a saggy, baggy elephant so that a blind child might follow the story by feeling the slick enamel of an elephant's tusk or the tough texture of elephant hide.

M. Elizabeth Smith Is Head Of Women's Rights Group

A life-long resident of Marin, M. Elizabeth Smith of Novato is serving as the first elected president of the Marin Chapter of the National Organization for Women.

The Marin Chapter of NOW follows the national goals of the National Organization for Women, to take action to bring women into the mainstream of American society, exercising the privileges and responsibilities thereof, in equal partnership with men.

"This purpose includes, but is not limited to, equal rights in all aspects of citizenship, public service, employment, education and family life, as well as freedom from discrimination because of marital status or parenthood," says the president.

Specific areas of concern in Marin for NOW, Mrs. Smith says, are job discrimination, the need for child care, and education toward ending discrimination against women.

Men as well as women may become members of NOW, which meets the first and third Thursday of the month at 8 p.m., currently at the College of Marin faculty lounge. Mrs. Smith said that NOW also plans monthly orientation meetings for men and women interested in its goals, to be held in various parts of Marin, and small discussion groups for women to share their experiences of being female in a male-dominated society.

The wife of L. Charles Smith of Novato and the mother of four children, Katherine, 15; Bradford, 13; Laura, 10; and David, 3, Elizabeth Smith is also a student at the College of Marin and hopes to enter Sonoma State College in the fall. She is a graduate of San Rafael High School.

M. ELIZABETH SMITH

Her interests range from human rights to reading, writing and music, and she is a founder of the Novatans for Racial Equality and is a member of the Novato Presbyterian Church.

Prior to her election as president of NOW, she served as acting secretary for the Marin chapter, formed last year.

Other officers for 1971 are Barbara Padilla (Mrs. Arthur) of Novato, vice president; Helen Finckbone of San Rafael, treasurer; Barbara Hosmer of Greenbrae, recording secretry; and Cavan Medrano (Mrs. Anthony) of San Rafael, corresponding secretary.

The chapter also has working committees on child care, job discrimination, education, speakers bureau, media image, abortion issues, orientation and small groups.

MRS. JOHN G. Eliot Jr.

BRAILLE TRANSCRIBER

'Blind Child Should Share World'

By DYANNE FORTNER

"A blind child needs to share every possible aspect of the sighted world. He must not be isolated from it. Thus the child and his sighted parents can read together," explains Mrs. Jay Deaton of Petaluma, a dedicated volunteer braille transcriber.

Transcribing of printed material into braille for the blind so that the eyes of the sighted and the hand of the blind can "see" together was put together by Twin Vision, a division of the American Brotherhood for the Blind, Inc. It is a simple, but unique, technique of combining identical text in print and braille on pages facing each other to allow the books to be read by blind and sighted together.

The books are distributed free throughout the United States by this volunteer, non-profit organization whose headquarters are in Tarzana. All officers, directors and trustees are themselves blind persons.

Phyllis Deaton is one of 604 volunteer transcribers with membership in the California Transcribers and Educators of the Visually Handicapped, Inc. This organization is not primarily concerned with twin vision but with any printed material, whether it be literature, chemistry mathematics or music. Its membership is also known for efforts in various needs of the multiply handicapped, recorded materials and large print.

Anything that is fit to print can be put into the six dots that make up a braille cell, says Mrs. Deaton. A possible 258 combination forms can be derived from a cell, and meanings are determined by its relationship to an adjoining cell. Take for example the word "to." You would use the 2, 3 and 5 dot. Any misplacement of a dot can make a word take on an entirely different context, she said.

"AN AVERAGE blind child has a reading speed of 200 words per minute," said Mrs. Deaton. "He uses one index finger to keep the place of the line while the other index finger travels left to right."

She said that there are 1,000 blind and partially-seeing students enrolled in grades 9-12 in California's public schools.

Brailled pages are bulky so it is essential that short forms be used. Phyllis Deaton mentioned that the World Book encyclopedia, hard bound, both sides imprinted with braille cells, weighs 700 pounds and requires a 43 foot long bookshelf to stack its 145 volumes. Overshadowing the bulk is the expense. One brailled book, large print or recorded text for a visually handicapped high school student can cost between $50 and $100," said Mrs. Deaton. The young-appearing grandmother began her formal training in transcribing five years ago by enrolling at Santa Rosa Junior College. Listed under the department of English, braille transcribing is offered weekly. After completing the course, most students are not encouraged to become certified transcribers right away, but instead to work for one year.

"However," remembers Phyllis "I was eager to have my work evaluated so I submitted three manuscripts to the Library of Congress in Washington, D.C., for certification."

She explained that the library's standards are extremely rigid, and perfection is expected. If errors are discovered, the manuscript is returned to the transcriber with full explanations. If a student fails on his third manuscript attempt he is not allowed to submit others. "My second piece was accepted," grins Phyllis proudly.

"TRANSCRIBING IS the most tedious and time consuming work I've ever done," she said. "Speed is not stressed but rather accuracy. To keep current I set aside the first two hours of each day for my work," Phyllis explained. An early riser, she discovered she can accomplish much more, without mistakes, by isolating herself before the telephone begins to ring. "Most women just are not up at that hour!", Phyllis laughed.

"Proofreading is literally a pain in the neck to me", she said. "An old back injury limits my spending long periods of time sitting. Also, I've found if you let your work get cold between sittings you can do a much better job of proofreading."

Taking out aggressions on her transcriber is a pet of Mrs. Deaton's. "If my husband, a certified public accountant, is late for dinner, rather than fret and stew I bat out 10 pages.", she said smiling. Most transcribers are women, many of whom are young mothers with children at home. There is, however, a growing number of retired men taking an interest in transcribing. "Nothing one can choose to do could be more rewarding," exclaimed Phyllis.

The attitude of volunteers has been "only the best is good enough." Mrs. Deaton said that certification is desirable, but it is not necessary. It does not insure perfection. Most braillists, after becoming expert in the literary field prepare to learn a foreign language or the Nemeth code of braille mathematics. Mrs. Deaton plans to tackle mathematics next.

PROOF READING costs seven cents a page and must be done before a book is bound. Because there are no volunteer proof readers in Sonoma County and material must be sent away, it was again emphasized that accuracy is foremost.

When working on twin vision books Mrs. Deaton submits them to a volunteer reader in Oceanside. If there are errors, the entire book is returned with the page paper-clipped. Erasures are frowned upon and correction usually means that the entire page be redone before resubmitted for proof reading. "A post card from Oceanside is always a thrill," she said. "It indicates no erasures, no mistakes!"

Twin Vision is doing a lot of thermoform work," she remarked. Thermoform is a large machine which produces raised illustrations in durable plastic that can be bound into books along with sheets of print and braille.

"My favorite example of this is Charles Schultz's "Happiness Is", she said. Another favorite of blind children seems to be calendars.

In Marin County every Wednesday morning at the College of Marin warehouse volunteers of Twin Vision meet to bind books and thermoform.

Many times Phyllis Deaton has transcribed private projects for blind friends, and her husband binds her work. A youngster in Santa Rosa has been fortunate to enjoy his Sunday school papers, crossword puzzles and lessons because of her. Another boy of junior high school age made a special request of her:

Would it be possible to transcribe his school's handbook?

ANOTHER COMPASSIONATE project of Phyllis' was to transcribe each Sunday's hymns at her church for a blind man unable heretofore to read along.

Thus, the need for brailled materials go far beyond formal educational realms, she points out.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

She Thinks He's Stingy And He Thinks She Is Off Her Rocker

DEAR HELEN: My wife is 70. I am 71. We have been married six years and there is no love in our house. She thinks I have a fortune. The truth (which she knows) is my pension and social security come to less than $400. She gets $100 a month social security, but refuses to spend it.

She runs up $30 phone bills every month, and buys clothes she doesn't need. I got a camper for trips but, because of the weather, haven't taken any yet. So she sleeps in the camper and threatens to take it off on her own, as it is "community property" and half hers.

She nags and squawls and won't let my children come in the house. She had her son arrested because he didn't pay back money she loaned him — except it was my money. Hers is all socked away in a place I can't find.

She thinks I am crazy and I think she is off her rocker. I married to have a peaceful old age. It's only peaceful around here when she is sulking.

If she leaves, half of my property goes with her. Help me out of this mess. — BAD BARGAIN

DEAR HELEN: My husband of six years sent you a letter earlier today. I saw him sneaking it to the mailman. He no doubt told you I had a mental condition, but he is the one. I am 70, he is 71, and thinks he is very sexy. He prefers his family and the ladies in church over me. He won't support me. If I want clothes or money for telephone calls to my sister, he says "Pay for them yourself."

But he had enough money to buy an expensive housecar that just sits there because he is too cheap to buy gas for a trip.

I tried giving a sack of dropped apples to the mail carrier, but he took them away saying they belonged to him. Then he pulled the plug to the freezer and forgot to hook it in again. When the food spoiled, he suggested I boil it 20 minutes and use it anyway. Why did he unplug the freezer? To save electricity overnight.

If you met this man you'd be impressed, as he puts on a good show but even our pastor has given up on him.

I have moved to the camper outdoors and am having a non-support charge opened against him. Do you blame me? — GOT THE WORST OF IT

DEAR READERS: These two letters have been changed to protect the guilty (and I suspect both writers share equally here). What can I say except:

Look, you scrappy septegenarians: Life is too short to spend it fighting over money. Your combined $500 a month isn't a fortune, but it's ample for a comfortable home life and occasional trips. Forget 'mine and thine' and work out a budget. This won't solve all your problems but it may prove the foolishness of feuding over something you can't take with you. — H.

Critics Of White House Food Conference Will Have Their Own

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — Some of the leading organizers — and critics — of the White House Conference on Food, Nutrition and Health a year ago are quietly planning a follow-up session to rival a formal one scheduled February 5 by the Nixon Administration in Williamsburg, Va.

The purpose of the dissident group is to protest several aspects of the Williamsburg affair in a way that will pressure the Administration to do more to solve the persistent problem of hunger and malnutrition in this country.

Leader of the group is Robert Choate, whose independent studies led to the "discovery" of the hunger problem three years ago. His reports were largely responsible for getting prominent Senators to recognize hunger as a major problem despite the nation's phenomenal affluence.

The White House conference in December, 1969, was the culmination of Senate hearings, a dramatic television program ("Hunger in America"), a widely acclaimed book ("Let Them Eat Promises") and numerous news reports indicating that hunger was very real for millions of Americans.

Choate became one of the principal organizers of the 1969 conference, but before the conference was over, he had become openly critical of some aspects of the affair.

HE IS particularly critical of the Williamsburg conference. He calls it an attempt by the Administration to "hand-select people who will pat Nixon on the back." Choate was not invited.

Also not invited were representatives of a dozen task forces which Choate helped set up for the 1969 conference. The task forces were designed to give consumers, the poor, women's groups and similar elements a voice in the conference proceedings.

The Williamsburg conference will include chairmen and vice chairmen of the panels, dominated by industry and academic people, who were given the principal authority to make recommendations. Task force reports went far beyond those of the formal panels in urging government action to eliminate hunger and malnutrition.

Choate readily concedes that the Nixon Administration has already done much more in this respect than preceding Democratic Administrations. But he says that is far from enough.

With a reference to the President's interest in football, he compares the present situation to "giving away the ball game on the 40-yard line," because of cuts in funds for some food distribution programs.

ALONG WITH others in the so-called "hunger lobby" here, Choate wants to hold a conference that includes task force representatives and residents of areas where hunger and malnutrition are worst.

An informal collection of people representing labor unions, religious groups and citizen groups is trying to reaise enough money to pay transportation costs for 50 to 100 delegates who could not afford to come at their own expense.

Although no political leaders are actively involved, pressure for more action is building up on Capitol Hill.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

She Thinks He's Stingy And He Thinks She Is Off Her Rocker

DEAR HELEN: My wife is 70. I am 71. We have been married six years and there is no love in our house. She thinks I have a fortune. The truth (which she knows) is my pension and social security come to less than $400. She gets $100 a month social security, but refuses to spend it.

She runs up $30 phone bills every month, and buys clothes she doesn't need. I got a camper for trips but, because of the weather, haven't taken any yet. So she sleeps in the camper and threatens to take it off on her own, as it is "community property" and half hers.

She nags and squawls and won't let my children come in the house. She had her son arrested because he didn't pay back money she loaned him — except it was my money. Hers is all socked away in a place I can't find.

She thinks I am crazy and I think she is off her rocker. I married to have a peaceful old age. It's only peaceful around here when she is sulking.

DEAR HELEN: My husband of six years sent you a letter earlier today. I saw him sneaking it to the mailman. He no doubt told you I had a mental condition, but he is the one. I am 70, he is 71, and thinks he is very sexy. He prefers his family and the ladies in church over me. He won't support me. If I want clothes or money for telephone calls to my sister, he says "Pay for them yourself."

But he had enough money to buy an expensive housecar that just sits there because he is too cheap to buy gas for a trip.

I tried giving a sack of dropped apples to the mail carrier, but he took them away saying they belonged to him. Then he pulled the plug to the freezer and forgot to hook it in again. When the food spoiled, he suggested I boil it 20 minutes and use it anyway. Why did he unplug the freezer? To save electricity overnight.

If you met this man you'd be impressed, as he puts on a good show but even our pastor has given up on him.

I have moved to the camper outdoors and am having a non-support charge opened against him. Do you blame me? — GOT THE WORST OF IT

DEAR READERS: These two letters have been changed to protect the guilty (and I suspect both writers share equally here). What can I say except:

Look, you scrappy septegenarians: Life is too short to spend it fighting over money. Your combined $500 a month isn't a fortune, but it's ample for a comfortable home life and occasional trips. Forget 'mine and thine' and work out a budget. This won't solve all your problems but it may prove the foolishness of feuding over something you can't take with you. — H.

Critics Of White House Food Conference Will Have Their Own

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — Some of the leading organizers — and critics — of the White House Conference on Food, Nutrition and Health a year ago are quietly planning a follow-up session to rival a formal one scheduled February 5 by the Nixon Administration in Williamsburg, Va.

The purpose of the dissident group is to protest several aspects of the Williamsburg affair in a way that will pressure the Administration to do more to solve the persistent problem of hunger and malnutrition in this country.

Leader of the group is Robert Choate, whose independent studies led to the "discovery" of the hunger problem three years ago. His reports were largely responsible for getting prominent Senators to recognize hunger as a major problem despite the nation's phenomenal affluence.

The White House conference in December, 1969, was the culmination of Senate hearings, a dramatic television program ("Hunger in America"), a widely acclaimed book ("Let Them Eat Promises") and numerous news reports indicating that hunger was very real for millions of Americans.

Choate became one of the principal organizers of the 1969 conference, but before the conference was over, he had become openly critical of some aspects of the affair.

HE IS particularly critical of the Williamsburg conference. He calls it an attempt by the Administration to "hand-select people who will pat Nixon on the back." Choate was not invited.

Also not invited were representatives of a dozen task forces which Choate helped set up for the 1969 conference. The task forces were designed to give consumers, the poor, women's groups and similar elements a voice in the conference proceedings.

The Williamsburg conference will include chairmen and vice chairmen of the panels, dominated by industry and academic people, who were given the principal authority to make recommendations. Task force reports went far beyond those of the formal panels in urging government action to eliminate hunger and malnutrition.

Choate readily concedes that the Nixon Administration has already done much more in this respect than preceding Democratic Administrations. But he says that is far from enough.

With a reference to the President's interest in football, he compares the present situation to "giving away the ball game on the 40-yard line," because of cuts in funds for some food distribution programs.

ALONG WITH others in the so-called "hunger lobby" here, Choate wants to hold a conference that includes task force representatives and residents of areas where hunger and malnutrition are worst.

An informal collection of people representing labor unions, religious groups and citizen groups is trying to reaise enough money to pay transportation costs for 50 to 100 delegates who could not afford to come at their own expense.

Although no political leaders are actively involved, pressure for more action is building up on Capitol Hill.

Scenic Drive Vs. Safety Issue Poses Hard Decision For Tiburon

Tiburon residents must decide whether the preservation of the Richardson Bay shoreline is worth added congestion along Tiburon Boulevard in the next decade.

This prospect emerges from a report on future widening of Tiburon Boulevard. The document was prepared by the Joint Balanced Transportation Committee, a group of Belvedere and Tiburon residents.

The report was the subject of a public hearing Thursday in Tiburon and two future meetings are planned, one for Belvedere and the other a joint session of the Belvedere and Tiburon planning commissions.

The report, which differs from proposals advanced by the California Division of Highways, suggests that Tiburon Boulevard be made four lanes from Reed Ranch Road (where the present four-lane portion ends) to Avenida Miraflores, then narrow to two lanes the rest of the way to downtown Tiburon.

The proposal would retain the present Tiburon Boulevard from downtown to Avenida Miraflores and build the new two-lane highway several hundred feet away between the bayshore and residences in the Pine Terrace-Sommers Court areas.

The old Tiburon Boulevard, the report suggests, should be kept as a local service road so as not to force residents whose driveways connect with the highway to back out into high-speed traffic.

In these areas the city should swap its recently acquired railroad right-of-way to the state for property closer to Richardson Bay, the report says. The planned bicycle and pedestrian path then could be built closer to the shore.

The major concern of residents at Thursday's meeting, Moody said, was the portion of highway between "the Knoll" near Avenida Miraflores and the Belvedere Tennis Club. Residents of Pine Terrace almost unanimously opposed building the road along the bay, he said.

"But someone must make a policy decision on whether we're to accept higher congestion and potential danger in order to preserve the shoreline and keep it natural," Moody said, pointing out that traffic is expected to double within 10 years.

The committee strongly opposes state plans to build the highway through the Knoll and filled land now leased by Tiburon for Richardson Bay Park. "It would be inappropriate to use the flat, water-related (Richardson Bay Park) land for a highway," it says.

Tiburon Boulevard should be a "scenic drive," the report says, "designed to create a pleasurable driving experience. Landscaping, lane separation, reasonably slow traffic speeds, orientation to views and separation from pedestrian and bicycle traffic" should be included.

The report will be presented to Belvedere residents Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Belvedere Community Center. The Belvedere and Tiburon planning commissions will hold a joint hearing on the plan Feb. 17 at 7:30 p.m. in the Reed School auditorium. A joint meeting of the Tiburon and Belvedere city councils is tentatively planned for March 15 at 7:30 p.m., also at Reed School.

The incident occurred about 10:30 p.m., according to the sheriff's office.

The report will be presented to Belvedere residents Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Belvedere Community Center. The Belvedere and Tiburon planning commissions will hold a joint hearing on the plan Feb. 17 at 7:30 p.m. in the Reed School auditorium. A joint meeting of the Tiburon and Belvedere city councils is tentatively planned for March 15 at 7:30 p.m., also at Reed School.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

The Squeeze And The Right Way To Try Key Finesse

A practical expert would gladly give up everything he knows about such advanced plays as the squeeze if he could only guess the right was to finesse. In most hands you don't have to be an expert to guess right: tossing a coin might be as good a way as any to make the right decision. But there are exceptional cases, like the hand recently played by Bob Mann, better known as a television producer than as a bridge player.

TRUMP LEAD

Mann won the trump lead, continued with a trump to dummy and returned a low heart since he could prevent the loss of a club trick if East had the ace of hearts. Unfortunately, West captured the king of hearts with the ace and returned the king of clubs to force out the ace.

Now the contract depended on losing only one diamond trick. The traditional method is to lead a diamond to dummy's ace and return a low diamond. When East plays low, South tries to guess whether to play the ten or the queen of diamonds.

This type of guess will work about 75% of the time. In the remaining 25% no guess will succeed, since West will have both the king and the jack of diamonds. Mann suspected he was dealing with a case of this kind since West had made a takeout double of one spade and therefore surely had most of the missing strength.

EXECUTES END PLAY

Mann decided to rely on an end play instead of a guess. He cashed the queen of hearts, ruffed a heart in dummy and then led dummy's eight of clubs. East stepped up with the nine of clubs and returned the nine of diamonds.

Declarer put up the ten of diamonds in the hope that East had led from the jack. If so, West's king would be trapped.

LOW FROM DUMMY

As it happened, West was able to play the jack of diamonds on South's ten. Declarer thereupon played low from dummy, allowing West to keep the lead.

West had no safe return. If West led a heart or a club, dummy could ruff while South discarded a diamond. West actually returned a low diamond, and declarer made his contract by allowing this to ride around to the queen.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one heart. Your 14 points in high cards make an opening bid mandatory, even without counting one point in addition for the doubleton. Most experts believe in bidding one heart with this kind of hand. Those who promise a five-card suit in an opening bid of one in a major suit would open this hand with one club.

Pipe Smokers Hit As Worst Polluters

LONDON (UPI) —Doctors advising smokers to switch from cigarettes to pipes are doing nothing but contributing to pollution of the atmosphere, the National Society of Nonsmokers charged Friday.

"The pipe is the foulest of air polluters," the society said in the latest issue of the British Medical Journal.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

One Should Study Microclimate If Moving For Health Reasons

A change of climate is recommended occasionally when a person has an illness that is aggravated by local weather condition. Pulling up stakes, however, requires thought and planning.

Making new friends and finding a new job are not easy, especially when a person is ill. Feelings, such as unhappiness and insecurity, may nullify the physical advantages of the most ideal climate. I usually advise a trial period of 3 to 6 months before the person makes a permanent move, as the new environment may not prove satisfactory.

Many mistakes are made because the area was not explored thoroughly. The general climate may be perfect but the immediate surroundings (micro-climate) may be far from healthy. The South sounds wonderful to a Chicagoan with asthma or heart disease. But he may become worse if he settles in an industrial area where the air is polluted or where smog or dust is a problem. Soot, rural dust and pollen are more likely to affect those who are active because they inhale a large volume of contaminants.

MICROCLIMATE changes from spot to spot. Temperature, wind and atmospheric conditions often vary considerably on the two sides of a hill or ridge. Those escaping from an allergy, such as asthma or hay fever, should study the microclimate before moving. Related allergies also may exist.

I recommended Arizona to a young housewife whose severe asthma could not be controlled in the hospital. When she stepped off the plane at Tucson, she was a new woman. An older man with an identical allergy also went to Arizona. He was back a week later, gasping, "I couldn't stand the dust." These are but a few of the reasons why a trial period is warranted, provided it will not create too great a hardship.

ARTHRITICS go through the same experience. Dry air is less disturbing but it is not a cure, and treatments similar to those given to people living in the North still are needed.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

San Rafael Plans Youth Snow Trip

Registration is on a first-come basis with a limit of 200 students. A fee will cover the bus trip, unlimited use of toboggans, snow saucers, sleds and a warming hut.

Registration may be made at the parks and recreation department at city hall.

15-Year-Old Held On Car Theft Count

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

One Should Study Microclimate If Moving For Health Reasons

A change of climate is recommended occasionally when a person has an illness that is aggravated by local weather condition. Pulling up stakes, however, requires thought and planning.

Making new friends and finding a new job are not easy, especially when a person is ill. Feelings, such as unhappiness and insecurity, may nullify the physical advantages of the most ideal climate. I usually advise a trial period of 3 to 6 months before the person makes a permanent move, as the new environment may not prove satisfactory.

Many mistakes are made because the area was not explored thoroughly. The general climate may be perfect but the immediate surroundings (micro-climate) may be far from healthy. The South sounds wonderful to a Chicagoan with asthma or heart disease. But he may become worse if he settles in an industrial area where the air is polluted or where smog or dust is a problem. Soot, rural dust and pollen are more likely to affect those who are active because they inhale a large volume of contaminants.

MICROCLIMATE changes from spot to spot. Temperature, wind and atmospheric conditions often vary considerably on the two sides of a hill or ridge. Those escaping from an allergy, such as asthma or hay fever, should study the microclimate before moving. Related allergies also may exist.

I recommended Arizona to a young housewife whose severe asthma could not be controlled in the hospital. When she stepped off the plane at Tucson, she was a new woman. An older man with an identical allergy also went to Arizona. He was back a week later, gasping, "I couldn't stand the dust." These are but a few of the reasons why a trial period is warranted, provided it will not create too great a hardship.

ARTHRITICS go through the same experience. Dry air is less disturbing but it is not a cure, and treatments similar to those given to people living in the North still are needed.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

San Rafael Plans Youth Snow Trip

A snow trip to Stanislaus National Forest for youngsters will be held Feb. 12, sponsored by the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department.

The trip is limited to boys and girls in the fourth through eighth grades. Buses will leave San Rafael High School and Terra Linda High School at 6 a.m., with return time set at 9 p.m.

Registration is on a first-come basis with a limit of 200 students. A fee will cover the bus trip, unlimited use of toboggans, snow saucers, sleds and a warming hut.

Registration may be made at the parks and recreation department at city hall.

15-Year-Old Held On Car Theft Count

Thomas Eugene Curtis, 15, of 515 Second Street, Petaluma, was arrested yesterday on suspicion of stealing a car.

Police said he was found driving a car that had been reported stolen by Maurice Turner, 110 Prospect Street, Petaluma. Curtis was booked into Sonoma County Juvenile Hall.

NORMA BELL
Teacher of the week

TEACHER

Children More Able Now

When Norma Bell started teaching kindergarten in 1943, "if you taught them anything, everybody was delighted," she says.

Now it's different. Most of the kindergarten children arrive at school already able to write their names, and many begin to read and do number work in a grade that used to be "almost all baby-sitting," she says.

Mrs. Bell, who teaches kindergarten at San Clemente School in Corte Madera (in the Larkspur School District), is delighted with the change.

"We give them a great deal of reading readiness and numbers readiness," she says. "Last year one girl completed the first reader while in kindergarten."

Changed attitudes and discarding of the belief that 5-year-olds were not ready to start learning to read and work with numbers, are largely responsible.

But another reason is that the teachers are able to spend more time with each pupil.

Larkspur district uses team teaching, and Mrs. Bell is one of two teachers for a kindergarten that this year has only 22 pupils (last year it had 32). This makes much individual attention possible.

All of Mrs. Bell's teaching career has been in primary grades but not all in kindergarten. But kindergarten is what she likes best, she says with enthusiastic feeling.

She has been at San Clemente School since 1962, and in the Larkspur district since 1955. Earlier she had taught in Santa Maria and San Anselmo.

Livingston Bros. To Open Store

Livingston Bros. of San Francisco will open a store in the Northgate Mall, San Rafael.

Jack Anderson of Commercial Real Estate, San Francisco leasing agent for Northgate Mall, said the women's wear specialty store chain has signed a lease for the 15,000 square-feet vacated by H. Liebes and Co. last November. He said the company plans to do some remodeling but may open by March.

Liebes has now gone into bankruptcy and has also closed its main San Francisco store. Earlier this month, another chain, City of Paris, announced it will close its store at Northgate within the next 30 or 60 days and consolidate its operations in its main downtown San Francisco store.

Livingston Bros. was founded in San Francisco about 95 years ago. Its main store is now located at Grant Avenue and Geary Street. There are stores at the Stonestown Shopping Center, San Francisco; in Palo Alto, San Jose and in the Hillsdale Shopping Center, San Mateo.

Mail Embargo Due To Strike

Post offices will not accept mail for the British Isles because of a mail and telephone strike, according to San Rafael Postmaster Hugh Cassidy.

The embargo on mail bound for England, Scotland, Northern Ireland and Wales was ordered last Monday by the U.S. Postal Service. It went into effect on Wednesday. It does not effect mail to southern Ireland.

Letters to U.S. military personnel stationed in Britain will be accepted but only if they are addressed to military A.P.O. numbers, Cassidy said.

Recycling Depot Will Be Studied

A use permit to allow a recycling depot on land owned by the City of Mill Valley near the sewage treatment plant on Sycamore Avenue will be considered when the Mill Valley Planning Commission meets today at 8 p.m. at city hall.

Under the plan, advanced by Whole Systems, a San Francisco planning and design firm, two acres of city-owned land would be leased at a nominal sum.

Materials, collected from Mill Valley households at a monthly fee of $1, would be separated and sent to Bay Area salvage firms.

In other business, the commission will consider a unit development plan for 203 apartments proposed for 15 acres along Richardson Bay near Sabella's restaurant.

Office Building Plan Gets Nod

Revised plans for construction of an office building at 72 Main Street have been recommended for approval by the Tiburon Design Review board.

Planning Director Wayne E. Moody said the plans, previously submitted to the board by developer Fred G. Zelinsky, were redrawn to separate the structure from the Tiburon Vintners Building. The first plan showed the buildings connected.

Also part of the new plans were revised schemes for pedestrian access and landscaping, which the board approved, Moody said.

The board told Zelinsky to continue work on window proportions and roofline details and submit a precise plan for the structure to the city planning commission on Feb. 1.

Bids On Land To Be Opened

Bids on the 1.68-acre Harvard Avenue site, being sold by the Mill Valley School District, will be opened when the district board meets today at 8 p.m. at Park School.

The land, adjacent to Marin Terrace School, has been appraised at $33,360, and the bid amounts will have a bearing on the district's negotiations with the Tamalpais Community Services District for sale of another parcel, the 5.13-acre Eastwood site.

If bids at or near the appraised value are received, the school will be supported in its contention that the Eastwood land is worth $78,000. A services district appraisal puts the value at $55,000.

NORMA BELL
Teacher of the week

TEACHER

Children More Able Now

When Norma Bell started teaching kindergarten in 1943, "if you taught them anything, everybody was delighted," she says.

Now it's different. Most of the kindergarten children arrive at school already able to write their names, and many begin to read and do number work in a grade that used to be "almost all baby-sitting," she says.

Mrs. Bell, who teaches kindergarten at San Clemente School in Corte Madera (in the Larkspur School District), is delighted with the change.

"We give them a great deal of reading readiness and numbers readiness," she says. "Last year one girl completed the first reader while in kindergarten."

Changed attitudes and discarding of the belief that 5-year-olds were not ready to start learning to read and work with numbers, are largely responsible.

But another reason is that the teachers are able to spend more time with each pupil.

Larkspur district uses team teaching, and Mrs. Bell is one of two teachers for a kindergarten that this year has only 22 pupils (last year it had 32). This makes much individual attention possible.

All of Mrs. Bell's teaching career has been in primary grades but not all in kindergarten. But kindergarten is what she likes best, she says with enthusiastic feeling.

She has been at San Clemente School since 1962, and in the Larkspur district since 1955. Earlier she had taught in Santa Maria and San Anselmo.

Livingston Bros. To Open Store

Livingston Bros. of San Francisco will open a store in the Northgate Mall, San Rafael.

Jack Anderson of Commercial Real Estate, San Francisco leasing agent for Northgate Mall, said the women's wear specialty store chain has signed a lease for the 15,000 square-feet vacated by H. Liebes and Co. last November. He said the company plans to do some remodeling but may open by March.

Liebes has now gone into bankruptcy and has also closed its main San Francisco store. Earlier this month, another chain, City of Paris, announced it will close its store at Northgate within the next 30 or 60 days and consolidate its operations in its main downtown San Francisco store.

Livingston Bros. was founded in San Francisco about 95 years ago. Its main store is now located at Grant Avenue and Geary Street. There are stores at the Stonestown Shopping Center, San Francisco; in Palo Alto, San Jose and in the Hillsdale Shopping Center, San Mateo.

Mail Embargo Due To Strike

Post offices will not accept mail for the British Isles because of a mail and telephone strike, according to San Rafael Postmaster Hugh Cassidy.

The embargo on mail bound for England, Scotland, Northern Ireland and Wales was ordered last Monday by the U.S. Postal Service. It went into effect on Wednesday. It does not effect mail to southern Ireland.

Letters to U.S. military personnel stationed in Britain will be accepted but only if they are addressed to military A.P.O. numbers, Cassidy said.

Recycling Depot Will Be Studied

A use permit to allow a recycling depot on land owned by the City of Mill Valley near the sewage treatment plant on Sycamore Avenue will be considered when the Mill Valley Planning Commission meets today at 8 p.m. at city hall.

Under the plan, advanced by Whole Systems, a San Francisco planning and design firm, two acres of city-owned land would be leased at a nominal sum.

Materials, collected from Mill Valley households at a monthly fee of $1, would be separated and sent to Bay Area salvage firms.

In other business, the commission will consider a unit development plan for 203 apartments proposed for 15 acres along Richardson Bay near Sabella's restaurant.

Office Building Plan Gets Nod

Revised plans for construction of an office building at 72 Main Street have been recommended for approval by the Tiburon Design Review board.

Planning Director Wayne E. Moody said the plans, previously submitted to the board by developer Fred G. Zelinsky, were redrawn to separate the structure from the Tiburon Vintners Building. The first plan showed the buildings connected.

Also part of the new plans were revised schemes for pedestrian access and landscaping, which the board approved, Moody said.

The board told Zelinsky to continue work on window proportions and roofline details and submit a precise plan for the structure to the city planning commission on Feb. 1.

Bids On Land To Be Opened

Bids on the 1.68-acre Harvard Avenue site, being sold by the Mill Valley School District, will be opened when the district board meets today at 8 p.m. at Park School.

The land, adjacent to Marin Terrace School, has been appraised at $33,360, and the bid amounts will have a bearing on the district's negotiations with the Tamalpais Community Services District for sale of another parcel, the 5.13-acre Eastwood site.

If bids at or near the appraised value are received, the school will be supported in its contention that the Eastwood land is worth $78,000. A services district appraisal puts the value at $55,000.

Special Limited Enrollment Period Ends Midnight, Thursday, January 28, 1971

Now...for people of all ages— $100.00 a week extra cash income when you go to the hospital!

AT LAST, HERE IS A PLAN THAT ACTUALLY PAYS YOU: ■ extra cash up to $10,000 ■ extra cash from your first day in hospital ■ extra cash pays up to 100 weeks ■ extra cash direct to you ■ extra cash to use any way you want to ■ extra cash in addition to Medicare or any other insurance!

SEND NO MONEY NOW! — Examine the policy without obligation

PAY ONLY IF YOU DECIDE TO JOIN • NO AGE LIMIT • INTRODUCTORY OFFER LASTS ONLY 3 MORE DAYS.

NOW . . . you and your family can join this Extra Cash Income Plan with no red tape, no questions to answer, no medical examination, no age limit, without having to see a salesman and without any qualifications whatsoever. But you must mail your Enrollment no later than Midnight, Thursday, January 28, 1971

Why You Need This EXTRA CASH Plan In Addition To Ordinary Hospitalization And Medicare

You know, of course, that the tremendous jump in hospital costs has forced millions who already have hospitalization to dig into savings or go into debt. Even with Medicare, they risk using up their savings or, worse yet, turning to family and friends for help. In fact, very few people have enough savings, hospitalization or income to cover the TOTAL cost of being sick or injured.

How long could you stay in the hospital without worrying about the pile-up of daily expenses? Who will pay for the expenses of costly X-rays, doctor bills, drugs and medicines? And how about the expenses at home—rent, food, telephone and others that just go on and on? With expenses like these, could you avoid having your savings wiped out and your family life upset?

Better Safe Than Sorry

Wouldn't it be comforting to know these problems could be solved by your Extra Cash Income Plan—the plan that gives you $100.00 a week—IN CASH—tax-free—from the very first day you're in the hospital for up to 100 full weeks.

PAYS YOU CASH . . . $100.00 a week tax-free cash from first day in hospital!

PAYS YOU CASH . . . to a maximum of $10,000.00 for any hospital stay lasting 100 weeks!

PAYS YOU CASH . . . Money mailed direct to you—not to the doctor or hospital!

PAYS YOU CASH . . . in addition to hospitalization, Medicare and Workmen's Compensation!

Even If You Are Over 65
This Extra Income Plan Pays You Cash in Addition to Medicare and Other Insurance!

An absolute must now that YOUR share of hospitalization costs has increased 10% under Medicare!

Even though Medicare will pay most of your hospital expenses, it just can't cover everything. Your Extra Income Plan helps solve this problem by paying $100.00 a week, in cash, direct to you, for as long as 100 weeks . . . and gives you the privilege of spending this money any way you want to. With your total benefit amounting to $10,000.00 you'll never have to turn to your children or charity. You'll keep your financial independence and enjoy the peace of mind that this Plan's EXTRA CASH will give you.

Absolutely NO LIMIT On Age

This Plan welcomes you no matter what your age is—and without any qualifications whatsoever! Even if you're over 75 you're still eligible . . . provided, of course, that you fill in and mail the Enrollment Form during this limited enrollment period.

EXTRA CASH Gives Peace Of Mind and Security, Helps Replace Lost Income

Everything costs more these days. (Who knows better than you?) Hospital costs alone have TRIPLED in just a few short years . . . and they're expected to DOUBLE soon. While 7 out of 8 Americans have some hospital insurance, most find that benefits simply don't cover ALL the bills that mount up when sickness or accident strikes.

Union Fidelity created this low-cost Hospital Income Plan to help cover your UNCOVERED expenses while hospitalized . . . to put EXTRA CASH in your hand for bills from the doctor, the surgeon, the nurse, the druggist or anyone else who provides service and treatment you need and want. You may even have enough left over to help REPLACE any income you lose because of your confinement.

And remember: Your EXTRA CASH is paid direct to you . . . and you use it any way you want to.

These Are The Only Exclusions!

The new Union Fidelity "Extra Income Hospital Plan" has NO WAITING PERIODS. It covers you immediately for every possible kind of sickness and accident except, of course, hospitalization caused by mental disorders; act of war; pregnancy, childbirth or miscarriage; or care provided in a government hospital. It even covers you for any chronic ailment or pre-existing condition after your policy has been in force for only 2 years. EVERYTHING ELSE IS COVERED!

Send No Money—Special Offer Expires Midnight of Date Shown on Coupon Below!

To introduce you to this remarkable new Plan we make this unusual offer with a Money-Back Guarantee. Just fill in the Enrollment Form on this page and mail it before Midnight of the Expiration Date. A full month's protection will go into effect on the very day we accept your Enrollment Form.

When you receive your policy, take your time to examine it carefully. It's written to be easy to understand. There is NO FINE PRINT. Show it to any trusted advisor—your doctor, your lawyer, your clergyman. In fact, show it to your own insurance man . . . even though he probably works for another insurance company! If he is a personal friend, he wants what is best for you. So you can believe him when he tells you there is no better value available anywhere.

Even then, if you're not completely satisfied, return the policy within 30 days and your money will be cheerfully refunded with no questions asked. However, if you decide to continue this worthwhile protection, you may do so at these low rates:

Union Fidelity Monthly Rates

Age at Enrollment	Monthly Premium Per Person
0-18	only $2.50
19-39	only $3.80
40-54	only $4.80
55-64	only $5.80
65-74	only $6.80
75 and over	only $9.10

NOTE: The regular Monthly Premium shown here (for your age at time of enrollment) is the exact amount you will continue to pay for the life of your policy. It will never increase because you pass from one age bracket to the next! It won't even change because of frequent claims or the amount of money you collect. It can change only if there is a general rate adjustment affecting all policies of this type in your state.

How Can We Offer All This Protection for So Little?

If you're lucky, you can buy ordinary insurance at any time and pay regular rates. But NOW—with just a stroke of your pen—you can get Union Fidelity's $100 a week ($14.28 per day) Extra Cash Income Plan for the special low cost shown above. And how is this possible? BECAUSE UNION FIDELITY ENROLLS A LARGE NUMBER OF PEOPLE AT ONE TIME . . . direct by mail. This highly efficient "mass enrollment" cuts our costs to the bone. We are able to issue thousands of policies in a few short days. By this method our overhead expenses are reduced drastically. And the savings are passed on to you!

And bear this in mind: the rate you pay now will never be increased because of changes in your health or age—nor will your benefits ever be reduced!

A Nationally Respected Company

As important as the cash income itself, the low cost and ease of enrollment, is this one vital fact: Your policy is backed by the resources, integrity and national reputation of Union Fidelity Life Insurance Company of Philadelphia, an old line legal reserve company licensed in 49 states and Washington, D.C.

18 Important Questions Answered

That tell you how Union Fidelity's $100.00-A-Week Extra Cash Income Plan gives you the protection you need—at amazingly low cost!

1. How much will this policy pay me when I go to the hospital?
You will receive $100.00 per week.

2. When will my hospitalization benefits start?
The day you enter the hospital.

3. Will I be paid if I am in the hospital for less than a full week?
Yes. This new Plan pays if you are in the hospital for only a day, or a week, a month, a year.

4. Does this policy have any "waiting periods" before I can use it?
No. It will go in force on the very same day that we receive your payment for the first month's coverage.

5. How long will I continue to receive my Extra Cash?
For every day you are hospitalized for as long as 100 weeks for every covered accident or sickness.

6. Is there any red tape to join?
No. We only ask you to complete and mail your Enrollment Form before the deadline date shown. No questions to answer. No salesman will call.

7. Suppose I collect benefits for a certain sickness or accident. What happens if I am hospitalized again for the same condition?
You go back to collecting your $100.00 a week until you've been hospitalized for a total of 100 weeks and have collected $10,000.00. Then, if the same condition puts you back in the hospital after you've resumed your normal activities for six months, you become eligible to receive $100.00 a week again, for up to 100 additional weeks. Any new condition will be covered immediately, of course.

8. How may I use these benefit payments?
You may use them any way you wish—for hospital and doctor bills, rent, food, household expenses or anything else. You alone decide how to use the money.

9. Why do I need your Extra Cash Plan in addition to my other insurance?
Chances are your present hospital insurance won't cover all your hospital and medical expenses. Even if it did, you will still need extra cash to cover all your household expenses.

10. May I join if I am over 65?
Yes. You are welcome to join no matter what your age is. This Plan has no age limit.

11. Can you drop me or raise my rate because of health reasons?
No. We will never cancel or refuse to renew your policy for health reasons so long as you make your premium payments on time. Also, we guarantee that we will never cancel your protection or adjust your rate unless we take the same action with regard to all policies of this type in your state. You, of course, can drop your policy on any renewal date.

12. What is not covered by this policy?
The only conditions not covered are hospitalization caused by mental disorders; act of war; pregnancy, childbirth or miscarriage; or care provided in a government hospital. You are even covered for any chronic ailment or pre-existing condition after your policy has been in force for only two years. Everything else is covered.

13. Can other members of my family take advantage of this special offer?
Yes. Just add their names to the Enrollment Form when you fill it in.

14. Why is this offer good for a limited time only?
Because by enrolling a large number of people at the same time our underwriting, processing and policy issue costs can be kept at a minimum. These savings, of course, are passed on to you.

15. Do I need a medical examination or a statement from my doctor?

16. What other advantages are there of joining this Plan now?

17. How does the Money-Back Guarantee work?
Examine your policy carefully in the privacy of your home. If for any reason you are not completely satisfied, return it within 30 days and we will promptly refund your money. Meanwhile, you will be protected while making your decision.

BUT MORTALITY UP

Birds Getting Individual Care

By JEFF GREER

"If the birds all die, it won't be for lack of tender, loving care," said a woman volunteer worker at the Marin Humane Society Center in Novato.

"Here, meet Charlie. He's my bird." She extended her arms, which held a red-eyed, jittery Western Grebe, swaddled in a towel. His crest flared up like Woody Woodpecker's top-knot in a cartoon film crisis.

"I won't tell you my name," the woman said modestly as she and Charlie moved off to where other volunteers were feeding and caring for the birds.

Hours after the oil spill disaster trapped thousands of waterfowl last Monday, the Marin Humane Center became one of the focal points of the long battle to keep the birds alive until they can be returned to their natural habitat. By Saturday, more than 700 birds had been brought in, according to Mel L. Morse, humane society executive director.

The center's animal control officers, volunteers and men from Hamilton Air Force Base have prepared heated, covered outdoor pens for communal care of the birds. The pens contain shallow feeding pans, small wading pools, and perching logs, set in the sawdust-covered floors.

For nearly every bird placed in the pens, there was a young watcher, anxious over the welfare of his chosen fowl.

Inside the building, large rooms normally used as observation wards for dogs and cats were piled from floor to ceiling with small cages. Each held one or two birds, recuperating from their oily grief.

The cages, Morse pointed out, had been loaned by the Marin County Cat Fanciers Association, which normally used them for its annual shows. The rows of cages were swathed with sheets, blankets and tarpaulins donated by volunteers.

Youngsters shuttled among the cages, caring for birds. "One of mine died; how are yours?" was a message heard several times an hour.

Morse said the mortality rate was only 25 per cent by Saturday noon, but had soared over 80 per cent yesterday morning. However, "only three birds were dead this morning," he said today.

The humane society turned over 125 of its birds to the state Department of Fish and Game before the weekend.

As of this morning, volunteers were caring for approximately 90 birds "and they all seem to be healthy," Morse said.

Officials who participated in bird rescue efforts after the 1969 oil spill off Santa Barbara recalled that the mortality rate there ran three times as high during the first week. The eventual loss ran as high as 95 per cent.

"The trouble is, no one really has any experience in this sort of thing," Morse

Coast Guard: Less Oil Offshore

The Coast Guard reported today that relatively little oil remained offshore of Marin, one week after two Standard Oil Co. tankers collided and one of them spilled approximately 800,000 gallons of heavy oil into the Golden Gate.

Aided by continuing good weather, hundreds of volunteers and hundreds of Standard Oil employees hurried today to finish cleaning up beaches and harbors in Marin County, San Francisco and south along the coast.

Thousands of volunteers toiled through the weekend; their numbers diminished today as they returned to offices or schools. The remaining volunteers and 700 paid workers, assisted by 22 offshore vessels skimming oil, hundreds of pieces of heavy equipment and helicopters, stayed on the job night and day.

College of Marin students, led by biologist Gordon Chan, fanned out over Duxbury Reef yesterday, beginning a painstaking census of marine life left after the oil spill. This, they said they would compare with censuses taken earlier. Chan and the students said first results were encouraging because most of the sea animals seen seemed to be healthy, and nearly as plentiful as usual.

Standard Oil said that as of Sunday, some 399,000 gallons of the oil had been recovered. Early morning fog today made it difficult for Standard's helicopters to pinpoint slicks for the skimmers.

Volunteers were being warned today by health authorities to make sure they have current tetanus shots. Some workers have been pecked by rescued birds; others have been injured on rocks and debris along the beaches.

In the less accessible areas of West Marin, Standard Oil sent workers scrambling down the cliffs to clean up beaches, then used helicopters to airlift small emergency vehicles called "coots." The small rough-terrain vehicles help the crewmen gather containers of oil sand. The recovered oil was being taken out by helicopter for eventual return to the refinery in Richmond, Standard Oil public relations men said today.

Tate-LaBianca Murder Verdicts

BULLETIN

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Charles Manson and three female codefendants were found guilty today of first degree murder of all seven victims in the Tate-LaBianca slayings.

The four defendants took the verdict quietly in a courtroom packed with 20 deputy sheriffs.

Just before he was led out, Manson called to the judge, "We weren't allowed to put on a defense, old man."

Mills: No Funds To Share

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon asked congressional leaders today to give his legislative program "a hearing and vote." But a powerful Democrat, Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, expressed fresh opposition to one of Nixon's priority proposals, federal-state revenue sharing.

Following a two hour meeting with the President at the White House, Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott told reporters that Nixon planned to carry to the people his appeal for revenue sharing and federal reorganization.

"There is a ground swell in the country on revenue sharing," House GOP Leader Gerald R. Ford chimed in.

But Mills, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, which would hold original hearings on revenue sharing, told a UPI reporter on Capitol Hill that he planned to deliver a major speech this week in opposition to the proposal.

"There's no revenue to share," Mills said.

After meeting with the Republican leaders, Nixon sat down before a glowing log fire in his Oval Office with Mills and another key congressman opposed to revenue sharing, Rep. John W. Brynes, R-Wis., ranking minority member of the Ways and Means Committee.

Mills said in the interview that he has not decided whether to hold hearings on revenue sharing. Other observers said hearings, if held, most likely would not take place until late in the year —which would mean putting off until the 1972 election year any possibility of passage.

The joint House-Senate Economic Committee heard more testimony today from state and city officials pleading for help from the federal government to ease their financial woes. Gov. John J. Gilligan of Ohio and Mayor Roman S. Gibbs both said their governments are virtually broke.

They supported the general idea of diverting to state governments large chunks of tax money now going into the federal treasury but said even Nixon's revenue sharing scheme would not be sufficient if it meant simply a rejuggling of some funds already intended for local uses.

Scott said Nixon expressed "the hope and desire this Congress would give a hearing and vote on all his legislative proposals." He said Nixon "considers the total package all equally important."

Sunshine Chases Ice

Many areas of Marin and Southern Sonoma counties reported frost this morning as the temperature fell one or two degrees lower than yesterday's predawn chill. Sunshine soon chased away the ice.

Weather observers said today the low was 29 in Bolinas, 30 in Novato, 31 in Woodacre, 32 in Petaluma, 34 in Mill Valley, 37 in San Rafael and 38 in Sausalito. Highs yesterday reached the mid-60s in most areas.

Federal weather forecasters said tomorrow's temperatures would range from lows in the 30s to highs in the 60s.

FORMAL OIL SPILL HEARING STARTS

By MARY LEYDECKER

SAN FRANCISCO — "I saw a red light off the starboard bow — I immediately knew what it was," the captain of the Arizona Standard said today in describing last Monday's collision of two oil tankers under the Golden Gate Bridge.

In a formal marine board of investigation being conducted by the Coast Guard to determine the cause of the collision which caused a huge oil spill in the bay, Capt. Harry H. Parnell was the first witness. The 46-year-old captain, a hollow-eyed and thin-faced man who has been a ship captain for 12 years, said he had trouble steering the vessel in the gate currents.

The Arizona Standard rammed its sister ship the Oregon Standard, rupturing tanks on the Oregon and spilling some 840,000 gallons. Captain Parnell said that he was cleared by radar as he entered the channel leading into San Francisco Bay at about 1 a.m. He described the visibility, however, as very poor and said he was readily able to see the buoy lights on the port side of the channel but had difficulty seeing the ones to starboard.

There was a tule fog, which the captain said originated on land from cold valley air hitting the waters.

He was having difficulty steering the ship in a flooding current as he came into the channel, he said.

The hearing was to continue with more testimony by Captain Parnell today in a federal courtroom.

The captain of the other ship, Morris E. English, and other ship crew members are also scheduled to

$229.2 Billion Budget Expected

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The budget President Nixon will send to Congress Friday will total a record $229.2 billion — including a deficit of more than $10 billion, White House sources said today.

The $229.2 billion figure compares with a $200.8 billion budget the President proposed one year ago for the current fiscal year. That budget was to have produced a $1.3 billion surplus, but economic conditions worsened and anticipated revenue failed to materialize, forcing Nixon to change his figures in May to about $215 billion, with an expected deficit of $15 billion.

Nixon already has said his budget for the business year beginning July 1 would be an expansionary one — "one that will help stimulate the economy and thereby open up new job opportunities for millions of Americans."

In his state of the union address Friday, Nixon said the new budget would call for the government to spend as though the nation had full employment, in a move designed to attack the highest unemployment in nine years.

The White House also said Sunday the President would hit the road, possibly within the next few weeks, to try to "sell" to the public on two of the major goals unveiled in the Friday address —revenue sharing and reorganization of the federal bureaucracy.

No specific plans were announced but it was understood Nixon is planning to attend four regional Republican meetings, the first one of them in February. It was also

Ugandan Chief Out In Violent Take-Over

KAMPALA, Uganda (UPI)— Heavy fighting involving tanks and armored cars broke out in Kampala before dawn today, and Gen. Idi Amin, the British trained army commander, said he and E. W. Oryema, chief of the country's police force, had seized power "in the interest of the people."

President Milton Obote was out of the country at the time and was due in Nairobi, Kenya, today on his way home from the British Commonwealth Prime Ministers' Conference in Singapore. Members of his government urged him to remain there until the situation is "clarified."

Thousands of jubilant Africans paraded through the streets of Kampala, celebrating Obote's downfall. A radio broadcast said the new government would "cement" friendly ties with all foreign governments.

News of the coup was broadcast by the official Kampala Radio.

Seven persons were reported killed in the predawn fighting in the capital, and a report from Entebbe airport said a shell exploded at the airport termin-

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Israeli Plans

Israel plans to accuse Egypt and Jordan of dodging the fundamental issues at the Middle East peace talks but will hold the door open to further negotiations, Israeli political sources said today.

The sources in Jerusalem said this will be the guiding theme of the message the Israeli cabinet authorized Sunday for transmission to U.N. negotiator Gunnar V. Jarring in New York. The message will be drafted by Prime Minister Golda Meir and Foreign Minister Abba Eban.

A communique on the cabinet meeting said Eban, in reporting on the latest developments in the talks, "dwelt on the fact that the Arab notes to Ambassador Jarring refrain from replying to the principal clauses in the (Israeli) proposals which were submitted to Ambassador Jarring during his visit to Jerusalem Jan. 9."

Derail Injuries

BRENTWOOD, N.Y. (UPI) — Authorities said today "criminal tampering" with a switch-box was responsible for a train derailment that injured scores of persons.

At least 43 persons were hurt Sunday when the East bound Long Island Railroad train derailed near this Long Island community.

At least five passengers were trapped under twisted steel while rescuers waited for spilled oil from the diesel locomotive to be cleared away before using their acetylene torches. The last person rescued, Brian Unger, 15, was freed nearly six hours after the derailment.

Warning Asked

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) today proposed that advertisements and packages of phosphate detergents carry a mandatory water pollution warning.

Consumer Advocate Ralph Nader praised the proposal, likening it to the health warning required on cigarette packages.

But the Soap and Detergent Association, representing manufacturers, said it took "strong exception" to the proposal. "The proposed FTC rule ... would raise unnecessary doubts on the part of housewives, and in fact would be misleading," the association said in a statement.

Truman Resting

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Former President Harry S. Truman has been placed on "special liquid diet." But doctors at Research Hospital said this was only to prepare him for some tests early today.

The liquid diet was substituted for Truman's Sunday night meal, according to a hospital spokesman.

Death Sentences

ABIDJAN, Ivory Coast (UPI) —A cheering crowd in a Conakry stadium shouted "Kill them! Kill them!" Sunday when death sentences were announced for 92 persons accused of plotting the abortive Nov. 22 invasion of Guinea.

Sixty of those given death sentences by the Guinean National Assembly sitting as a "revolutionary court" were in custody. The other 32 were sentenced in absentia.

The court, urged on during the trial by President Ahmed Sekou Toure who composed a poem titled "Goodbye to the Traitors," sentenced 72 other persons, including a Roman Catholic archbishop and two West Germans, to life in prison. Conakry's "Revolution Radio" reported the trial results in a broadcast monitored in Abidian.

Manila Plan

MANILA (UPI)— President Ferdinand E. Marcos said today the Philippines will establish its diplomatic and trade relations with the Soviet Union and other Communist countries in the near future.

In his annual state of the nation address to Congress, Marcos said 1971 was the year for the reorientation of the Philippine's foreign policy.

"In foreign affairs, the opening of trade and diplomatic relations with the USSR and with over Soviet bloc countries is only a matter of time," he said.

Grandmother Soon

LONDON (UPI)—Elizabeth Taylor, 39, will become a grandmother soon, British newspapers said today.

They said the wife of her son, Michael Wilding, is expecting a child in August. Michael, 18, and his wife Beth, 19, were married in hippie costume here in October.

Michael, son and namesake of Miss Taylor's second husband, is employed as a photgrapher on the set of his mother's latest movie, Zee and Co.

Countdown Starts

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)— The countdown began today for Sunday's launch of the three Apollo 14 astronauts on the most difficult and costly lunar landing mission yet.

The long countdown started promptly at 9 a.m. EST while Alan B. Shepard, Stuart A. Roosa and Edgar D. Mitchell were in the doctors' office seeking medical clearance in their final major preflight physical examinations.

"We're in good shape," reported a Space Agency official as engineers began work at the oceanside launch pad. Much of today's activity was devoted to electrical checks of the lunar landing craft and installation of starters for the booster rocket's engines.

Paris Meeting

PARIS (UPI)—West German Chancellor Willy Brandt discussed Western European problems today with French President Georges Pompidou at the opening of a two-day summit meeting aimed at eliminating misunderstanding on major foreign policy issues.

Brandt and Pompidou met for an hour at the Elysee Palace and the West German chancellor said afterward he was "very satisfied" with the way things went.

Four Die In Avalanche; Six Escape

SKYKOMISH, Wash. (UPI)— A rumbling avalanche cut a path as wide as a football field down a Cascade mountainside in the pre-dawn darkness Sunday, killing four members of families who had driven up for a weekend of fun in the snow.

Three bodies and six survivors were pulled from a totally demolished two-story cabin in the path of the slide. A 12-year-old girl died in another cabin partially smashed by the snow.

It took a rescue crew more than half a day to dig out two teen-age girls whose parents had been killed by the avalanche. Several others had been pulled out of the snow and debris earlier in the day.

The avalanche smashed into the cabins at the Yodelin ski area east of 4,061-foot Stevens Pass in the darkness shortly after midnight.

Warming temperatures had loosened tons of snow clinging to the mountainsides and numerous slides closed several passes Sunday.

Killed by the avalanche were Mr. and Mrs. Bart Edgars of Seattle, Kenneth Lewis, 10, of Lynnwood, Wash., and Peggy Dean, 12, of Seattle.

The first three were in the larger cabin which was completely destroyed. Trapped for 13 hours in that wreckage were the Edgars' daughters, Debbie, 19, and Cindy, 14.

Also in the cabin were Mr. and Mrs. Billy Lewis, the parents of Kenneth, and their other sons, Mark, 8, and Richard, 5. Mrs. Lewis and Mark were treated and released from the hospital.

Nixon Bumps Spiro From High Fashion

NEW YORK (UPI)—President Nixon has replaced Vice President Spiro T. Agnew as the best dressed statesman on the annual list prepared by the Fashion Foundation of America.

The foundation cited Nixon in announcing the 32nd annual list of best dressed men Sunday.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, considered a Democratic frontrunner for Nixon's job in 1972, was named the best dressed man in government for the list, which was drawn up from recommendations by custom tailors and designers according to the candidates' fashion taste, budget and occupation.

Muskie won the best-dressed spot formerly held by Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz. In noting Muskie edged Sen. John Tunney, D-Calif., for the honor, the Foundation said the Maine senator has "a warm sincerity to his wardrobe which now is in keeping with fashion trends."

Cooking Class Is Announced

Friday morning classes in vegetarian cookery have begun at the Mill Valley Community Recreation Center, 180 Camino Alto, and will continue for 10 more weeks.

The course includes recipes and methods of vegetarian cooking; medicinal values of fruits, herbs and vegetables; how to combine foods for health; important elements missing in the average vegetarian diet and the best sources of protein.

Oleta Burger is teaching the course. Information may be obtained from the Mill Valley Parks and Recreation office.

Viet Forces Leave Highway 4 Area

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—South Vietnamese forces abruptly terminated their operation along Cambodia's Highway 4 today, declared the road open and withdrew their forces, military spokesmen said. The United States, which provided air support for the operation, withdrew its two helicopter carriers.

Phnom Penh, a city unnerved by three nights of terrorist attacks, remained in a state of full alert with fighting reported as close as 12 miles away. Two 122mm Soviet-built rockets were fired at Pochenton airport during the night but fell short and wounded two villagers.

The Vietnamese consulate was evacuated late today when military police captured a youth just as he placed a plastic bomb in a green bag at the front door of the building. The bomb was disarmed. It was the fourth bomb incident in the capital in as many days; Vietnamese ambassador tran van phuoc was slightly injured last Friday when a bomb exploded at his home.

Military spokesman said withdrawng South Vietnamese rangers and armor ran into a brief skirmish late Sunday afternoon at the town of Kampong Trach, 75 miles southwest of Phnom Penh. They reported killing 30 guerrillas and seizing four weapons while losing one dead and three wounded.

Highway 4 leads from Phnom Penh to the port of Kompong Som, site of Cambodia's only oil refinery. The Communists cut it in mid-November, shutting of Phnom Penh's supply of fuel. South Vietnamese were flown in to aid the Cambodians and the United States supported the operation with helicopter gunships and F4 Phantoms.

U.S. involvement in the Cambodian fighting brought loud protests today from Hanoi Radio. It accused the United States of intensifying the "feverish aggressive war" against Cambodia and demanded it stop its "criminal action immediately and unconditionally."

In South Vietnam, the Communists' four-day lunar New Year truce begins at 1 a.m. Tuesday (noon EST) but does not apply to Cambodia and Laos. A U.S. and South Vietnamese one-day cease-fire for Tet begins at 6 p.m. (5 a.m. EST) Tuesday. Tet, ushering in the year of the pig, begins at the stroke of midnight Tuesday.

The South Vietnamese said they killed a total of 179 guerrillas and took 27 prisoners during the 19-day operation that began Jan. 6. Spokesmen refused to discuss the estimate size of Communist forces in the area but Cambodians put the figure at around two regiments

LONDON (UPI) —The wife of fugitive Black Panther leader Eldridge Cleaver says her husband could easily sneak back into the United States.

"The United States is a very large country bounded on three sides by water," Kathleen Cleaver said in a brief interview published by the Sunday Times of London.

"It has many mountain ranges and the Bay (sic) of Mexico," she said. "Anyone who wants to enter the United States can do so."

Cleaver said in a CBS Television interview taped in Algiers last year that he would sneak back into the United States to help blacks "take our freedom."

Urine Holds Blood Clot Dissolver

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A substance found in human urine may prove to be the first really effective agent for dissolving blood clots, according to the National Heart and Lung Institute.

Extracted from the urine of prisoners, nuns and military servicemen in clinical tests, the substance, urokinase, was tried on 82 patients suffering pulmonary embolism —blood clots in the lungs.

The patients also received standard anticoagulants, which prevent blood clots from forming and stop their growth but don't dissolve them. Another 78 patients with blood clots in the lungs were treated only with anticoagulants.

"There was a high rate of clinical improvement in both groups," the institute said in a statement. "But objective evidence of improvement ... was more pronounced in the urokinase-treated group."

Urokinase is a protein circulated in the blood and eliminated through the urine. It is believed to activate the body's clot dissolving mechanisms.

Blood clots usually form in the deep veins of the legs or pelvis or in diseased arteries. They may work their way to the heart, brain and lungs where they can cause heart attack, stroke or pulmonary emoblism deaths.

Marin Invention Gobbles Up Goo

The prototype of a Marinwood man's invention joined last week's fight against the massive oil slick.

An oil skimmer owned by William R. Bishop was taken through its paces off the Sausalito shore on Monday and, according to Bishop, gobbled up 1,200 gallons of the black goo in short order.

Bishop's device — which received wide attention last spring when first launched — has a capacity of 400 gallons and the inventor said he thrice had to empty the vessel's load into big tank trucks parked along Bridgeway Monday.

Bishop said his odd-looking craft had to retire from the fray when it began to encounter floating wads of straw that shoreline crews threw out to blot up the floating oil.

The two-inch hoses and three-horsepower pumps of the 18-foot-long prototype were too small to swallow the straw. A full-sized oil skimmer such as Bishop wants to see constructed for permanent use in San Francisco Bay would have been able to clean up 40 acres of oil slick an hour, straw and all, Bishop said.

The inventor, who now lives at 86 Grand Paseo, first tested his craft in the Petaluma River last spring. He then was an electrical contractor in Santa Rosa.

Since his invention first was described in the Independent-Journal last April 9, Bishop's idea has come much nearer reality.

He has just completed a $65,000 contract for the Coast Guard, making scientific tests on a scale model of the oil skimmer in the University of California's wave tanks in Richmond.

His design was one of six selected from among 126 proposals made to the Coast Guard last year. Because of the success of his model, Bishop was invited to submit a design for a 40-foot-long oil skimmer that could be packed into a Coast Guard cargo aircraft and flown anywhere there might be a disaster similar to Monday's oil spill in the Golden Gate.

Bishop and his associates sent their airlift-model skimmer design to Coast Guard officials in Washington on Wednesday. The inventor's proposal calls for a $210,000 contract for further testing and production of a working machine. Final decision on the contract is to be made March 22 in Washington, D.C.

Bishop said if the Coast Guard agrees, he plans to build a large testing tank in the Novato area. With it, he will be able to test skimming oils of all viscosities, and chill the water as low as 28 degrees.

The colder the water, the gummier the floating oil, he explained, and the harder it is to pump from the water without jamming machinery.

Bishop has closed his contracting business and formed W. R. Bishop and Associates in San Francisco to develop his invention. He has obtained first registrations for awide range of patents on his invention.

Associated with him are naval architect David J. Seymour of San Francisco, Dr. William C. Webster, wave expert at the University of California, officials of the Tacoma Boat works in Washington, and a large staff of specialists.

Bishop said he was pleased at the Coast Guard attention to his invention, but what he really wanted was to build a permanent vessel for Bay Area use. It would cost $1.5 million, he estimated.

It would feature a flexible combination of pontoons, a rotating paddle wheel, a weir that would remain at oil flotation level regardless of wave crests or troughs, pumps capable of sucking 5,000 gallons a minute from the ocean, and special tanks to separate the oil from the water and store the goo.

Tests have shown the design capable of operating in waves up to 10 feet high, he said.

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The California Democratic Party has taken a turn away from ideology and toward pragmatism to concentrate on the election of its candidates and the defeat of President Nixon in 1972.

Democratic leaders got a good look at three leading presidential contenders at the party's state convention during the weekend. The concensus afterward was that any one of the three would be acceptable philosophically —the main thing was to settle on a winner.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, most leaders agreed, cemented his position as the frontrunner for the party's nomination. Senators George McGovern of South Dakota and Birch Bayh of Indiana also campaigned for potential support in next year's California primary.

Manatt, 34, a close political ally of Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, narrowly upset former Rep. George E. Brown Jr., a longtime Vietnam dove and favorite of the party's liberal wing. The vote after two ballots was 428-418.

"It's a new day in California," declared Manatt, who was Sen. John V. Tunney's Southern California campaign chairman last year and a former executive director of the National Federation of Young Democrats.

"I guess if I make a mark in history it's going to have to be as the greatest loser," Brown told delegates while flashing the "V" peace sign. He lost to Tunney last year in a bid for the Democratic Senate nomination.

Mrs. Medgar Evers of Claremont, widow of the slain civil rights leader and unsuccessful congressional candidate last year, was elected Southern California women's chairman. Cleanor Fowle of Los Altos Hills, sister of Sen. Alan Cranston, was chosen state women's chairman.

Manatt announced the "major priority" of his administration will be "to mobilize the largest force of campaign workers available to insure that the 1972 Democratic presidential nominee carries California and retires Richard Nixon."

In recent years —partly because of the Vietnam War — California Democrats have tended to divide sharply along ideological lines, resulting in bitter intraparty fights. Meanwhile, Republicans unified.

In the future, Manatt told a newsman, "We're going to take a practical approach. We're going to work on how to elect people." This same attitude was voiced by other party leaders who talked privately with Muskie, McGovern and Bayh and listened to their speeches to the 881 delegates.

"All three are qualified to be president. I'm looking for a good candidate," said state Senate President Pro Tem James R. Mills of San Diego. He added that Muskie "has a great personal presence."

Assembly Speaker Moretti said most legislators are "a long way" from commiting their support to any one candidate.

Each of the three presidential aspirants said he will enter the California primary if he becomes formal candidate. So far only McGovern has.

All three criticized increased U.S. air support for Cambodian military activity.

But Bayh received probably the loudest applause Sunday when he declared that, "We can make our streets safe and our homes secure without depriving citizens of a trial by jury and without tapping telephones or photographing peaceful demonstrators or spying on public officials."

The convention adopted a packet of resolutions calling for reduced marijuana penalties, a halt to military spying on civilians, laws to prevent the Defense Department from buying nonunion lettuce and continuation of the California Rural Legal Assistance Program.

The delegates approved proposals to restructure the presidential election process, but delayed to a later date — possibly this spring — action on other party reforms."

Joe Brooks, San Leandro land developer, was elected Northern California chairman, defeating former national committeewoman Ann Alanson of San Francisco, 247-153.

Teacher Raises Due Hearing

The Lagunitas School District board is to consider granting raises to teachers retroactive to July at 7:30 p.m. today at San Geronimo Valley Elementary School.

Supt. Joseph Amato, who negotiated with the teachers, declined to release the compromise solution until the meeting.

Also to be discussed is a request by nonteaching employees for a 6 per cent cost-of-living increase.

Bill To Ban Freeways From Napa Introduced

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation to prevent any freeway through the Napa Valley was introduced today by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael.

Behr's bill would remove from the state freeway and expressway system Highway 29 between the City of Napa and the Lake County line. The state Division of Highways had proposed a new freeway in the valley.

Citing the valley as "one of this nation's great natural resources," Behr said his measure was designed to insure that its "unique vineyards will never be decimated by an oversized ribbon of concrete nor ever be exposed to the increasing danger from auto emissions that a freeway would bring."

Behr said his legislation had the support of the county's supervisors and citizen groups.

Rings Reported Stolen At Home

Two rings valued at about $800 were stolen sometime between Jan. 10 and yesterday from the home of Marvin K. Kleinendorst, 20 Raymond Avenue, San Anselmo, police said today.

Officers reported the rings were taken from a jewelry case in the home.

Total Rainfall

Weather records in Saturday's Independent-Journal contained a mistake in transcribing data. The total rainfall to date for last year was listed as 39.82 inches; it should have read 38.32.

Sex Bias Suit Wins Rehearing Order

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Supreme Court instructed a lower federal court today to take a closer look at a key test case involving allegations of job-hiring discrimination against women with small children.

In an unsigned opinion, the Court returned to the district level the claim of an Orlando, Fla., woman who contended that her civil rights were violated when a factory refused to hire her because she was the mother of pre-school children.

At issue is a provision of the 1964 Civil Rights Act banning sex discrimination in private employment practices. In returning the case for further consideration, the Court said the record at this point was insufficient to decide the important issues involved.

The test case was initiated by Mrs. Ida Phillips, who was refused employment as an assembly-trainee in the Orlando plant of the Martin Marietta Corp.

In other actions, the Court:

—Rejected a challenge to a California law making it an offense to willfully obstruct a policeman in discharge of his duties.

The case was brought to the high court by Willie James McGee, who was sentenced to 90 days in jail in Santa Cruz County Superior Court for his part in an incident at Santa Cruz beach on Aug. 8, 1969.

McGee was also placed under arrest when, in an attempt to learn what was going on, he placed both hands on the chest of an officer.

The appeal contended that the law used against McGee is unconstitutionally vague.

—Struck down a Wisconsin law which blocks changes of location of jury trials in misdemeanor cases. By an 8-1 vote, the justices said the Rev. James E. Groppi, militant Milwaukee priest, was entitled to further consideration at the state level of his conviction of charges of violating a curfew ordinance during 1968 civil rights demonstrations in Milwaukee.

—Agreed to rule this term whether a 50-year-old court order prevents Greyhound Corp. from continuing its control over Armour & Co., the nation's second largest meatpacker.

—Let stand a lower court ruling that E. I. duPont deNemours & Co., has the legal right to sue two aerial photographers on claims they were stealing trade secrets by taking pictures of a plant being constructed in Beaumont, Tex.

In the case of Mrs. Phillips, the Justice Department supported her legal claims.

During arguments, an attorney for the company denied such a policy existed. The record in the case was skimpy because U.S. District Judge George C. Young of Orlando rejected Mrs. Phillips' complaint on legal grounds without full presentation of the facts. He was upheld by the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Today's opinion said the appeals court was wrong in reading the law as permitting one hiring policy for women and another for men with preschool children.

But it said such conflicting family obligations could be the basis for an "occupational qualification" necessary to the operation of the business. An exemption to this effect is contained in the law.

Justice Thurgood Marshall in a separate opinion disagreed that a showing that some women have greater family responsibilities in such circumstances could be the basis for the exemption.

"I fear ... the Court has fallen into the trap of assuming that the act permits ancient canards about the proper role of women to be a basis for discrimination," Marshall said. "Congress ... sought just the opposite result."

"When performance characteristics of an individual are involved, even when parental roles are concerned, employkment opportunity may be limited only by employment criteria that are neutral as to the sex of the applicant."

expected Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and other top White House officials would take the trail to promote Nixon's plans.

Sen. Robert J. Dole of Kansas, Republican national chairman, said Sunday the President intends to make his legislative proposals a major issue in the 1972 election campaign.

"If the Democratic Congress turns it down, the people will have to judge," Dole said after Sunday's White House worship service.

But Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and House Speaker Carl Albert both predicted stiff congressional opposition to Nixon's state of the union proposals.

Nixon proposed the federal government hand out to state and local governments $16 billion, including $6 billion in new funds, on a generally no-strings-attached basis. He also proposed that seven cabinet-level government departments be combined, on the basis of function and purpose, into four new super agencies.

Mansfield said Sunday the President's legislative package is "so far -sweeping, so far-reaching that it's going to take more than one session of Congress." Albert added "it will be difficult to pass. I'm sure the President is under no illusions about that."

Some 90 surviving birds still are being cared for at the Marin Humane Society headquarters in Novato; some 700 birds are at the San Francisco Zoo under the auspices of the state Department of Fish and Game and Standard Oil.

Public concern over the oil problem and the plight of birds and wildlife still was at a high pitch today. The Save The Birds switchboard in San Rafael, a volunteer service of the Intercity Telephone Answering Service, said it was "so busy we don't know whether we're coming or going." Volunteers still were being asked to call the switchboard, the Marin Ecology Center in Mill Valley or the National Audubon Society headquarters on Richardson Bay, before going to the beaches. The information centers were maintaining up-to-date data on which areas need volunteers.

Many volunteers who found they weren't needed for physical assistance over the weekend, turned to fund raising to help the cause. Clerin W. Zumwalt, naturalist for the Audubon Canyon Ranch in West Marin, said today that 60 youngsters from a San Francisco school showed up at the ranch, found they could not be given tasks, and passed the hat among themselves, leaving what money they had.

Students of Henry C. Hall School, Larkspur, and most of the high schools in Central and Southern Marin have done likewise.

The concern over the oil spill problem was echoed in Washington. Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, reported that the Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee would hold hearings on the oil spill impact and needed legislation, as soon as organization of the new Congress is completed this week.

Mailliard also said a subcommittee of the House group would visit the Bay Area to investigate the circumstances of the collision between the two tankers.

Citizens Report Before Board

The San Rafael Board of Education is to hear a progress report from the citizens advisory committee at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at the district office.

The board will also receive the auditor's report for 1969-70 and consider approving it.

Cash Registers Reported Stolen

Two cash registers valued at $700 each and $100 change were stolen Saturday night before 11 p.m. from Hamby's Restaurant, 600 Miller Avenue, Mill Valley, police reported today.

The burglar apparently gained entrance through an unlocked door, police said.

PAUL R. CIAMPI
New chamber president

Chamber Offered Advice

The Chamber of Commerce should become an organization for service to the community by insisting on esthetic development.

The occasion was the San Rafael Chamber's 51st Annual dinner and installation Saturday night at Holiday Inn.

Hay also showed a film on The Weathermen, loaned by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, reported Robert Nelson, chamber manager.

Hay said he expected the underground organization to seek to disrupt the Angela Davis trial, Nelson reported.

Paul R. Ciampi was installed as the new president; Jack E. Bucknum, vice president; Alton E. Cox, vice president; Larry P. Biancalana, past president and Ronald P. Studen, treasurer.

Certificates of appreciation were given to retiring board members. Chairmen and vice chairmen of the standing committees were named.

HEARING

A battery of almost two dozen lawyers was present in the courtroom today representing various officers as well as Standard Oil Co., but Captain Joseph E. Gould, presiding officer at the hearing, ruled again that an attorney for two conservation groups could not participate in the hearing.

He told James Penrod, who said he represented the Sierra Club and the Save San Francisco Bay Association, that he could, however, submit written questions to the three-man investigating board.

The Sierra Club said it planned on submitting a list of 28 questions, including queries about Standard Oil's ship operations in foul weather, their equipment and whether it was true "that a master (of a ship) is under pressure to sail if it is at all possible and keep port time to a minimum?"

The club also asked if the oil company has done anything to prevent a recurrence of the disaster.

Captain Gould said that the hearing was being held to determine if there was any willful violation of law or incompetence which contributed to the disaster.

Three Arrested In Possession Of Stolen Property

Three Michigan youths were held in lieu of $625 bail today in Marin County Jail on suspicion of possessing stolen property. They were arrested in a Mill Valley motel Saturday.

To appear in Marin Municipal Court today were Barbara Jean Bozanich, 18, of Allen Park, Mich., and James Lee Kellams, 20, and Delilah Alice Ridley, 19, both of Brighton, Mich.

Mill Valley police said they searched the trio's room at the Hi Ho Motel, 707 Redwood Highway, and found 19 blank payroll checks and a radio stolen Dec. 19 from the United Supply Co. of Ann Arbor, Mich. Also found was a personal checkbook belonging to a Salinas woman.

UGANDA

al, killing several Africans. Fighting also was reported on the 21-mile stretch of road from Kampala to Entebbe and witnesses said they saw bodies there.

Obote was the second African leader to be overthrown while out of his country. The Ghana army overthrew President Kwame N. Nkrumah on Feb. 24, 1966, while he was paying an official visit to Moscow.

Troops with armored cars surrounded parliament and Obote's residence and fired shots into the air to warn people away. Motorists who were turned back from the areas said the soldiers expressed "anti-Obote sentiments."

Shops and businesses in the capital were shut. The American embassy and British High Commission warned American and British residents to stay home.

Obote ruled the country since independence in 1962. As prime minister in 1966 he deposed Sir Edward Mutesa, a Banti, as president, arrested five ministers and took over the presidency himself. Mutesa went into exile in Britain where he died.

Last year Obote said his government would take 60 per cent control of the shares of key industries in a step which he said represented a "move to the left."

Amin pledged to return the government to civilian rule "as soon as the situation returns to normal." He said he was a "great believer" in civilian rule.

The broadcast said the army acted because Obote packed his government with fellow tribesmen, creating a wealthy elite while the broad mass of the people struggled under huge taxes and rising food prices.

"The rich got richer and the poor got poorer," the broadcast said.

Amin said all political prisoners would be released, including six former cabinet ministers arrested in a 1966 plot to overthrow Obote.

The radio announcer, who identified himself only as "a Ugandan soldier," said the army "has taken over the government because it is totally dissatisfied with Obote's economic policies and corruption and tribalism in the government."

The troops who blanketed the area around parliament and Obote's home fired over the heads of all who approached.

Diplomats said the airport at Entebbe, 21 miles south on Lake Victoria, was closed.

The radio announcement declared a curfew from 6:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The radio bulletin said the new government would seek friendly ties with all foreign governments, but warned other governments to stay out of the Uganda fracas. "Any such attempts will be crushed," the broadcast said.

A British newsman leaving the British High Commission was ordered at gunpoint by a trooper to sit down in the street, then questioned. "Don't think I shall worry about killing you," the soldier said. "Seven people have died at parliament already."

There was no immediate confirmation of the deaths.

Obote, ruler of the former British protectorate since 1962, survived an assassination attempt last October when he was shot in the head.

Another Arrest In Drugs Case

A 25-year-old Kentfield man, arrested in March for alleged marijuana violations, was arrested today on suspicion of possessing dangerous drugs and passing counterfeit notes.

Richard Darryl Smith of 314 Kent Avenue, Kentfield, was booked into Marin County Jail at 1:10 a.m and held for federal Secret Service agents.

Details of the arrest were not available.

Smith is awaiting trial in Marin Superior Court on charges of possessing and selling marijuana. He was arrested last March during a large-scale marijuana roundup in Marin. Seven others were arrested and six seabags full of the weed were confiscated.

Smith is scheduled for trial in March.

BIRDS

stressed.

"We've been warned that cleaning off the oil with detergents will just give you the cleanest dead birds in town. So, we're using mineral oil to clean them, and pouring butter down them to help purge the oil out of their digestive tracts. We're giving them thiamine B vitamins and antibiotics to build up their resistance to disease," Morse said.

The duckbilled species received pans filled with crushed bran and bait fish. Morse said tame mallard ducks were put into the pens to lead the wildfowl to the food.

Several of the bird species cannot eat or drink from deep containers. A Black Point kennel owner donated 200 shallow, papermache feeding dishes he otherwise would have used to feed dogs on trips to shows.

The Air Force loaned two portable forced-air heaters, and a Novato hamburger stand furnished 200 to 300 hamburgers nightly last week for volunteer workers.

Morse said the bird care operation at the Humane Center is largely based on advice from Dr. James L. Naviaux, a veterinarian in Pleasant Hill, Contra Costa County.

Naviaux founded and is director of the National Wildlife Health Foundation. He was active in the Santa Barbara effort, and saved 65 of the 80 birds he brought back to his clinic, he said.

Naviaux said Saturday that the mortality rate from the Bay Area spill was running about 25 per cent to date, based on a check of several bird care centers.

However, the San Francisco Zoological Society claimed that only about 400 of its 1,100 birds had died. The society opened the basement of the zoo's lion house Wednesday.

Standard Oil Co. brought biologist Philip Stanton from Massachusetts to advise on bird care. His ideas differed widely from those of Naviaux and Morse.

Stanton and the California Fish and Game Department recommended cleaning the birds with a biodegradeable detergent, Basic H, segregating them in pens by species, and handling them as little as possible. They were avoiding forced feeding, but called for donation of live brine shrimp and live fish to start the birds' appetites working.

Standard Oil will meet expenses of the San Francisco zoo bird center, the zoological society said. No more volunteers are needed there, society spokesmen reported Saturday.

In Novato, Morse said volunteers first should call to learn when they would be most needed.

Pepperland Due Permit Hearing

The San Rafael Planning Commission is to consider use permit and variance applications for Pepperland at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at city hall.

Irving B. Litchfield, owner of the building at 721 Francisco Boulevard, and Ben Blatt, proprietor of the rock music hall, are seeking to renew a use permit.

They are also asking exemption from an odinance which would require them to provide 88 parking spaces. The site has only 20.

Plates Broken In Lunchroom

Someone attempting to enter San Jose Junior High School during the past weekend broke five venetian-styled glass plates at the teachers' lunchroom, valued at $100, Novato police reported today.

The burglary attempt occurred between 5 p.m. Friday and 12:30 p.m. yesterday.

Tormenting Rectal Itch Of Hemorrhoidal Tissues Promptly Relieved

Tests by doctors on hundreds of patients showed this to be true in many cases. In fact, many doctors, themselves, use Preparation H® or recommend it for their families. Youth Orchestra Will Match Any

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

The best concert heard in more than 10 years of covering the Marin Youth Orchestra directed by Hugo Rinaldi was presented yesterday afternoon in San Rafael High School Auditorium.

Now in its 17th season, the orchestra currently composed of some 80 young people from 16 public and private schools in Marin, as heard yesterday, had to be in my opinion the match of any youth group in the state.

This year it has so many talented young musicians that several can be featured, in addition to the major soloists of the day, in smaller solo parts, and they add to the total strength of the group. But major credit must go to Rinaldi's extraordinary ability to train youngsters and to his conducting finesse and inupiration that could be used to advantage by many an adult orchestra.

The two major soloists, San Rafael High School sophomore Jed Barahal, cellist, and Terra Linda High School sophomore Carol Tomlinson, violinist, were among the best I have heard perform with the orchestra.

Evident right from the opening "La Grande Paque Russe" by Rimsky-Korsakoff was the rich, mature sound of the orchestra with its excellent balance among the choirs of instruments. No mere warmup number, this colorfully orchestrated piece could have been the climax of the program, but for that purpose the young musicians went on to climb the heights of the entire Beethoven Seventh Symphony.

Beautifully performing smaller solo parts in the Rimsky-Korsakoff work were Mary Ellen Weinstein, violin; Jed Barahal, cello; Steve Gordon, clarinet; Nina Walderstein, flute; and Julie Barnes, Harp.

In the first movement of Mendelssohns' Violin Concerto, Carol Tomlinson displayed an amazing poise for one so young. She played with assurance and ease, producing a lovely tonal quality and a smooth flowing legato with perfect control of her bow. She had the technical facility to handle this piece which, though played to death, is still used by world renowned violinists as a show piece.

Jed Barahal was equally impressive in the Variations on a Roccoco Theme by Tschaikowsky. He played with a mature, compelling authority, achieving a warm singing cello tone like that of a contralto. The variations gave him plenty of opportunity to show his technical skill.

In the Beethoven symphony, that Wagner called "the Apotheosis of the Dance," Rinaldi brought out all the ebullience, sparkle and subtlety required to make his strongly rhythmic work exciting. The cello section in the opening of the second allegretto was a marvel of precision and unison.

The auditorium was so packed that the audience might have been more comfortable if two concerts could have been given. Those who were unable to attend this fine concert may hear it in a taped recording by radio station KKHI that will be broadcast on Feb. 6 at 9 a.m.

Novato Fisherman's Body Found In Thermalito Bay

The body of Ben C. Andrews, 36, of 703 Lamont Avenue, Novato, was found yesterday on the west side of the Thermalito Afterbay in Butte County, where he drowned on a duck hunting trip Nov. 28.

Andrews, an estimator for the federal government, disappeared after he set out in an eight-foot aluminum boat and a storm swept the afterbay.

Butte County undersheriff Richard Stenberg said his body was discovered by a fisherman. It was along the shore about three-quarters of a mile from where search operations had centered.

Hope for Andrews faded several days after his disappearance when his hat, life jacket, duck decoy and paddles were found in the bay.

Vote By One Retail Union Negates Approval Of Six

I-J SPECIAL REPORT

WALNUT CREEK — Local 1119 of San Rafael and five other Bay Area locals of the Retail Clerks Union yesterday approved a contract offered by supermarket owners, but a seventh local hamstrung their votes.

Contra Costa Local 1179 voted down the offer by a narrow margin, according to John Bacon of the Food Employers Council here.

Since negotiators agreed that unless all locals approve the pact, it would not be binding. Local 1179 negated the votes of the six other locals, Bacon said.

The Food Employers Council was to meet at 2 p.m. today with union negotiators to try to work out the snarl, Bacon said. one alternative is to resubmit the offered contract to the balking local in hopes it will reverse its vote.

Bacon said supermarket owners had proposed a salary increase from $4.01 an hour to $5.26 over a three-year period plus increased pension and health benefits worth more than 25 cents an hour.

Within the textile industry steps have been taken to make sure the consumer gets quality and performance for her money, the Apparel Research Foundation reports.

Two File For School Board

Two candidates have filed papers for the San Rafael Board of Education and one city official returned papers, City Clerk Marion A. Grady reported today.

Thomas W. Schalich of 135 Los Ranchitos Road and Donald R. Wellington of 335 Fairhills Drive have filed for two of the three positions open on the April 20 election.

City Treasurer Angelina J. Soldavini returned her papers for reelection to that office, the first to file.

Plea Slated For Woman In Forgery

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Janice Long of Sausalito is scheduled to plead Feb. 8 to charges that she passed more than $50,000 worth of forged checks in a four-month period.

Miss Long, who gave her address as 25 Crescent Avenue, was arraigned in municipal court here last Tuesday on charges of forging and passing bad checks and forging the seal of a corporation, the Bank of America.

The 21-year-old woman was arrested Jan. 15 after trying to cash a Bank of America check in the name of a 70-year-old woman.

Miss Long said she had an accomplice at the Bank of America who supplied her with checks punched with a victim's name and information from confidential bank files, including a copy of the signature.

She also admitted having a male accomplice who cut the phone lines to each victim's house.

While waiting to plead to the forgery charges, Miss Long is serving a 60-day sentence for prostitution. Wallace P. Douglass, assistant district attorney, said she was sentenced for the morals charge in June 1970, but the jail term was suspended and she was placed on one year of probation.

Her probation was revoked because of the arrest. Douglass said.

Youth Found In Library Booked

A 16-year-old Sacramento youth was booked into Marin County Juvenile Hall on suspicion of burglary after he and a companion were discovered at 7:53 p.m. yesterday in the library at San Rafael High School, police reported.

Police reported that they caught Dana Reed Temme, but that his companion outran them across the football field.

All that was reported missing was some clothing, pens, pencils, and scissors, according to police reports.

Hikers Discover Body Of Missing Ross Woman

The body of Evelyn H. Jones, 72, missing from her Ross home since Jan. 14, was found Saturday in a creek bed near Phoenix Lake by two hikers.

Police said that Peter and Ann Jones of 12 Brookdale, San Rafael, discovered the body at 1:30 p.m. Saturday about 150 feet off the Bill Williams Trail near Phoenix Lake.

Mrs. Jones, who was last seen walking her dog down Lagunitas Road near Phoenix Lake, apparently stumbled and fell down the hill off the trail, according to Bill J. Thomas, deputy Marin County coroner. Her shawl and umbrella were found at the top of the hill.

She was found about three miles from her residence at 22 Bridge Road in Ross. Her dog returned home Jan. 17, three days after she was last seen.

Throughout the week, volunteers from the Sheriff's Marine Patrol the Marin Municipal Water District, the Kentfield Fire Department, local hiking clubs and Hamilton Air Force Base had searched the area between Ross and Phoenix Lake.

A native of Santa Monica, Mrs. Jones spent her childhood in Berkeley but lived in Ross for the last 32 years. She was the widow of Lewis E. Jones of Ross.

Mrs. Jones is survived by her son Thomas W. Jones and her daughter Margaret L. Jones, both of Ross.

Funeral service will be held Tuesday at 10 a.m., Chapel of the Golden Gate National Cemetery, San Bruno.

White Men Seen Deep In Amazon

BRASILIA, Brazil (UPI)— The National Indian Foundaton said Sunday a white-skinned, red-bearded tribe of Indians has been found in the middle of the Amazon jungle.

The foundation said about 500 men of the tribe have been seen so far by Indian agents clearing the way for the new trans-Amazon highway being cut through the jungle. So far, the agents have not seen any of the tribe's women.

They said the tribe, called the Assurini, were light skinned with long earlobes. They have red beards with the tribe's elders cutting their beards in a pear shape.

Borrower Swaps Cars, And Goes

When it comes to swapping cars, there's nothing like using someone else's car. So a San Rafael car dealer discovered yesterday.

A man drove into De Long Chevrolet Co. at 550 Francisco Boulevard about noon driving a 1971 Plymouth. He was wearing a brown jacket, fur cap and gloves. He had long brown hair and sideburns.

The man looked over the stock of cars and picked out a 1968 Mustang which he asked to drive around the block. Then he asked if he could show the car to his wife and would be gone about 20 minutes.

When he did not return, the salesmen became suspicious and called police. Police found that the new Plymouth the man had driven into the lot and left, had been stolen Jan. 20 from Avis Rent A Car in San Francisco.

According to the Department of Labor, 98 per cent of all drycleaning establishments in 1967 had sales of less than $375,000.

Conversation Over Coffee: The 50-Cent Tax Dollar

"I see by the paper," said the man who was having his morning coffee and doughnuts, "that a dollar today is worth just about three-fourths of what it was 10 years ago."

"That's not right in one area." said his neighbor. "It's worth less than half as much when it comes to paying for government services and schools."

"How do you figure that out?" asked the first man.

"Easy," said the second. "I pay more than twice as much taxes on the same property as I paid 10 years ago, and I don't get any more services for them."

The first man thought that over for a few seconds. "I expect you're right," he said.

"I KNOW I'M RIGHT," said the second man. And then the conversation became different from the tax gripes you usually hear at a coffee house, because the man reached into his pocket and pulled out a piece of paper with a lot of figures written on it. Referring to the paper, he said:

"Ten years ago, Marin County had 140,000 people, San Rafael had 20,000. Now, the county has about 205,000 and San Rafael has more than 38,000. Right?"

"Sounds right," said the first man.

"So the county, to provide services 10 years ago to 140,000 people, had a tax rate of $2.12. This year its rate is $2.575. The city, to serve 20,000 people in 1961, had a rate of 96 cents. This year, with twice as many, the rate is 90.3 cents."

WAIT A MINUTE!" said the second man. "Those are just the rates. During the 10 years, my property has been reappraised three times, and each time the value has been raised. The appraisal now is nearly double what it was 10 years ago.

"Besides that, the county and city together levy less than half the property tax I pay. There are a batch of special districts — mosquito abatement, smog control, sanitation — you name it. And about 60 per cent of the taxes are for schools.

"Ten years ago the San Rafael Elementary School District had a rate of $2.06; now it's $3.345. The high school district rate has gone up from $1.32 to $2.22."

"YEAH, IT'S A SHAME about the schools," said the first man. "The state keeps cutting down its share and loading it onto us property taxpayers."

"I don't know about that," said the second man. "According to the budgets, 10 years ago the elementary district had to raise 51.8 per cent of its money from the property tax, and this year only 41.3 per cent. The high school district has caught it, though — it only had to get 50 per cent from the property tax then and now it has to raise 62.3 per cent."

"Son-of-a-gun!" exclaimed the first man. "That sure isn't the way I've heard it told."

"That's what the school budgets show," said the second man. "Anyhow, my point is that while I'm paying more than twice as much taxes, I'm not getting any more service.

"Maybe the kids are getting better schools, but I'm not too sure of that.

"WHEN IT COMES to paying taxes, the dollar now is worth less than half what it was 10 years ago."

"Do you suppose," mused the first man, "that could be a reason why it's worth only 75 cents for other things? I mean, because government and public services cost so much more?"

"Could be," said the second man.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Services District Action Questioned

The public hearing on formation of a community service district of Sleepy Hollow last Tuesday at the board of supervisors reminded me of a hearing at Sleepy Hollow Clubhouse in 1966 on Highway 17. The people asked to be allowed the democratic process of planning on Highway 17, just as they did Tuesday on the community service district. The supervisors' vote Tuesday is evidence of the fact we are locked into voting on a district the general community of Sleepy Hollow has not been allowed due process in planning.

The vote on the board of supervisors seemed to be determined before hearing started, with one supervisor controlling all five votes! Are we supposed to accept this as a proper form of republic government?

Recall Petition Termed Absurd

Gordon Wright's presence on the Reed school board is essential in order to continue the fine start towards a quality education for all pupils in the Reed district.

Mr. Wright's leadership on the board has been exemplified by his distinguished rhetoric, integrity, and intelligence.

'Tax Sharing' False, Unprincipled

Trial balloons are drifting daily out of Washington on the subject of tax or revenue sharing — the re-distribution to the states and their subordinate entities of a portion of the funds collected under federal tax laws.

Who is for this proposal? Nelson Rockefeller, whose "management" has put New York State in such a said financial shape that he needs California dollars to keep afloat. Joe Alioto, who sees this as a way to spend money in San Francisco without taking it from the local citizens, at least not directly where he would get the blame. Many county boards of supervisors, for the same reason. . .

In any case, the premise is false. It is inefficient. It is unprincipled.

Any time a group of bureaucrats is allowed to intervene unnecessarily in the handling of funds, inefficiency results. Why should we pay money into the federal government when they propose to return it to us? Is there any efficiency in sending $100 to Washington and receiving $75 after they deduct administrative costs?

So-called "tax-sharing" is unprincipled, and some time, some how, some where our political leaders should base their actions on principle. Failure to follow principle will bring disaster. Failure to follow principle of living within our means has already brought us to the brink of disaster in the form of domestic inflation.

Under what principle can a budget deficit be "shared" with the states? The U.S. has been running budget deficits for years. Sharing of revenues with the states can only create bigger deficits and feed the fires of inflation. Two years ago the administration was predicting budget surpluses, but now they are thinking that even a big deficit isn't so bad. But, assuming that a surplus can exist, sound principle dictates one or both of two actions: (1) apply it to the reduction of federal debt, and thus liquidate part of the inflationary base; or (2) reduce taxes, resulting in a stimulant to the economy, or the creation of tax resources for the states, or a portion of both. The collection of taxes in excess of its legitimate requirements by any governmental agency is entirely unprincipled.

"Sharing" of federal taxpayers' contributions is the antithesis of returning the control of government to the people. Shall we say: "Power to the People?"

Tankers Ignorant Of Radar Invention?

It appears that the Standard Oil tankers, oblivious to all the other needless disasters at sea, remain ignorant of the invention of radar more than 28 years ago. I am glad that I destroyed my Standard credit card. Maybe that will help.

Conservationists Note: Land You 'Save' Is Not Your Own

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

The Save Strawberry Cove Committee shares this confusion.

No matter that the development would be on old fill, that it would not impinge on the cove, and that there are far more valuable properties elsewhere worth preserving. The "let's save it" banner has been unfurled, and any who fail to follow it are suspect of failing to be "real conservationists."

EVERY CRUSADE has its victims, however, and in this case it may be the very cause of the crusaders.

As put by the developer, Paul J. Broman, the committee's court claim that the public has a right to access across the entire parcel will force owners of other undeveloped holdings to fence their property to prevent similar claims from being filed against them.

Vast private holdings in California are open to the public, but such generosity will cease if the public can claim that its free use of these holdings wiped out private property rights. Because of this threat, according to Broman, many large holdings already are being fenced and posted against tresspassers.

This would not appear to be a gain for the public.

STATE WATER officials almost fell off their chairs when Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, casually mentioned he had introduced a bill affecting their beloved water plan. The bill would preserve the Eel, Klamath and Trinity rivers.

"You're not going to take on the whole water project, are you?" asked the anxious officials.

Behr's response could hardly have reassured them. Said Behr: "I always believe that you begin to kill a snake by chopping off its tail."

MARIN'S FORMER state senator, John F. McCarthy of Belvedere, went out of office in style last month by throwing his own testimonial dinner — at $75 a person.

A former member of his staff said that about 125 persons attended, and insisted that its cost barely covered the stiff tab. Must have been delicious.

GOV. RONALD REAGAN'S economy push is readily apparent outside the formerly gleaming white capitol. It used to be washed at least twice a year, but no cleaning has been possible for some 18 months because of maintenance cuts. It looks decidedly crummy.

THE DRUMMONDS

Cranston Resorts To Political Blackmail On CRLA Issue

By ROSCOE AND GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — Democratic leaders in the Senate, aided by some Republican doves, are trying to seize powers which the Constitution assigns to the President.

For a year they have been seeking to restrict the President's constitutional role in foreign policy and undercut his authority as commander-in-chief.

It is evident that Sen. William Fulbright and those Democrats who agree with him are out to reverse the "advise and consent" clause of the Constitution.

Instead of the President having primacy in foreign affairs with the "advice and consent" of the Senate, they are out to transfer this primacy to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee — with or without the advice and consent of the President.

This is bad business. It is bad government, and we believe it will prove to be bad politics.

This is bad enough — but it's getting worse.

WITH THE VISIBLE support of Senators Mike Mansfield, Edward Kennedy and Walter Mondale, Senate Democrats are trying to impose their will upon the domestic side of the executive branch by threatening to block a high appointee unless he will agree in advance to make the decisions the Democrats want him to make.

It is hard to believe, but it's true. Here is the way they have been going about it.

A few weeks ago Gov. Ronald Reagan vetoed a $1.8 million grant of the Rural Legal Assistance Program in California, funded by the Office of Economic Opportunity.

The OEO has the authority to override this veto and its acting director, Frank Carlucci, is up for confirmation before the Senate Labor Committee to succeed presidential counselor Donald Rumsfeld.

AT THIS POINT Democratic Sen. Alan Cranston, who expects he will be opposed for re-election in 1974 by Ronald Reagan, saw a chance to make points against Reagan — and he leapt at it.

Cranston, a member of the committee, instantly took the position that Carlucci should not be confirmed until he revealed how he would deal with the Reagan veto.

Carlucci's answer was:

"It appears that the confirmation of a new director of the OEO is being made to depend upon my making judgments on a governor's veto of one program in his state before having an opportunity to review the evidence.

"I would not be the kind of director the poor deserve to act as their spokesman if I were to start yielding to this kind of pressure to facilitate my confirmation."

CRANSTON'S MANEUVER is political blackmail. It is unethical and probably illegal. If Carlucci overrode Reagan's veto under the circumstances created by Cranston, it would almost certainly prove to be a violation of federal law against making any promise as a condition of getting a job in the executive branch.

If Carlucci yields to Cranston's blackmail, it would play right into the hands of Reagan by enabling him to move to the courts to block the program.

This is obviously not what Cranston wants, but this is what happens when a politician puts partisan, election-politics ahead of everything else.

It seems fantastic that Democratic leaders would let Cranston stamp such a stain on the party and on the Senate. But Kennedy and Mondale spoke up for his ploy as though it were downright smart. And Majority Leader Mansfield seems so preoccupied with foreign affairs that he is letting his troops run loose.

BY NO MEANS NEUTRAL

Sheep Turns To Fight Against Corporate Giant

By ERNEST B. FURGURSON

WASHINGTON — How many times have you stood at a street corner or sat in your car waiting for a light to change and been forced to swallow lungfuls of bus exhaust that stings the eyes and sears the windpipe.

And what have you done about it?

Held your breath until the monster passed, or until you crossed the street. Rolled up the car window and turned on the air conditioner, if there was one. Cursed, if you are a sinner. Vowed to get even some way, some day.

You and I and the rest of us are what Murdaugh S. Madden calls sheep. He knows the breed because he used to be one himself.

THE SHEEP syndrome, Madden says, is "getting in the habit of putting up with anything. . . the feeling of walking around as if you can't do a damned thing about what's happening to you."

After suffering from it for 48 years, he was standing on a curb in the federal city one gray December day when two of the evil machines attacked him in succession. He finally had enough.

He took them to court.

His suit in U.S. District Court against the transit company alleges that the drivers and buses did "offensively, rudely and with callous and insolent disregard for defendant's rights commit an assault and battery upon the person of the plaintiff."

He maintained that the buses' "offensive and oily substances and fumes" injured his face, eyes, nose, mouth and clothes, causing "smarting and injury to plaintiff's eyes" and "permanent damage by the intake of said noxious fumes and substances into plaintiff's lungs and respiratory system."

Not only that, he went on, Over a period of time such offenses have caused "inducement and/or aggravation of the sheep syndrome, which has arisen from plaintiff being subjected constantly to such repeated offensive assaults and batteries, past and present, with the accompanying symptoms, inter alia, of frustration and helplessness."

IN OTHER WORDS, Murdaugh S. Madden is a sheep no more.

As a matter of fact, he is much like the incarnation of one of Walter Mitty's finer figments. Workaday, he is a lawyer for the Humane Society of the United States, taking up for helpless animals. Now, of a sudden, he is his own counsel, taking on single-handed a corporate Goliath which all these years not only has been raising fares at will and flatulently polluting the city, but doing it arrogantly.

AND WHY is he asserting himself alone this way, against the legal battalions the transit company is sure to muster against him?

He is aware that there are nationwide organizations at last involved in the antipollution crusade, but their very bigness results in an administrative approach that drags on and on. He wants action now.

Proof that his impatience is firmly based came parallel to his legal action. Here in the capital, buses are a grosser plague than nearly anywhere. There is no rail rapid transit system, and there are droves of tourists who come on school or charter buses or take the local sight-seeing buses. So it has been a sore subject for a long time.

THUS, 16 MONTHS ago a group of George Washington University law students formed the Greater Washington Alliance to Stop Pollution, which comes out (by acronymic license) to be GASP. They filed a formal complaint against bus exhaust with the Metropolitan Transit Authority. Another group, the Metropolitan Washington Coalition for Clean Air, joined their action.

Ptomaine Palace At Civic Center Turns Into Gourmet's Delight

Known last year as the "ptomaine palace" on the top of the Hall of Justice, the Civic Center cafeteria this year may become one of the most popular lunching spots in the county.

Two chefs, formerly with West End Villa in San Rafael, a moderately expensive Italian restaurant, last week took over operation of the cafeteria.

Long accustomed to the food provided by state Department of Rehabilitation employees who were trained never to use butter when oil could be substituted, Civic Center employees this week cheerfully cleaned their plates and drank endless cups of good coffee.

Early arrivals could order two eggs (any style) and toast for 45 cents.

Not only was the quality up remarkably and the prices down, but little attractive touches were everywhere. Wedges of fresh pineapple nestled in ice. Saucers were available with the cups. And even the employees had been garnished with new red scarves and aprons.

"I only hope it lasts," was the oft-heard comment of the civil servant — made cyncial by years of disillusionment.

ANYONE HAVE a need for two cartons of condensed versions of best sellers?

A member of the family gave them to me to take to Marin County Jail, which has always happily accepted reading contributions in the past.

I was especially pleased to be able to offer them hard-cover books this time — but discovered this is exactly what are not wanted.

It seems the clever inmates hollow out the books and fill them with contraband such as drugs if they get the chance.

"One of them even cut the insides out of a Bible," a jailer said.

The books are still in the trunk of my car awaiting a worthy cause while the jail inmates, presumably including our most famous one, have to content themselves with paperbacks.

A BLACK BAIL bondsman from San Francisco, who incidentally used to be a chauffeur for Melvin Belli, told of how people of his own race try to solicit special favors.

"I had one little lady who got into trouble and her bail was $625," he related. "I told her the premium would be $62.50 and I needed collateral for $600."

She answered, "Why man, I'm the same color as you."

The bondsman responded by saying, "Madam, I may be the same color but I'm not the same kind."

Unemployment In California Up 6 Per Cent

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The average rate of unemployment last year in California was 6 per cent, an increase over the 4.4 per cent rate in 1969.

The Department of Human Resources Development also reported Friday that an average 520,000 workers were unemployed during 1970, an increase of 148,000 from the previous year.

The department, who has the task of helping find work for the jobless, said that employment last year averaged 8,091,000, up 75,000 over the 1969 record average.

The civilian labor force in 1970 averaged 8.6 million, an increase of 2.7 per cent or 223,000 workers. In the previous year the labor force rose by 3.7 per cent.

WASHINGTON WINDOW

How Much Did He Spend? Bill Would Let Us Know

By ROY McGHEE

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "Don't buy a single vote more than is necessary. I'll be damned if I'm going to pay for a landslide.

But the truth is no one knows how much the family spent in quest of the nation's highest office for John Kennedy. Nor does the public know how much Nelson Rockefeller spent in his four campaigns for governor of New York and his three tries for the Republican presidential nomination; nor how much his brother Winthrop spent in four races for governor of Arkansas.

Likewise, there has been no public accounting of how deep the wealthy Buckley family dipped into its private oil-based fortune to finance the successful election of Sen. James L. Buckley, New York conservative. Or, for that matter, how much former Rep. Richard L. Ottinger, D-N.Y. heir to vast plywood wealth, personally spent in losing to Buckley.

But it is no laughing matter to two reform-minded senators, James B. Pearson, R-Kan., and Mike Gravel, D-Alaska. They have teamed to write a tough election campaign reform bill that aims, for one thing, to reduce the edge huge private fortunes give candidates.

It would stipulate that a candidate for federal office—president, senator or congressman — could not spend more than $25,000 of his own or his family's money in an election campaign.

The Pearson-Gravel legislation would limit the amount a candidate for national office could spend on all types of political advertising to 10 cents for each voter registered for the last previous election. That ceiling would apply both in primaries and general elections.

Congress enacted a similar bill last year, but restricted the expenditure limitaton to radio and television advertising. President Nixon vetoed that bill, calling it unfair to broadcasters.

It was widely believed, however, that another reason for the veto was that Republicans have richer financial resources than Democrats, and that suggesting they give up this advantage was expecting too much morality from a political party.

Other reforms proposed by Pearson and Gravel: Strict public reporting of all campaign contributions and expenditures; an independent, nonpolitical government agency to police campaign spending; free network prime time for presidential candidates, and possible government subsidies for campaign expenditures for federal office seekers.

With campaign expenses spiraling with each election (they were estimated to have exceeded $40 million in 1968), there is no question about the need for reforms.

Says Pearson:

"The continuing spectacle of millions upon millions of dollars being spent on political advertising has aroused both the citizenry and public officials alike as never before in my memory. Thus, I am more optimistic about the chances for success in this session of the Congress than in any previous session in which I have participated."

Moon Watchers

Bond Issue For Sewers On Agenda

A bond issue to pay for needed improvements to Mill Valley's sewer system will be discussed when the city council holds an adjourned meeting today at 7:30 p.m. in the board room of the city library.

Also on tap is a discussion of double taxation in an area recently annexed to the city. Residents of the so-called high school tidelands annexation are served by and pay taxes to the Richardson Bay Sanitary District, but they also pay the full Mill Valley tax rate of $2.92 per $100 assessed valuation, including 35 cents for sewage service which they don't receive.

Also to be discussed at the meeting is whether the city will close Camino Alto Bridge over Arroyo Corte Madera Del Presidio while the bridge is being rebuilt. Keeping the bridge open to traffic could cost the city an additional $25,000.

Dixie Results Due

Results of standardized tests given to sixth and eighth graders in the Dixie School District last fall will be discussed by district trustees when they meet Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the district office in Terra Linda.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL

No Payments Necessary On Social Security Checks

Social Security payments received by you are not taxable income and you do not have to pay income tax on them.

Social Security payments that are used for a dependent's support must be taken into consideration in determining whether you have furnished more than half of the support.

Social Security, including basic medicare payments, received by a child or an aged parent and used for their support is considered furnished by them for their own support. If this amounts to more than one-half the cost of support, you will not be able to claim them as your dependents. Supplementary medicare benefits are not included in the support computation.

They do not have to file tax returns or pay income tax on the Social Security payments. The payments only affect you in determining whether or not you could claim them as your dependents.

Where both parents are living and both are receiving Social Security in one check, one-half of the amount received is considered as being spent by each parent for his own support.

HALF OF COST

If you furnished over half the cost of supporting your parents, then your parents' medical expenses you paid for the parent may be claimed as medical expenses on your tax returns if you actually paid them to the doctor, hospital, etc., as well as being included in determining whether or not you furnished over half the cost of your parents' support.

You can do this even though you may not be able to claim your parents as your dependents because they have earnings of more than $600.

While Social Security payments are not taxed to you, they can be a factor in determining the amount of retirement income credit you can claim on your tax return and, in effect, in some cases seem to be taxed to you through this medium.

BASIC MEDICARE

Basic medicare and supplemental medicare payments are not taken into account in computing the amount of your retirement income credit.

Amounts deducted from your Social Security checks for medicare are deductible under the rules for medical expense insurance even though the receipt of this by you is not taxable income.

Interest Rate Cuts Kindle Buyer Hopes

NEW YORK (UPI) — Recent dips in interest rates appear to have kindled some consumer optimism about the future course of the economy, but consumers remain pessimistic about current business conditions.

The board's comments were made on the basis of a November-December survey conducted for it by National Family Opinion, Inc., which periodically surveys 10,000 families across the country.

Some 34 per cent of families polled said current business conditions were bad, compared with 24 per cent in the September-October survey, with the 10-week General Motors strike probably accounting for some of the difference.

Some 25 per cent said they expected business conditions to improve in the next six months, a slight improvement over the 22 per cent registering similar sentiment in the previous survey.

Miller Barber Best Of the Par-Busters

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — Put perfect golfing weather together with a flat and fairly short course and a bunch of hungry pros and you're going to have a lot of low scores.

That's what happened during the weekend at the Arizona Country Club where par was shattered repeatedly and most often by Miller Barber, an unusual Texan in that he is a taciturn chap who does not flap his mouth but concentrates on his game.

Barber, 39, wh0 was only a few dollars short of $100,000 in earnings last year, ran away with the $25,000 first prize in the Phoenix Open with his 72-hole total of 261, 23 under par. His rounds were 65-64-67-65. Par is 35-36-71.

Two strokes back at the hectic finish were Masters champion Billy Casper and the Florida barrister Dan Sikes. Casper shot a final 62, nine under, tieing the course record held by Gene Littler. Sikes shot 64.

Their total, 263, was 21 under par, equalling the tournament record also set by Littler when he won here in 1969.

Casper, who is the come-close kid this year, lost a playoff to Bob Lunn in the Los Angeles Open, first PGA event of 1971.

The tie for second Sunday was good for $11,575.

Three pros tied for fourth at 264, good for $5,158. They were Rod Curl, a 28-year-old Indian from Redding, Calif., who got his biggest check by far; Dave Hill, who had the first hole-in-one of the PGA year, and Homero Blancas who shot a 63 Saturday but tailed off to 67 Sunday.

Curl had a final 65 while Hill took 67. Hill aced the 153-yard, par-three seventh hole when his tee shot landed on the fly in the cup. Paul Harney, who led after three rounds by one stroke over Littler, did an El Foldo, you might say. He took a par-71 when he four-putted on the last green. His tie for seventh was good for $3,280. Also in this bracket were Howie Johnson 65, George Archer 67, Don Massengale, 66, Hale Irwin 66 and Kermit Zarley 66.

Littler, the 40-year-old La Jolla, Calif., smooth-swinger, slumped to a one-over 72 in the last round. He ended at 267, not bad but good only for a tie for 16th place. Also in that tie were Arnold Palmer 66, Frank Beard 68, and Bob Lunn 69. Lunn shared the first round lead with a 64.

Fred Marti, who also had a first day 64 with Lunn, and Massengale took a lukewarm par the last round and landed in the 272 bracket, good for only $400.

Weather was in the 70s for most of the time. There was little wind. The sun shone. The fairways were hard enough to give a good roll to the ball. And the greens were slow enough for good control.

"I didn't realize I was shooting that good," said Barber when he was told he was a record breaker.

"It's just unbelievable. The weather, of course, was magnificent and all the par fives you could reach in two and that's why the scores were so low."

Barber had eight birdies and two bogeys on his 32-33-65 card.

Casper had a bogey and 10 birdies on his card of 32-30-61. He three putted the seventh for his bogey, a four. He sank a 25-foot putt for a birdie on No. 11 but his others were much shorter-10 feet and under. He was up close with his irons on most holes.

"It was really fascinating," he said. "I sure felt good."

Hull Boys Throttle The Seals

CHICAGO (UPI) — The California Golden Seals ran into the Hull boys — Bobby and Dennis — Sunday night and it was no contest.

The Hull-led Chicago Black Hawks came out on top, 5-3, which enabled them to stretch their lead in the National Hockey League's Western Division to 13 points over second place St. Louis.

Both Hulls each scored two goals in pacing the Hawks to their fourth victory in five outings over the last place Seals this season.

Dennis Hull got the first two goals of the game, poking in a rebound on a power play and then connecting on a short try after taking a pass from Stan Mikita.

For California, now 14-30-3 and 36 points behind Chicago, Ernie Hicke, Gary Croteau and Dennis Hextall knocked in goals.

Swim Star Wins AAU Top Award

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) – Swimming sensation John Kinsella, 18, an Indiana University freshman from Oak Brook, Ill., today was named 1970 winner of the James E. Sullivan Memorial Trophy as the nation's outstanding athlete by the Amateur Athletic Union.

AAU President John B. Kelly Jr., a veteran Olympian and himself the winner of the coveted award in 1947, made the announcement.

He said Kinsella, holder and co-holder of three world records, won over nine other nominees in the annual balloting.

Kinsella, expected to be a powerful asset to Indiana's NCAA and Big Ten champions, received 1,097 points. Runnerup was walker Ron Laird, Pomona, Calif., with 746.

About 1,000 ballots were cast for the annual trophy winner, mostly by AAU officials throughout the country, and by sportswriters and broadcasters.

Kinsella, who competed in the 1968 Olympics at Mexico City as a high schooler, holds the world freestyle records in the 400 meters at 4:02.8 and 1,500 meters at 15:57.1. He is also a member of the U.S. 800-meter freestyle team that holds the world record.

"He represents the finest of our nation's youth," Kelly said.

Kelly, a bronze medalist in rowing, competed in four consecutive Olympic Games, starting in 1948. He won a third

ROYAL ESCORT — A convoy of National Conference players escorted Mel Renfro (20) of the Dallas Cowboys to the end zone yesterday as he returned a punt 82 yards for a touchdown in the Pro Bowl. Jerrel Wilson of Kansas City was the last American Conference player with a chance to get Renfro, but Chicago's Dick Butkis (51) took care of him.

Renfro's Returns Clinch It

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The National Football Conference drew a measure of revenge Sunday for the loss its champion suffered in the Super Bowl by defeating the American Conference all-stars 27-6 in the 21st annual Pro Bowl.

And it was Mel Renfro, a member of the Dallas team that went down to defeat in the Super Bowl, who crushed the AFC with punt returns of 82 and 56 yards for touchdowns in the final quarter.

Until the ex-University of Oregon track star made his punt returns that brought him the back of the game honors, the American Conference team still felt it was in the contest although trailing 13-6.

The excellent passing of San Francisco's John Brodie climaxed by a 23-yard touchdown pass in the third period to Minnesota's Dave Osborn had been the margin for the NFC until Renfro electrified the crown of 48,222 in the Coliseum with his punt returns for touchdowns.

As had been expected, the game was a defensive struggle most of the way.

"There's no conclusions about the conferences to be drawn from the game," said losing coach John Madden of Oakland. "Neither team controlled the ball and both defenses were hitting and tackling well."

Madden thought his team was the victim of an adverse ruling when Oakland end Fred Biletnikoff caught what appeared to be a touchdown pass from Daryle Lamonica in the end zone in the third period. But Biletnikoff was ruled to have stepped out before he had possession.

And winning coach Dick Nolan of San Francisco said, "Actually, it was a pretty even game. Renfro's great punt returns were obviously the key things, but I thought Brodie and Fran Tarkenton both called a good game." Renfro credited Nolan with positioning for the touchdown punt returns in the fourth period.

"After Cecil Turner of Chicago fumbled a punt return in the third period," Renfro said, "Nolan told me to get back there deep. That's why I was in position to receive those punts."

"I'm an ex-runner from Oregon," the seven-year pro said. "When I see a little daylight, I can go."

Turner's fumble set up the Biletnikoff out-of-bounds catch on a pass from Lamonica that could have turned the game around had it been ruled a touchdown.

The AFC got on the scoreboard first in the second period on a 37-yard field goal by Jan Stenerud of Kansas City. But Fred Cox made it a 3-3 halftime tie when the Minnesota kicker booted a 13-yard field goal.

Brodie then took over in the third period and guided the NFC on the only sus-

TOO BAD, RAYMOND — Willie Wood of the Green Bay Packers, playing for the National Conference, intercepted a pass intended for Oakland's Raymond Chester during yesterday's Pro Bowl in Los Angeles. After the catch, Karl Kassulke of Minnesota blocked Chester, allowing Wood to return the ball 15 yards.

TRACK-FIELD ROUNDUP

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Jim Ryun is leaving the records to other trackmen these days but he seems to be enjoying the sport more now.

Ryun was over shadowed on a busy indoor track weekend by a pair of world record marks but the former Kansas star was pleased by a relaxed 4:04.4 mile Fridy night in his first appearance in 19 months at the All-American Games in San Francisco.

The star of that meet was Al Feuerbach, who stunned Randy Matson and set a world indoor mark in the shot put with a heave of 68 feet, 11 inches.

In the NAIA meet in wkansas City, Jean-Louis Ravelomanatsoa won the 60-yard dash Saturday night with a 6.0 clocking after matching the world mark of 5.9 in Friday night's semi-finals.

In the fourth annual Philadelphia Track Classic, Mel Pender won the 50-yard dash with a 5.3 clocking as Dr. Delano Meriwether slumped to fifth. Dr. Meriwether, who ignored track during his pre-med days at Michigan State and only started working out on his own last summer, stunned the track world two weeks ago with a dash victory at Maryland.

But despite all the other action, the weekend clearly belonged to Ryun, who made his long awaited return to competitive track. Bothered by the constant pressure of always being expected to win—and often in record time —Ryun quit abruptly 19 months ago and "retired" to become a photographer in Topeka, Kan.

The long payoff has given him a chance to relax and build up his competitve urge again and now he's aiming at the 1972 Olympics. But he's doing it slowly and, as a husband and father, he seems to be much more mature and self-confident now.

"I was very pleased with my performance," Ryan said after his mile even though his own world record is almost 13 seconds faster.

Wells Arrested In Dressing Room

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Warren Wells, star wide receiver for the Oakland Raiders who played in the Pro Bowl game here Sunday, was arrested in the dressing room following the game and charged with violation of probation.

Wells, arrested on a warrant from Alameda County, was led handcuffed from Memorial Coliseum and taken to central police station for booking.

Police said the probation was for a criminal conviction in Oakland but said the warrant did not indicate what the conviction was for.

Notre Dame Too Much For Bruins

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

For the first time in four seasons, UCLA will probably relinquish its usual No. 1 spot in the national collegiate basketball ratings this week, possibly to its chief challenger in the Pacific-8 Conference, the University of Southern California Trojans.

Even though they were idle over the weekend, Bob Boyd's No. 2 ranked Trojans, along with third-rated Marquette, are being touted for the top slot following UCLA's dramatic 89-82 upset loss to Austin Carr-paced Notre Dame Saturday.

Boyd, whose Trojans are 4-0 in Pac-8 play and 14-0 overall, admitted this his team would "quite likely be given consideration as No. 1."

"If we are No. 1, I don't want to minimize it," Boyd said while on a scouting mission in the Pacific Northwest. "Every college and university team in the country is trying to do the same."

Before 11,343 hysterical fans in South Bend, Ind., UCLA simply wasn't able to stop the unstoppable Carr. The game pitted two All-Americans, Carr and Sidney Wicks of the Buins, but it wasn't much of a contest.

The smooth shooting Carr poured in 46 points to outshine Wicks, who tallied 23 before fouling out.

The point total run up by the Fighting Irish, incidentally, was the highest against the Bruins this season and the fifth highest in the last five season.

However, in defense of the four-time NCAA champions, it should be noted that the Bruins, now 14-1, played a night game in Chicago Friday and did not reach South Bend until the wee hours of the morning Saturday for the nationally televised afternoon contest.

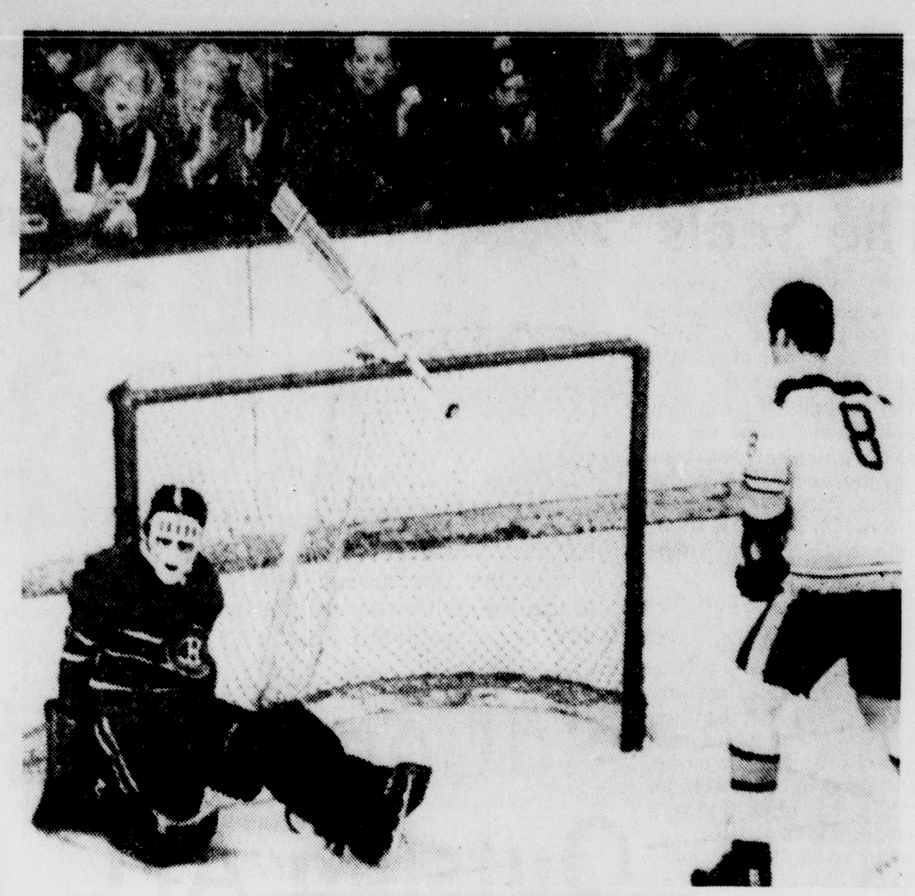
"They played better than any team we've played this season," said John Wooden in refusing to alibi for the loss. "People tell me this was the best game they played, but all I can judge is how they were against us and they've got to rate as the best we've played."

And despite the loss, most observers still think UCLA will finish the campaign as the top team in the nation — again.

Out on the coast, conference play was slim. In a pair of Pac-8 games, lethargic Washington came to life in the second half and went on to trip Oregon State, 93-85, in overtime, and Oregon, behind a 34-point performance by Stan Love, dazzled Washington State with a 66 per cent shooting exhibition and a 95-68 triumph.

Non-conference play saw Jackie Ridgle and Ansley Truitt pace California to an 81-70 victory over San Francisco and Utah use free throw accuracy to outscore Stanford, 99-91.

In West Coast Athletic Conference play, pre-season favorite UOP got bumped for the second time in league competition. Mike Stewart dropped in a pair of free throws with 1:52 remaining in overtime and checked Tiger hot-shot John Gianelli to pace Santa Clara to an 80-78 victory.



DEFENSELESS DEFENDER

Montreal goalie Rogatien Vachon made a save but lost his stick in the process during last night's National Hockey League game in Boston. The stick flew behind the net, and the Maple Leaf defender was forced to play without it briefly, as Ken Hodge of the Bruins (8), headed toward him. Boston won, 4-2. (UPI Telephoto)

Russ Boxers Defeat Yanks; Valdez Wins

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — The Russians have done it again. But just barely.

The Soviet national boxing team built up an early 6-1 lead Saturday and went on to beat a U.S. amateur squad 6-5 in the third dual match between the countries.

The Russians won here 6-5 in 1969 and at Moscow by an 8-3 score last year.

The Soviets showed superior boxing skill in most of the 11 Olympic weight bouts but three Americans scored knockouts.

The second part of the program at Caesars Palace was shown on national television.

By LARRY MOWELL

Like most sayings, it is also true as Jerry Sloan of the Chicago Bulls showed the San Francisco Warriors Saturday night.

Sloan, a precision shooting guard averaging almost 19 points a game this season, missed 19 of his first 20 shots and had only five points with six minutes left in the game.

Then the 6-foot 5-inch guard scored the Bulls' final eight points on two jump shots and four free throws to wrap up an 87-83 mauling of San Francisco.

The Warriors made only 34.9 per cent of their shots; the Bulls canned only 31.6 per cent.

Providing the muscle for the Warriors was Nate Thurmond with 25 points and 22 rebounds. Jerry Lucas added 17 points and 14 rebounds.

Lithe Bob Love led the scorers with 34 points, 22 in the first half as the Bulls gouged out a 46-43 lead.

The Bulls threatened to run away and hide early in the game as they built a 23-12 lead on defensive lapses by the home team.

The Warriors, now 27-25 and three games behind the Los Angeles Lakers in the Pacific Division of the National Basketball Association, visit Baltimore tomorrow and Detroit Wednesday, then return to Civic Auditorium Friday for a joust with the Buffalo Braves.

Bonus Month For Laver; $60,000 In Prize Money

DETROIT (UPI) —January of 1971, which has been one of the finer months Rod Laver has ever enjoyed, could get even better.

The Australian king of tennis has already won six straight $10,000 matches in the $210,000 Tennis Champions Classic this month and Thursday he has a chance to put another $10,000 in his checking account.

Laver polished off Holland's Tom Okker Saturday night, losing the first two sets 7-5 each then whipping up three 6-2 wins, and now takes on Arthur Ashe, of Gum Spring, Va., Thursday in New York's Madison Square Garden.

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI)— Billy Jean King, the leading money winner on the $100,000 Virginia Slims Tennis circuit, earned another $2,500 Sunday by defeating Rosemary Casals 6-3, 6-2, in the finals of the tournament at Milwaukee's Brook Club.

Cager Denies ABA Signing

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Howard Porter, Villanova University basketball star, denied reports during the weekend he had signed a professional contract after an alleged secret draft by the American Basketball Association.

A copyrighted article in the Charlotte (N.C.) Observer Sunday said Porter and Jim McDaniels of Western Kentucky signed contracts with the league for future assignment to the teams that jrafted them.

Porter, who reportedly was drafted by the Pittsburgh Condors, denied the contract signing.

"Why would I sign?" Porter said. "I'd lose bargaining power if I signed now."

Porter said he had not even had any telephone conversations with ABA personnel and "I didn't even know I'd be drafted."

Jack Kraft, Villanova coach, said Porter's word was good enough for him.

"They'll have to bring the contract in front of Howard and me for us to believe it," Kraft said.

DENVER (UPI)—Guard Lonnie Wright of the Denver Rockets said Sunday there were "racial overtones' involved in the operation of the American Basketball Association club.

The 6-2 Negro athlete made the accusation shortly after Denver officials confirmed Wright had been traded to the Floridians for cash and a future draft choice.

Wright, a Colorado State University graduate who played pro football with the Denver Broncos for two years, has been plagued by poor shooting this season. The rockets have been battling to stay out of last place in the ABA's Western Division.

Italians Capture Bobsled Crown

'ERVINIA, Italy (UPI)—Although the home course gave them the first day advantage, it was a quirk of weather which secured Italy's two-man bobsled team a clean sweep of the world championships.

The Italy No. 1 team of Gianfranco Gaspari and Mario Armano captured the world title on the basis of their first two heat times Saturday when officials suspended the last two runs Sunday because a sudden snowstorm dumped knee-deep drifts on the killer Lago Blue course.

The Italy No. 2 duo of Enzo Vicarlo and Corrado Dal Fabbro were awarded second place and the Austria No. 1 team of Herber Gruber and Mario Armano took third on the basis of Saturday's times.

Wind-whipped snow flurries halted the third heat runs after two crackups and one further withdrawal on the second day of the two-man world championships. After an hour's deliberation, judges canceled the rest of the heats and posted the standings after Satuday's first two heats as the final results.

Italian organizers, anticipating certain controversy over the decision since it gave the world title and second place to Italian teams, issued a statement that they asked the judges to postpone the last two heats until Monday, but the judges refused.

In the official announcement, the judges said the decision was, "wise in respect to the regulations to permit the carrying out of training and heats of the four-man bobsled competition." The four-man bob sled training had been scheduled to begin today.

The abrupt cancellation of the last two heats brought unofficial protests from the German, Austrian and Swiss teams, all of whom were within a second and a half of the Italinas going into the final day. The Germans had also voiced some complaints that the course had been used for the Italian national champsionships, giving the Italian teams the advantage of familiarity with it.

An Icy Monte Carlo

MONTE CARLO, France (UPI)—Jean Pierre Nicolas of France led the exhausted Monte Carlo Auto Rally drivers across the finish today at the end of the event's first 2,200 mile stage.

But it was Sweden's Ove Andersson and David Stone of Britain who were in the lead after half the competitors had completed the first speed trial.

Andersson and Stone, driving a French Works Alpine similar to Nicolas', swept along the 24 miles special stage—a narrow, twisty corridor of ice and snow in the French Alps-in exactly 37 minutes.

In second place was another Alpine of Frenchmen JeanClaude Therier and Marcel Callewaert in 37:17. Third was the Works Lancia of Italians Sandro Munari and Mario Manucci.

But several favored cars had yet to tackle the section and with Porsche, Datsun and the Lancias of Harry Kallstrom of Sweden and Simo Lampinen of Finland still to run, provisional standings were not expected to be complete until later.

Several Porsche drivers complained that the special section was so narrow there was no room to overtake and they predicted they would be held up by slower cars in front of them.

"The special stage was very difficult," said Andersson as he stepped out of the low slung blue French car on the wet side here. "The ice was almost 20 centimeters thick. But of course, I am very happy with the time," he said.

Co-Driver Stone had another tale about the hair-raising 37 minute drive.

"At one point we took off and flew about 30 yards in the air. When we landed all the lights fell off. But we seemed to make it all right," he said.

The Swede said the run from Marrakesh was "very easy. We came all the way up the coast of Spain and never had any trouble until we met the ice and snow in the (French) Alps."

Winning By Length Of A Worm

BRIGHTON, England (UPI) — An eight-inch worm wiggled to victory Sunday in what was billed as the world's first worm race a week after the unofficial favorite was accidentally squashed during training.

Toy Token Tom cheered on by a crowd of 30 spectators, inched along the two-foot plate glass course at the Brighton Toy Fair in one minute seven seconds — a speed of 4,593 hours per mile.

He beat runner-up Whippy Willy II, five inches long, by a worm's length. Three other contestants, Creepy Crawler, Iggles Squiggles and Yesman, were left far behind.

Whippy Willy II was a late substitute for the race. Its owner, Chris Hudson, 15, accidentally trod on Willy's predecessor a week ago while training him in the back garden.

"The first Willy was terrifyingly fast and could have easily won the race today," Chris said. "I fed Willy II on cabbage and chocolate but it didn't seem to do him any good. He just didn't want to finish."

NBA ROUNDUP

Reed Becomes All-Time Top Scorer For Knicks

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

There wasn't anything wrong with the New York Knickerbockers that a healthy Willis Reed couldn't cure.

Reed, the league's most valuable player a year ago, returned to his old form over the weekend and helped the Knicks break a slump with a pair of important victories.On Saturday night the 6-foot-9 center poured in 30 points and grabbed 17 rebounds as the Knicks routed the Boston Celtics, 128-107, and Sunday he collected 24 points to spark New York to a 117-105 triumph over the Detroit Pistons.

In the process Reed became the highest scorer in Knicks' history.

Reed, who was sidelined for a few games a couple of weeks ago with the flu, was slow to recover and during his convalescing period the Knicks dropped six of eight games and had watched their lead in the National Basketball Association's East Divsion dwindle to three and one-half games.

"It sure feels good to get going again," said Reed after Sunday's effort pushed him past Carl Braun and into first place on the Knicks' all-time scoring list with 10,511 points. "A lot of people have been thinking that I'm washed up."

Reed got scoring support from Bill Bradley with 22 points and Mike Riordan with 19 as the Knicks snapped a five-game losing streak on the road with a victory at Detroit. Dave Bing paced the Pistons with 26 points.

In other Sunday action, Milwaukee routed Atlanta, 142-120; Los Angeles topped Cincinnati, 142-131; Philadelphia crushed Seattle 145-119; Boston beat Cleveland, 121-100; Phoenix defeated Chicago, 113-112; and Buffalo whipped Portland, 123-111.

Bob Dandridge connected on 15 of 20 shots from the floor and scored 33 points to spark the Bucks' to their 41st victory in 49 games. Oscar Robertson chipped in with 29 points and 15 assists while Pete Maravich led the Hawks with 30 points.

Wilt Chamberlain scored 35 points and collected 29 rebounds to pace the Lakers' victory. Jerry West supported Chamberlain with 32 points and Happy Hairston and Keith Erickson chipped in with 28 and 25 points respectively. Tom Van Arsdale led Cincinnati with 25 points. Billy Cunningham scored 33 points and Archie Clark added 32 as Philadelphia kept pace with the Knicks by trimming Seattle. The 76ers remain four games behind the Knicks in the East Division. Spencer Haywood led the Supersonics with 30 points.

John Havlicek collected 36 points and Jo Jo White added 28 as the Celtics handed the Cavaliers their 47th loss in 54 games. Johnny Johnson topped Cleveland with 29 points.

The Suns rallied from 11 points down in the last nine and one-half minutes to nip Chicago. Phoenix moved ahead to stay with 1:31 left as they overcame a 34-point effort by Chicago's Bob Love. Mel Counts and Paul Silas paced the Suns with 18 points each.

Bob Kauffman's 30 points paced Buffalo to its third straight victory. Geoff Petrie topped Portland with 28 points.

Warning Signal Plan For Paloma Avenue

Coleman School children, crossing the Northwestern Pacific Railroad tracks on Paloma Avenue in San Rafael soon will be protected by a flashing red signal and a piercing alarm if trains approach.

The railroad has begun work on a $8,200 warning system, settling a long dispute, according to Norris Rawles, city director of public works.

Although the city, at parents' urgings, asked for the pedestrian signal in December 1969, the project was delayed because the railroad, which does not ordinarily provide warning signals for pedestrian crossings, did not think they were necessary.

Two trains normally use the tracks each day.

Agreement to proceed with the project was reached last month when both the city and railroad agreed to split the cost.

Rawles said he has applied to the State Public Utilities Commission to pay 50 per cent of the city's $4,100 share.

The tenor's operatic career has taken him into concert halls across the nation and in Europe. He has appeared as a guest soloist with symphony orchestras in San Francisco, Cincinnati, Vancouver, Buffalo and Portland and at leading university and college campuses throughout the country.

Schwabacher is president of the San Francisco Conservatory of Music and is founder of the San Francisco Spring Opera. He has served as president of the San Francisco Symphony Foundation and president of the Merola Memorial Fund which sponsors opera audition.

M. Elizabeth Smith Is Head Of Women's Rights Group

A life-long resident of Marin, M. Elizabeth Smith of Novato is serving as the first elected president of the Marin Chapter of the National Organization for Women.

The Marin Chapter of NOW follows the national goals of the National Organization for Women, to take action to bring women into the mainstream of American society, exercising the privileges and responsibilities thereof, in equal partnership with men.

"This purpose includes, but is not limited to, equal rights in all aspects of citizenship, public service, employment, education and family life, as well as freedom from discrimination because of marital status or parenthood," says the president.

Specific areas of concern in Marin for NOW, Mrs. Smith says, are job discrimination, the need for child care, and education toward ending discrimination against women.

Men as well as women may become members of NOW, which meets the first and third Thursday of the month at 8 p.m., currently at the College of Marin faculty lounge. Mrs. Smith said that NOW also plans monthly orientation meetings for men and women interested in its goals, to be held in various parts of Marin, and small discussion groups for women to share their experiences of being female in a male-dominated society.

The wife of L. Charles Smith of Novato and the mother of four children, Katherine, 15; Bradford, 13; Laura, 10; and David, 3, Elizabeth Smith is also a student at the College of Marin and hopes to enter Sonoma State College in the fall. She is a graduate of San Rafael High School.

M. ELIZABETH SMITH

Her interests range from human rights to reading, writing and music, and she is a founder of the Novatans for Racial Equality and is a member of the Novato Presbyterian Church.

Prior to her election as president of NOW, she served as acting secretary for the Marin chapter, formed last year.

Other officers for 1971 are Barbara Padilla (Mrs. Arthur) of Novato, vice president; Helen Finckbone of San Rafael, treasurer; Barbara Hosmer of Greenbrae, recording secretry; and Cavan Medrano (Mrs. Anthony) of San Rafael, corresponding secretary.

The chapter also has working committees on child care, job discrimination, education, speakers bureau, media image, abortion issues, orientation and small groups.

BRAILLE TRANSCRIBER

'Blind Child Should Share World'

By DYANNE FORTNER

"A blind child needs to share every possible aspect of the sighted world. He must not be isolated from it. Thus the child and his sighted parents can read together," explains Mrs. Jay Deaton of Petaluma, a dedicated volunteer braille transcriber.

Transcribing of printed material into braille for the blind so that the eyes of the sighted and the hand of the blind can "see" together was put together by Twin Vision, a division of the American Brotherhood for the Blind, Inc. It is a simple, but unique, technique of combining identical text in print and braille on pages facing each other to allow the books to be read by blind and sighted together.

The books are distributed free throughout the United States by this volunteer, non-profit organization whose headquarters are in Tarzana. All officers, directors and trustees are themselves blind persons.

Phyllis Deaton is one of 604 volunteer transcribers with membership in the California Transcribers and Educators of the Visually Handicapped, Inc. This organization is not primarily concerned with twin vision but with any printed material, whether it be literature, chemistry mathematics or music. Its membership is also known for efforts in various needs of the multiply handicapped, recorded materials and large print.

Anything that is fit to print can be put into the six dots that make up a braille cell, says Mrs. Deaton. A possible 258 combination forms can be derived from a cell, and meanings are determined by its relationship to an adjoining cell. Take for example the word "to." You would use the 2, 3 and 5 dot. Any misplacement of a dot can make a word take on an entirely different context, she said.

"AN AVERAGE blind child has a reading speed of 200 words per minute," said Mrs. Deaton. "He uses one index finger to keep the place of the line while the other index finger travels left to right."

She said that there are 1,000 blind and partially-seeing students enrolled in grades 9-12 in California's public schools.

Brailled pages are bulky so it is essential that short forms be used. Phyllis Deaton mentioned that the World Book encyclopedia, hard bound, both sides imprinted with braille cells, weighs 700 pounds and requires a 43 foot long bookshelf to stack its 145 volumes. Overshadowing the bulk is the expense. One brailled book, large print or recorded text for a visually handicapped high school student can cost between $50 and $100," said Mrs. Deaton. The young-appearing grandmother began her formal training in transcribing five years ago by enrolling at Santa Rosa Junior College. Listed under the department of English, braille transcribing is offered weekly. After completing the course, most students are not encouraged to become certified transcribers right away, but instead to work for one year.

"However," remembers Phyllis "I was eager to have my work evaluated so I submitted three manuscripts to the Library of Congress in Washington, D.C., for certification."

She explained that the library's standards are extremely rigid, and perfection is expected. If errors are discovered, the manuscript is returned to the transcriber with full explanations. If a student fails on his third manuscript attempt he is not allowed to submit others. "My second piece was accepted," grins Phyllis proudly.

"TRANSCRIBING IS the most tedious and time consuming work I've ever done," she said. "Speed is not stressed but rather accuracy. To keep current I set aside the first two hours of each day for my work," Phyllis explained. An early riser, she discovered she can accomplish much more, without mistakes, by isolating herself before the telephone begins to ring. "Most women just are not up at that hour!", Phyllis laughed.

"Proofreading is literally a pain in the neck to me", she said. "An old back injury limits my spending long periods of time sitting. Also, I've found if you let your work get cold between sittings you can do a much better job of proofreading."

Taking out aggressions on her transcriber is a pet of Mrs. Deaton's. "If my husband, a certified public accountant, is late for dinner, rather than fret and stew I bat out 10 pages.", she said smiling. Most transcribers are women, many of whom are young mothers with children at home. There is, however, a growing number of retired men taking an interest in transcribing. "Nothing one can choose to do could be more rewarding," exclaimed Phyllis.

The attitude of volunteers has been "only the best is good enough." Mrs. Deaton said that certification is desirable, but it is not necessary. It does not insure perfection. Most braillists, after becoming expert in the literary field prepare to learn a foreign language or the Nemeth code of braille mathematics. Mrs. Deaton plans to tackle mathematics next.

PROOF READING costs seven cents a page and must be done before a book is bound. Because there are no volunteer proof readers in Sonoma County and material must be sent away, it was again emphasized that accuracy is foremost.

When working on twin vision books Mrs. Deaton submits them to a volunteer reader in Oceanside. If there are errors, the entire book is returned with the page paper-clipped. Erasures are frowned upon and correction usually means that the entire page be redone before resubmitted for proof reading. "A post card from Oceanside is always a thrill," she said. "It indicates no erasures, no mistakes!"

Twin Vision is doing a lot of thermoform work," she remarked. Thermoform is a large machine which produces raised illustrations in durable plastic that can be bound into books along with sheets of print and braille.

"My favorite example of this is Charles Schultz's "Happiness Is", she said. Another favorite of blind children seems to be calendars.

In Marin County every Wednesday morning at the College of Marin warehouse volunteers of Twin Vision meet to bind books and thermoform.

Many times Phyllis Deaton has transcribed private projects for blind friends, and her husband binds her work. A youngster in Santa Rosa has been fortunate to enjoy his Sunday school papers, crossword puzzles and lessons because of her. Another boy of junior high school age made a special request of her:

Would it be possible to transcribe his school's handbook?

ANOTHER COMPASSIONATE project of Phyllis' was to transcribe each Sunday's hymns at her church for a blind man unable heretofore to read along.

Thus, the need for brailled materials go far beyond formal educational realms, she points out.

Sonoma County Branch of C.T.E.V.H. is illustrating children's books with materials to simulate plants, animal bones and wood. Their latest accomplishment was doing a story about a saggy, baggy elephant so that a blind child might follow the story by feeling the slick enamel of an elephant's tusk or the tough texture of elephant hide.

ONE OF THE sighted volunteers, Mrs. Jay Deaton of Petaluma, works for the American Brotherhood for the Blind, Inc., as a braille transcriber. Here she carefully punches out the raised dots to create books to be read by blind parents with their children. Twin Vision, a division of the ABB, produces such books with printed stories teamed with braille transcriptions on facing pages so that blind and sighted persons can read them together. Mrs. Deaton says she sometimes takes out her aggressions on her transcriber, a positive way to let off steam, and "bats out 10 pages" of accurate braille text. She plans to tackle braille mathematics next.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

She Thinks He's Stingy And He Thinks She Is Off Her Rocker

DEAR HELEN: My wife is 70. I am 71. We have been married six years and there is no love in our house. She thinks I have a fortune. The truth (which she knows) is my pension and social security come to less than $400. She gets $100 a month social security, but refuses to spend it.

She runs up $30 phone bills every month, and buys clothes she doesn't need. I got a camper for trips but, because of the weather, haven't taken any yet. So she sleeps in the camper and threatens to take it off on her own, as it is "community property" and half hers.

She nags and squawls and won't let my children come in the house. She had her son arrested because he didn't pay back money she loaned him — except it was my money. Hers is all socked away in a place I can't find.

She thinks I am crazy and I think she is off her rocker. I married to have a peaceful old age. It's only peaceful around here when she is sulking.

If she leaves, half of my property goes with her. Help me out of this mess. — BAD BARGAIN

DEAR HELEN: My husband of six years sent you a letter earlier today. I saw him sneaking it to the mailman. He no doubt told you I had a mental condition, but he is the one. I am 70, he is 71, and thinks he is very sexy. He prefers his family and the ladies in church over me. He won't support me. If I want clothes or money for telephone calls to my sister, he says "Pay for them yourself."

But he had enough money to buy an expensive housecar that just sits there because he is too cheap to buy gas for a trip.

I tried giving a sack of dropped apples to the mail carrier, but he took them away saying they belonged to him. Then he pulled the plug to the freezer and forgot to hook it in again. When the food spoiled, he suggested I boil it 20 minutes and use it anyway. Why did he unplug the freezer? To save electricity overnight.

If you met this man you'd be impressed, as he puts on a good show but even our pastor has given up on him.

I have moved to the camper outdoors and am having a non-support charge opened against him. Do you blame me? — GOT THE WORST OF IT

DEAR READERS: These two letters have been changed to protect the guilty (and I suspect both writers share equally here). What can I say except:

Look, you scrappy septegenarians: Life is too short to spend it fighting over money. Your combined $500 a month isn't a fortune, but it's ample for a comfortable home life and occasional trips. Forget 'mine and thine' and work out a budget. This won't solve all your problems but it may prove the foolishness of feuding over something you can't take with you. — H.

Critics Of White House Food Conference Will Have Their Own

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — Some of the leading organizers — and critics — of the White House Conference on Food, Nutrition and Health a year ago are quietly planning a follow-up session to rival a formal one scheduled February 5 by the Nixon Administration in Williamsburg, Va.

The purpose of the dissident group is to protest several aspects of the Williamsburg affair in a way that will pressure the Administration to do more to solve the persistent problem of hunger and malnutrition in this country.

Leader of the group is Robert Choate, whose independent studies led to the "discovery" of the hunger problem three years ago. His reports were largely responsible for getting prominent Senators to recognize hunger as a major problem despite the nation's phenomenal affluence.

The White House conference in December, 1969, was the culmination of Senate hearings, a dramatic television program ("Hunger in America"), a widely acclaimed book ("Let Them Eat Promises") and numerous news reports indicating that hunger was very real for millions of Americans.

Choate became one of the principal organizers of the 1969 conference, but before the conference was over, he had become openly critical of some aspects of the affair.

HE IS particularly critical of the Williamsburg conference. He calls it an attempt by the Administration to "hand-select people who will pat Nixon on the back." Choate was not invited.

Also not invited were representatives of a dozen task forces which Choate helped set up for the 1969 conference. The task forces were designed to give consumers, the poor, women's groups and similar elements a voice in the conference proceedings.

The Williamsburg conference will include chairmen and vice chairmen of the panels, dominated by industry and academic people, who were given the principal authority to make recommendations. Task force reports went far beyond those of the formal panels in urging government action to eliminate hunger and malnutrition.

Choate readily concedes that the Nixon Administration has already done much more in this respect than preceding Democratic Administrations. But he says that is far from enough.

With a reference to the President's interest in football, he compares the present situation to "giving away the ball game on the 40-yard line," because of cuts in funds for some food distribution programs.

ALONG WITH others in the so-called "hunger lobby" here, Choate wants to hold a conference that includes task force representatives and residents of areas where hunger and malnutrition are worst.

An informal collection of people representing labor unions, religious groups and citizen groups is trying to reaise enough money to pay transportation costs for 50 to 100 delegates who could not afford to come at their own expense.

Although no political leaders are actively involved, pressure for more action is building up on Capitol Hill.

Scenic Drive Vs. Safety Issue Poses Hard Decision For Tiburon

Tiburon residents must decide whether the preservation of the Richardson Bay shoreline is worth added congestion along Tiburon Boulevard in the next decade.

This prospect emerges from a report on future widening of Tiburon Boulevard. The document was prepared by the Joint Balanced Transportation Committee, a group of Belvedere and Tiburon residents.

The report was the subject of a public hearing Thursday in Tiburon and two future meetings are planned, one for Belvedere and the other a joint session of the Belvedere and Tiburon planning commissions.

The report, which differs from proposals advanced by the California Division of Highways, suggests that Tiburon Boulevard be made four lanes from Reed Ranch Road (where the present four-lane portion ends) to Avenida Miraflores, then narrow to two lanes the rest of the way to downtown Tiburon.

The proposal would retain the present Tiburon Boulevard from downtown to Avenida Miraflores and build the new two-lane highway several hundred feet away between the bayshore and residences in the Pine Terrace-Sommers Court areas.

The old Tiburon Boulevard, the report suggests, should be kept as a local service road so as not to force residents whose driveways connect with the highway to back out into high-speed traffic.

In these areas the city should swap its recently acquired railroad right-of-way to the state for property closer to Richardson Bay, the report says. The planned bicycle and pedestrian path then could be built closer to the shore.

The major concern of residents at Thursday's meeting, Moody said, was the portion of highway between "the Knoll" near Avenida Miraflores and the Belvedere Tennis Club. Residents of Pine Terrace almost unanimously opposed building the road along the bay, he said.

"But someone must make a policy decision on whether we're to accept higher congestion and potential danger in order to preserve the shoreline and keep it natural," Moody said, pointing out that traffic is expected to double within 10 years.

The committee strongly opposes state plans to build the highway through the Knoll and filled land now leased by Tiburon for Richardson Bay Park. "It would be inappropriate to use the flat, water-related (Richardson Bay Park) land for a highway," it says.

Tiburon Boulevard should be a "scenic drive," the report says, "designed to create a pleasurable driving experience. Landscaping, lane separation, reasonably slow traffic speeds, orientation to views and separation from pedestrian and bicycle traffic" should be included.

The report will be presented to Belvedere residents Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Belvedere Community Center. The Belvedere and Tiburon planning commissions will hold a joint hearing on the plan Feb. 17 at 7:30 p.m. in the Reed School auditorium. A joint meeting of the Tiburon and Belvedere city councils is tentatively planned for March 15 at 7:30 p.m., also at Reed School.

A 20-year-old Canadian hitchhiking through Marin has told sheriff's deputies he was robbed at knifepoint by two men who gave him a ride late Thursday.

The incident occurred about 10:30 p.m., according to the sheriff's office.

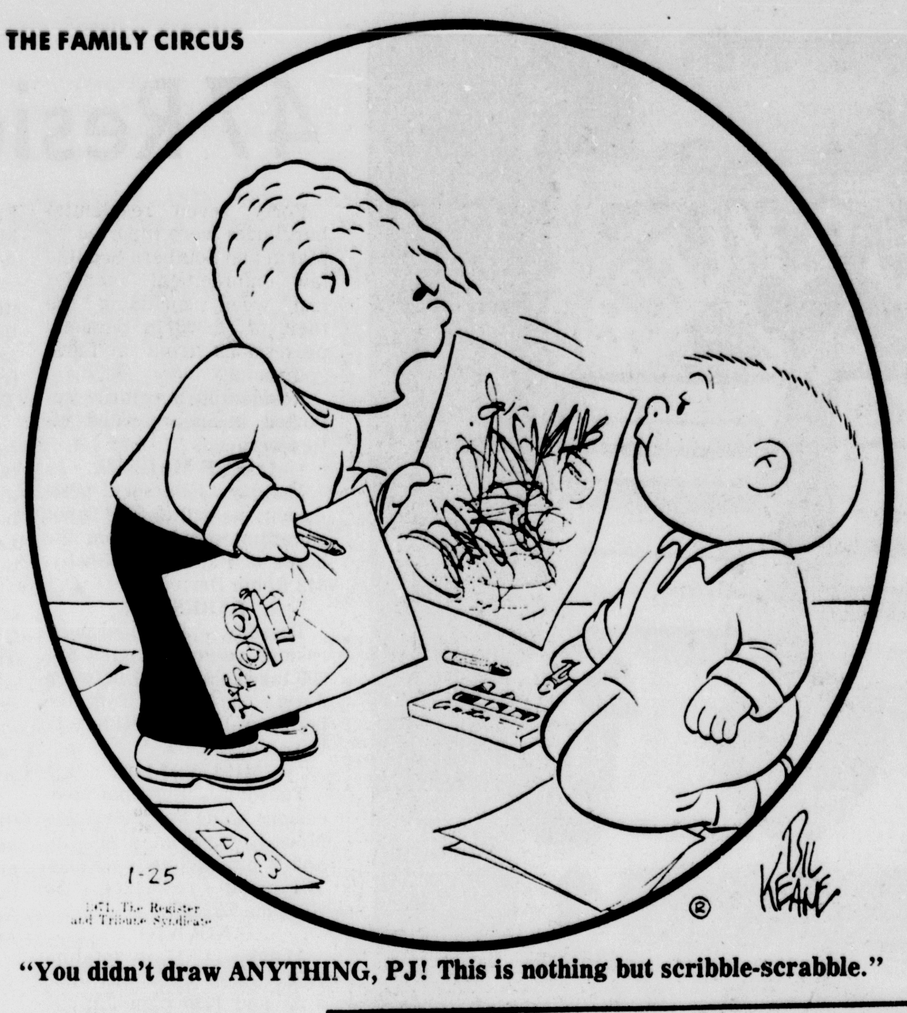
THERE OUGHT TO BE A LAW

THE FAMILY CIRCUS



"You didn't draw ANYTHING, PJ! This is nothing but scribble-scrabble."

ALMANAC

Today is Monday, Jan. 25, the 25th day of 1971.

The moon is new. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars and Jupiter. The evening star is Saturn.

Those born on this day are under the sign of Aquarius.

On this day in history:

In 1890 the United Mine Workers Union was formed and affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

In 1968 President Johnson asked the U.N. Security Council to take action against North Korea on the seizure of the U.S.S. Pueblo and its 83 crewmen.

In 1969 expanded peace talks began in Paris on the Vietnam War.

A thought for today: Philosopher William James said, "Be not afraid of life. Believe that life is worth living and your belief will help create that fact."

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

The Squeeze And The Right Way To Try Key Finesse

A practical expert would gladly give up everything he knows about such advanced plays as the squeeze if he could only guess the right was to finesse. In most hands you don't have to be an expert to guess right: tossing a coin might be as good a way as any to make the right decision. But there are exceptional cases, like the hand recently played by Bob Mann, better known as a television producer than as a bridge player.

TRUMP LEAD

Mann won the trump lead, continued with a trump to dummy and returned a low heart since he could prevent the loss of a club trick if East had the ace of hearts. Unfortunately, West captured the king of hearts with the ace and returned the king of clubs to force out the ace.

Now the contract depended on losing only one diamond trick. The traditional method is to lead a diamond to dummy's ace and return a low diamond. When East plays low, South tries to guess whether to play the ten or the queen of diamonds.

This type of guess will work about 75% of the time. In the remaining 25% no guess will succeed, since West will have both the king and the jack of diamonds. Mann suspected he was dealing with a case of this kind since West had made a takeout double of one spade and therefore surely had most of the missing strength.

EXECUTES END PLAY

Mann decided to rely on an end play instead of a guess. He cashed the queen of hearts, ruffed a heart in dummy and then led dummy's eight of clubs. East stepped up with the nine of clubs and returned the nine of diamonds.

Declarer put up the ten of diamonds in the hope that East had led from the jack. If so, West's king would be trapped.

LOW FROM DUMMY

As it happened, West was able to play the jack of diamonds on South's ten. Declarer thereupon played low from dummy, allowing West to keep the lead.

West had no safe return. If West led a heart or a club, dummy could ruff while South discarded a diamond. West actually returned a low diamond, and declarer made his contract by allowing this to ride around to the queen.

DAILY QUESTION

♠ - 7 6
♥ - A J 10 5
♦ - K J 4
♣ - K Q 7 6.
What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one heart. Your 14 points in high cards make an opening bid mandatory, even without counting one point in addition for the doubleton. Most experts believe in bidding one heart with this kind of hand. Those who promise a five-card suit in an opening bid of one in a major suit would open this hand with one club.

Pipe Smokers Hit As Worst Polluters

LONDON (UPI) —Doctors advising smokers to switch from cigarettes to pipes are doing nothing but contributing to pollution of the atmosphere, the National Society of Nonsmokers charged Friday.

"The pipe is the foulest of air polluters," the society said in the latest issue of the British Medical Journal.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

One Should Study Microclimate If Moving For Health Reasons

A change of climate is recommended occasionally when a person has an illness that is aggravated by local weather condition. Pulling up stakes, however, requires thought and planning.

Making new friends and finding a new job are not easy, especially when a person is ill. Feelings, such as unhappiness and insecurity, may nullify the physical advantages of the most ideal climate. I usually advise a trial period of 3 to 6 months before the person makes a permanent move, as the new environment may not prove satisfactory.

Many mistakes are made because the area was not explored thoroughly. The general climate may be perfect but the immediate surroundings (micro-climate) may be far from healthy. The South sounds wonderful to a Chicagoan with asthma or heart disease. But he may become worse if he settles in an industrial area where the air is polluted or where smog or dust is a problem. Soot, rural dust and pollen are more likely to affect those who are active because they inhale a large volume of contaminants.

MICROCLIMATE changes from spot to spot. Temperature, wind and atmospheric conditions often vary considerably on the two sides of a hill or ridge. Those escaping from an allergy, such as asthma or hay fever, should study the microclimate before moving. Related allergies also may exist.

I recommended Arizona to a young housewife whose severe asthma could not be controlled in the hospital. When she stepped off the plane at Tucson, she was a new woman. An older man with an identical allergy also went to Arizona. He was back a week later, gasping, "I couldn't stand the dust." These are but a few of the reasons why a trial period is warranted, provided it will not create too great a hardship.

ARTHRITICS go through the same experience. Dry air is less disturbing but it is not a cure, and treatments similar to those given to people living in the North still are needed.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

San Rafael Plans Youth Snow Trip

Registration is on a first-come basis with a limit of 200 students. A fee will cover the bus trip, unlimited use of toboggans, snow saucers, sleds and a warming hut.

Registration may be made at the parks and recreation department at city hall.

NORMA BELL
Teacher of the week

TEACHER

Children More Able Now

When Norma Bell started teaching kindergarten in 1943, "if you taught them anything, everybody was delighted," she says.

Now it's different. Most of the kindergarten children arrive at school already able to write their names, and many begin to read and do number work in a grade that used to be "almost all baby-sitting," she says.

Mrs. Bell, who teaches kindergarten at San Clemente School in Corte Madera (in the Larkspur School District), is delighted with the change.

"We give them a great deal of reading readiness and numbers readiness," she says. "Last year one girl completed the first reader while in kindergarten."

Changed attitudes and discarding of the belief that 5-year-olds were not ready to start learning to read and work with numbers, are largely responsible.

But another reason is that the teachers are able to spend more time with each pupil.

Larkspur district uses team teaching, and Mrs. Bell is one of two teachers for a kindergarten that this year has only 22 pupils (last year it had 32). This makes much individual attention possible.

All of Mrs. Bell's teaching career has been in primary grades but not all in kindergarten. But kindergarten is what she likes best, she says with enthusiastic feeling.

She has been at San Clemente School since 1962, and in the Larkspur district since 1955. Earlier she had taught in Santa Maria and San Anselmo.

Livingston Bros. To Open Store

Livingston Bros. of San Francisco will open a store in the Northgate Mall, San Rafael.

Jack Anderson of Commercial Real Estate, San Francisco leasing agent for Northgate Mall, said the women's wear specialty store chain has signed a lease for the 15,000 square-feet vacated by H. Liebes and Co. last November. He said the company plans to do some remodeling but may open by March.

Liebes has now gone into bankruptcy and has also closed its main San Francisco store. Earlier this month, another chain, City of Paris, announced it will close its store at Northgate within the next 30 or 60 days and consolidate its operations in its main downtown San Francisco store.

Livingston Bros. was founded in San Francisco about 95 years ago. Its main store is now located at Grant Avenue and Geary Street. There are stores at the Stonestown Shopping Center, San Francisco; in Palo Alto, San Jose and in the Hillsdale Shopping Center, San Mateo.

Mail Embargo Due To Strike

Post offices will not accept mail for the British Isles because of a mail and telephone strike, according to San Rafael Postmaster Hugh Cassidy.

The embargo on mail bound for England, Scotland, Northern Ireland and Wales was ordered last Monday by the U.S. Postal Service. It went into effect on Wednesday. It does not effect mail to southern Ireland.

Letters to U.S. military personnel stationed in Britain will be accepted but only if they are addressed to military A.P.O. numbers, Cassidy said.

Recycling Depot Will Be Studied

A use permit to allow a recycling depot on land owned by the City of Mill Valley near the sewage treatment plant on Sycamore Avenue will be considered when the Mill Valley Planning Commission meets today at 8 p.m. at city hall.

Under the plan, advanced by Whole Systems, a San Francisco planning and design firm, two acres of city-owned land would be leased at a nominal sum.

Materials, collected from Mill Valley households at a monthly fee of $1, would be separated and sent to Bay Area salvage firms.

In other business, the commission will consider a unit development plan for 203 apartments proposed for 15 acres along Richardson Bay near Sabella's restaurant.

Office Building Plan Gets Nod

Revised plans for construction of an office building at 72 Main Street have been recommended for approval by the Tiburon Design Review board.

Planning Director Wayne E. Moody said the plans, previously submitted to the board by developer Fred G. Zelinsky, were redrawn to separate the structure from the Tiburon Vintners Building. The first plan showed the buildings connected.

Also part of the new plans were revised schemes for pedestrian access and landscaping, which the board approved, Moody said.

The board told Zelinsky to continue work on window proportions and roofline details and submit a precise plan for the structure to the city planning commission on Feb. 1.

Bids On Land To Be Opened

Bids on the 1.68-acre Harvard Avenue site, being sold by the Mill Valley School District, will be opened when the district board meets today at 8 p.m. at Park School.

The land, adjacent to Marin Terrace School, has been appraised at $33,360, and the bid amounts will have a bearing on the district's negotiations with the Tamalpais Community Services District for sale of another parcel, the 5.13-acre Eastwood site.

If bids at or near the appraised value are received, the school will be supported in its contention that the Eastwood land is worth $78,000. A services district appraisal puts the value at $55,000.

SEND NO MONEY NOW! — Examine the policy without obligation

PAY ONLY IF YOU DECIDE TO JOIN • NO AGE LIMIT • INTRODUCTORY OFFER LASTS ONLY 3 MORE DAYS.

NOW . . . you and your family can join this Extra Cash Income Plan with no red tape, no questions to answer, no medical examination, no age limit, without having to see a salesman and without any qualifications whatsoever. But you must mail your Enrollment no later than Midnight, Thursday, January 28, 1971

Why You Need This EXTRA CASH Plan In Addition To Ordinary Hospitalization And Medicare

You know, of course, that the tremendous jump in hospital costs has forced millions who already have hospitalization to dig into savings or go into debt. Even with Medicare, they risk using up their savings or, worse yet, turning to family and friends for help. In fact, very few people have enough savings, hospitalization or income to cover the TOTAL cost of being sick or injured.

How long could you stay in the hospital without worrying about the pile-up of daily expenses? Who will pay for the expenses of costly X-rays, doctor bills, drugs and medicines? And how about the expenses at home—rent, food, telephone and others that just go on and on? With expenses like these, could you avoid having your savings wiped out and your family life upset?

Better Safe Than Sorry

Wouldn't it be comforting to know these problems could be solved by your Extra Cash Income Plan—the plan that gives you $100.00 a week—IN CASH—tax-free—from the very first day you're in the hospital for up to 100 full weeks.

PAYS YOU CASH . . . $100.00 a week tax-free cash from first day in hospital!

PAYS YOU CASH . . . to a maximum of $10,000.00 for any hospital stay lasting 100 weeks!

PAYS YOU CASH . . . Money mailed direct to you—not to the doctor or hospital!

PAYS YOU CASH . . . in addition to hospitalization, Medicare and Workmen's Compensation!

Even If You Are Over 65
This Extra Income Plan Pays You Cash in Addition to Medicare and Other Insurance!

An absolute must now that YOUR share of hospitalization costs has increased 10% under Medicare!

Even though Medicare will pay most of your hospital expenses, it just can't cover everything. Your Extra Income Plan helps solve this problem by paying $100.00 a week, in cash, direct to you, for as long as 100 weeks . . . and gives you the privilege of spending this money any way you want to. With your total benefit amounting to $10,000.00 you'll never have to turn to your children or charity. You'll keep your financial independence and enjoy the peace of mind that this Plan's EXTRA CASH will give you.

Absolutely NO LIMIT On Age

This Plan welcomes you no matter what your age is—and without any qualifications whatsoever! Even if you're over 75 you're still eligible . . . provided, of course, that you fill in and mail the Enrollment Form during this limited enrollment period.

EXTRA CASH Gives Peace Of Mind and Security, Helps Replace Lost Income

Everything costs more these days. (Who knows better than you?) Hospital costs alone have TRIPLED in just a few short years . . . and they're expected to DOUBLE soon. While 7 out of 8 Americans have some hospital insurance, most find that benefits simply don't cover ALL the bills that mount up when sickness or accident strikes.

Union Fidelity created this low-cost Hospital Income Plan to help cover your UNCOVERED expenses while hospitalized . . . to put EXTRA CASH in your hand for bills from the doctor, the surgeon, the nurse, the druggist or anyone else who provides service and treatment you need and want. You may even have enough left over to help REPLACE any income you lose because of your confinement.

And remember: Your EXTRA CASH is paid direct to you . . . and you use it any way you want to.

These Are The Only Exclusions!

The new Union Fidelity "Extra Income Hospital Plan" has NO WAITING PERIODS. It covers you immediately for every possible kind of sickness and accident except, of course, hospitalization caused by mental disorders; act of war; pregnancy, childbirth or miscarriage; or care provided in a government hospital. It even covers you for any chronic ailment or pre-existing condition after your policy has been in force for only 2 years. EVERYTHING ELSE IS COVERED!

Send No Money—Special Offer Expires Midnight of Date Shown on Coupon Below!

To introduce you to this remarkable new Plan we make this unusual offer with a Money-Back Guarantee. Just fill in the Enrollment Form on this page and mail it before Midnight of the Expiration Date. A full month's protection will go into effect on the very day we accept your Enrollment Form.

When you receive your policy, take your time to examine it carefully. It's written to be easy to understand. There is NO FINE PRINT. Show it to any trusted advisor—your doctor, your lawyer, your clergyman. In fact, show it to your own insurance man . . . even though he probably works for another insurance company! If he is a personal friend, he wants what is best for you. So you can believe him when he tells you there is no better value available anywhere.

Even then, if you're not completely satisfied, return the policy within 30 days and your money will be cheerfully refunded with no questions asked. However, if you decide to continue this worthwhile protection, you may do so at these low rates:

Union Fidelity Monthly Rates

Age at Enrollment	Monthly Premium Per Person
0-18	only $2.50
19-39	only $3.80
40-54	only $4.80
55-64	only $5.80
65-74	only $6.80
75 and over	only $9.10

NOTE: The regular Monthly Premium shown here (for your age at time of enrollment) is the exact amount you will continue to pay for the life of your policy. It will never increase because you pass from one age bracket to the next! It won't even change because of frequent claims or the amount of money you collect. It can change only if there is a general rate adjustment affecting all policies of this type in your state.

How Can We Offer All This Protection for So Little?

If you're lucky, you can buy ordinary insurance at any time and pay regular rates. But NOW—with just a stroke of your pen—you can get Union Fidelity's $100 a week ($14.28 per day) Extra Cash Income Plan for the special low cost shown above. And how is this possible? BECAUSE UNION FIDELITY ENROLLS A LARGE NUMBER OF PEOPLE AT ONE TIME . . . direct by mail. This highly efficient "mass enrollment" cuts our costs to the bone. We are able to issue thousands of policies in a few short days. By this method our overhead expenses are reduced drastically. And the savings are passed on to you!

And bear this in mind: the rate you pay now will never be increased because of changes in your health or age—nor will your benefits ever be reduced!

18 Important Questions Answered

That tell you how Union Fidelity's $100.00-A-Week Extra Cash Income Plan gives you the protection you need—at amazingly low cost!

1. How much will this policy pay me when I go to the hospital?
   You will receive $100.00 per week.
2. When will my hospitalization benefits start?
   The day you enter the hospital.
3. Will I be paid if I am in the hospital for less than a full week?
   Yes. This new Plan pays if you are in the hospital for only a day, or a week, a month, a year.
4. Does this policy have any "waiting periods" before I can use it?
   No. It will go in force on the very same day that we receive your payment for the first month's coverage.
5. How long will I continue to receive my Extra Cash?
   For every day you are hospitalized for as long as 100 weeks for every covered accident or sickness.
6. Is there any red tape to join?
   No. We only ask you to complete and mail your Enrollment Form before the deadline date shown. No questions to answer. No salesman will call.
7. Suppose I collect benefits for a certain sickness or accident. What happens if I am hospitalized again for the same condition?
   You go back to collecting your $100.00 a week until you've been hospitalized for a total of 100 weeks and have collected $10,000.00. Then, if the same condition puts you back in the hospital after you've resumed your normal activities for six months, you become eligible to receive $100.00 a week again, for up to 100 additional weeks. Any new condition will be covered immediately, of course.
8. How may I use these benefit payments?
   You may use them any way you wish—for hospital and doctor bills, rent, food, household expenses or anything else. You alone decide how to use the money.
9. Why do I need your Extra Cash Plan in addition to my other insurance?
   Chances are your present hospital insurance won't cover all your hospital and medical expenses. Even if it did, you will still need extra cash to cover all your household expenses.
10. May I join if I am over 65?
    Yes. You are welcome to join no matter what your age is. This Plan has no age limit.
11. Can you drop me or raise my rate because of health reasons?
    No. We will never cancel or refuse to renew your policy for health reasons so long as you make your premium payments on time. Also, we guarantee that we will never cancel your protection or adjust your rate unless we take the same action with regard to all policies of this type in your state. You, of course, can drop your policy on any renewal date.
12. What is not covered by this policy?
    The only conditions not covered are hospitalization caused by mental disorders; act of war; pregnancy, childbirth or miscarriage; or care provided in a government hospital. You are even covered for any chronic ailment or pre-existing condition after your policy has been in force for only two years. Everything else is covered.
13. Can other members of my family take advantage of this special offer?
    Yes. Just add their names to the Enrollment Form when you fill it in.
14. Why is this offer good for a limited time only?
    Because by enrolling a large number of people at the same time our underwriting, processing and policy issue costs can be kept at a minimum. These savings, of course, are passed on to you.
15. Do I need a medical examination or a statement from my doctor?
    Definitely not. Send no money. Just fill in the Enrollment Form and mail today.
16. What other advantages are there of joining this Plan now?
    By joining now you do not need to complete a regular application—just the brief form in the lower right-hand corner of this page. Also, during this enrollment period, there are no other qualifications—no "waivers" or restrictive endorsements can be put on your policy.
17. How does the Money-Back Guarantee work?
    Examine your policy carefully in the privacy of your home. If for any reason you are not completely satisfied, return it within 30 days and we will promptly refund your money. Meanwhile, you will be protected while making your decision.
